Big Storm's Death Toll Passes 150

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Bitter cold and gale-force winds moved into New England today on the heels of a record-breaking snowstorm which took more than 150 lives as it swept from coast to coast.

The storm—the worst in New England history—caused damage in the millions of dollars as it buried Boston under 11-foot drifts, crushed Dixie with a numbing burden of ice, coated New York City and other major metropolises with a strait jacket of ice and snow and sent temperatures tumbling to record levels in the Midwest.

At least 152 persons in 30 states and the District of Columbia were killed by the vicious wintry onslaught. Massachusetts reported 22 dead, Pennsylvania had 16, Connecticut 14, New York 13 and New Jersey, 10.

Property damage from ice and snow neared two million dollars at Gadsden, Ala., alone. Boston officials estimated they would spend at least a million dollars cleaning up their storm-ravaged city.

The storm blew out to sea today, but snow flurries and 35-mile-an-hour winds plagued exhausted Northeastern workers struggling to clear the drifts.

Pennsylvania weather officials kept an eye on the thermometer and warned that a rapid thaw could turn mammoth drifts into a "disastrous" flood.

In the frost-bitten Midwest, Sioux City, Ia., reported a 22-degree-below-zero reading this morning to mark the fifth time in the last six days that a cold record was set.

The murderous near-blizzard hit hardest in:

New England: Snow depth totaled 19.7 inches in Boston, breaking all records in the 90-year history of the Weather Bureau there. Schools, stores, factories and airports shut down tight. Boston streets were impassable.

States of emergency were declared in the Massachusetts towns of Dighton, Fitchburg, Marshfield, Taunton and Waltham. Falmouth reported 22 inches of snow in 24 hours yesterday.

Road crews fought valiantly to keep highways open, but gave up when 50-mile-an-hour winds pushed the snow across the roads as quickly as they could be cleared.

Connecticut received 18 inches of snow — the heaviest amount in four years. A fire in Waterford killed three children because firemen couldn't get through snow-packed roads to their home.

In Rhode Island, Gov. Christopher Del Sesto called out the National Guard to help storm-stricken areas.

New York: Ten thousand men battled through the night to clear some of the world's most famous streets of 16 inches of hard-packed snow. Up to two feet fell in the city's suburbs and fast-freezing slush hampered clean-up operations throughout the area.

Commuter buses and trains returned to a semi-normal schedule, but at least 600 flights had been canceled at Idlewild and LaGuardia Airports.

The East: Sussex County in northern New Jersey reported 26 inches of snow Schools closed in Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Baltimore and Washington, D.C.

Temperatures dipped to their lowest reading of the year near Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, Cleveland and Baltimore. Melting snow in Washington grounded out an electric feeder line and threw the first floor of the Capitol into darkness.

The South: Probably hardest hit of all were Southern states unused to such wintry goings-on. Entire towns were isolated without electricity, telephones, heat, and, in some cases, food.

National Guard and Red Cross workers battled through heavy drifts and ice-slicked roads to reach the stricken communities.

The worst ice storm in 50 years crippled Chattanooga, Tenn. At West Jefferson, N.C., a small passenger-freight train slipped from its ice-coated tracks and skidded onto a highway and a bulldozer was dispatched to rescue 15 carloads of miners trapped by huge drifts.

Jackson and De Kalb Counties in northeast Alabama appealed to Gov. John Patterson by radio to declare an emergency and send aid. Georgia Gov. Ernest Vandiver asked the federal government to declare Lumpkin County a major disaster area.

The Midwest: Temperatures fell below zero as far south as southern Missouri and the Weather Bureau predicted two more days without relief. Sioux City, Ia., reported 22 degrees below zero.

More snow flurries were predicted today for the Northeast, East and south of the Great Lakes, the northern Rockies and Central Plains and from the Texas panhandle into Oklahoma.

Police Chief Says Confessed Killer Is Marin Bandit

San Rafael Terrorist Identified From Description And Sketch

The description of a murder suspect arrested yesterday at Phoenix, Ari., definitely identifies him as a man who terrorized a San Rafael mother and her two daughters Feb. 12, San Rafael Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa said today.

"He's our man, all right," said Chiesa. "The car tallies to a T as do other descriptive details. But I'm afraid we'll not be seeing him in a hurry."

First, other cities want Robert Elton Edwards worse. Second, he has indicated he will resist extradition, although Phoenix police say he has confessed to various California crimes including the slaying of a Costa Mesa housewife.

'QUITE CLOSE'

Mrs. Dawn Retallick of 138 Tamal Vista drive, the San Rafael victim, today said the sketch made by Marin Deputy Sheriff Edmond Mauberret from a description from her and a daughter was "quite close." The Independent-Journal printed the sketch yesterday.

"We were much impressed with Mr. Mauberret's work," Mrs. Retallick said. "On some points my daughter and I had slight conflict and he was skillful in pulling our stories together.

"About this man in Phoenix, my feeling is that 20 seems a little young for the man who came to our home."

PATTERN

The San Rafael case falls into a general pattern of crime which police have followed from city to city. In every instance the bandit either tied or chained his women victims.

What happened in San Rafael last Lincoln's birthday was that a young bandit (Edwards is 20, from Modesto) entered the Retallick home, drew a gun, took $10, and started to tie Mrs. Retallick and her 12-year-old daughter Leslie with a rope he took from a paper bag.

But he was frightened away when another daughter, Lane, 14, climbed out a bathroom window and went for help.

KILLS WOMAN

The slaying to which Edwards is said to have confessed occurred Wednesday in Costa Mesa where a bandit shot the 29-year-old mother of two when she broke and ran as he tried to chain her to a bed. He fled in a car which was seen and well described, as had been the case in San Rafael.

Edwards is said to have confessed not only to this, but to robberies of similar pattern in Bakersfield and Glendale.

But this only starts the list of cities which want Edwards for crimes of the same general sort. These include Salinas, Ventura, San Luis Obispo and Fresno, Chiesa said.

TALKS FREELY

Edwards is said by Phoenix police to have talked freely, but he shows no desire to travel.

Arraigned on a charge of unlawful flight, Edwards has refused to waive extradition.

San Rafael police said Edwards has a criminal record at Tucson, Ariz., that he has been involved in Newport Beach charges of armed robbery, grand theft and bad checks, and a bad check charge at Santa Ana.

Ike Cancels Golf Game, Delays Return

RAMEY AIR FORCE BASE, Puerto Rico (UPI) — President Eisenhower, bothered by a throat irritation, canceled a scheduled golf game today and stayed indoors to work on a report to the nation on his South American tour.

The White House announced he would remain an extra day in balmy Puerto Rico, returning to wintry Washington on Monday. Originally he was to have flown by jetliner tomorrow.

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty said that aside from a "husky" voice the President was "feeling fine." Hagerty added that the Presidents physician, Maj. Gen. Howard Snyder, had nothing to do with the desion to cancel the golf game today.

The President had seemed fatigued yesterday on the course at Dorado Beach. But he played 18 holes, and before he left he had scheduled another round for this morning.

New Explosions Jolt Havana Waterfront; 11 Workers Hurt

HAVANA (UPI) — Two hand grenades blew up on the Havana waterfront today, injuring 11 men cleaning up debris scattered by yesterday's explosion of a French munitions ship.

The number of dead in yesterday's blast was estimated by Havana newspapers at between 44 and 75 and today the semi-official newspaper Revolucion said it was caused by sabotage which "has its origin in the United States."

Persons at the scene of today's explosions said they apparently were accidental.

One grenade blew up at the Tella Piedra dock, about 100 yards from the ship explosion site, and the other at the dock for the ferry to Key West, Fla., about 300 yards away.

Six persons were injured in one blast and five in the other. They occurred between 8 and 9 a.m.

The explosion of the munitions ship scattered live ammunition over a wide area of the dockside, mixing it with wreckage.

The 11 injured men were rushed to a hospital. As many as 170 were reported injured yesterday and most officials put the death toll at "more than 50."

Revolucion, organ of Premier Fidel Castro's 26th of July movement, coupled the explosions of the ammunition ship with the fire bombing of cane fields by planes which the Castro regime has said fly out of Florida.

"Nothing seems to stop the homicidal hands that will drop live phosphorous or 100-pound bombs from planes coming from their dens in the United States — hands that made this ship explode because it carried material for the defense of Cuba," Revolucion said.

"Need there be any proof that this infamy has its origin in the United States under the protection of the alliance and the stimulus of the authorities?"

Revolucion said the United States was preparing economic aggression against Cuba, planning to reduce its sugar quota.

It also charged that President Eisenhower's South American trip was full of threats, pressures and mysterious conversations. It accused the United States of harboring Cuban war criminals.

Sausalito Rite Honors Sister City In Chile

The City of Sausalito dedicated its plaza in ceremonies today honoring its new sister city, Vina Del Mar, Chile. The program was held in the Central School, however, because of rainy weather.

Dedication ceremonies began with a breakfast for guests and city officials at the Alta Mira Hotel. A guest of honor was Eugene Ovalle, Chilean consul in San Francisco.

The public program included reading of a proclamation by Mayor Howard Sievers adopting the sister city of Vina Del Mar and naming the plaza in its honor.

The 6th Army Band played the national anthems of Chile and the United States.

After the dedication ceremonies, visitors attended the opening of the Trade Fair aboard the ferryboat Berkeley. An all-afternoon musical program was planned after the ribbon-cutting ceremony.

McCarthy Rips Brown Surplus-Spending Plan

I-J SPECIAL REPORT

SACRAMENTO—Marin Sen. John F. McCarthy lashed out today at Gov. Edmund G. Brown's proposal to use surplus state funds for constructing state buildings.

In an address to the legislator's luncheon of the California Republican Assembly annual convention, McCarthy said the state's "bond financing program is the only sound method to insure that obligations will be distributed equitably over the period of a project's usefulness. I am in definite disagreement with the governor's program of 'pay as you go' in lieu of using the bond money."

At the same time, McCarthy, the Republican leader in the State Senate, called for "further tax reductions" if Republicans "continue to explore the possibilities of economies" in government. He urged "every Republican lawmaker to "evaluate the merits" of having private enterprise contract with government agencies to perform many of their functions.

He called the GOP record in Sacramento "a tremendous one because it is the party of real progress." He stressed his "firm conviction" that the Republican Party "represents no particular individual or group, but is concerned with the problems and welfare of all the people."

On specific subjects he called for:

A Republican registration drive, with concentration on new people coming into California and "to winning over the independent Democrats."

Continued aggressive leadership to protect civil rights and a demonstration "to the people of this state that there is no bigotry in Republican ranks."

Another speaker, Assemblyman Joseph O. Shell (R-Los Angeles) likened the Brown administration to "the old Olson crowd," and predicted voters would revolt against the Democrats in the elections this year.

Shell referred to what he termed the "discredited Culbert L. Olson regime."

Olson, last Democratic governor in California before Brown, was elected in 1938 and defeated in 1942 by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

Shell, assembly minority leader, told CRA delegates:

"The thinking and actions of the old Olson crowd are being repeated in stronger fashion by Pat Brown with some additional curli-cues.

"We have the same situation that existed 20 years ago. And the public reaction is going to be the same. The Democratic control of the Legislature no longer will exist after the 1960 elections."

Shell accused Brown of a "soft attitude" on law enforcement. He cited the governor's action in the Caryl Chessman case and his proposal to abolish capital punishment.

Charles S. Feeney, vice president, said he talked with Cepeda by telephone and they quickly reached agreement."

Feeney said Cepeda would leave his Puerto Rico home by plane Tuesday and arrive Wednesday.

Liquor At School Dance Brings Parent Demand For Controls

Brookside School parents in San Anselmo—concerned over a drinking incident at a school dance last week—decided last night that (1) more chaperones are needed at the dances and (2) the school yard should have more lights.

Miss Jean Stover, Brookside principal, said the parents want to have a set of unwritten rules for dances, which have been in effect all along, spelled out and put in writing.

At a school dance a week ago yesterday a 15-year-old eighth-grade boy took a bottle of liquor into the school yard and left it under a bench outside, then at the dance kept bragging about his drinking prowess, Police Chief Raymond R. Buchignani reported. Someone called police.

The youth, a parolee from the California Youth Authority, has been suspended from school and is now at Juvenile Hall.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon called by Supt. Harold R. DePue, parents' representatives agreed to appoint a dance chairman and set up a schedule for chaperones and a list of guides for chaperones and student conduct.

About 35 parents attended last night's meeting and heard a clarification of what happened at the dance. Miss Stover said that the whole incident had been "blown out of proportion."

The school always has a school representative and about six parents at each dance as chaperones, Miss Stover said.

Brown Sees Little Hope For Abolition Of Death Penalty

While Gov. Edmund G. Brown virtually abandoned hope for abolition of California's death penalty in the atmosphere of "the Chessman case," attorneys for Caryl Chessman went to the state Supreme Court with a petition to contest the May 2 death date just set by a Los Angeles superior court judge.

"The climate is not good for fair discussion of the death penalty issue this year," said the governor in intimating that he'll try again next year.

Ten of 15 members of the Senate Judiciary Committee, which has a capital punishment abolition bill under consideration, said they still favor the death penalty.

Chessman's attorney George T. Davis put before the top tribunal the issue of whether Superior Judge Clement D. Nye had any right to set a ninth execution date during the period of a 60-day governor's reprieve.

He also pointed out that "physical presence" of a defendant during every stage of prosecution is required by Article 1, Sec. 13, of the state constitution, and Chessman remained in San Quentin Prison while Nye set the new date in Los Angeles.

Davis argued that nearly 12 years' suspense would make Chessman's execution now both unjust and "un-Christian." He raised again the federal issue of faulty trial transcript.

Arguments in opposition will be promptly filed, said Deputy Atty. Gen. Arlo Smith.

College Seeks Homes For African Students

The College of Marin is seeking the names of Marin County residents willing to provide housing in 1960-61 for four students from Kenya, British East Africa.

President Ward H. Austin today asked interested persons to communicate with him.

At their last meeting, trustees of Marin Junior College District expressed willingness to accept four Kenya students for enrollment at the college next fall. They directed Austin to make inquiries about local housing for the students.

A letter asking about College of Marin opportunities for Kenya students was received by Austin in January from Tom Mboya, leader of the Kenya independence movement and president of the Nairobi Peoples' Convention Party.

"Educational facilities and opportunities for Africans are seriously lacking in this country," Mboya wrote. "The students whom I would recommend to you for admission and scholarships would be of excellent academic and moral standards. They just could not go to a local college because there was no place for them in the only university college which serves the vast East African territories with a population of over 20 million."

Mboya said every student sent to the United States from Kenya "would leave this country with at least $300 for incidental expenses in addition to the amount required for tuition room and board."

Austin's letter of reply declared, in part: "We have no dormitories or housing on the campus. A student living away from home would have difficulty finding room and board in this area. We are, however, about one hour by bus from San Francisco, where adequate housing could be secured."

On Feb. 12, Mboya wrote Austin to inquire "whether the college is responsible for the housing arrangement, especially regarding foreign students. If so, I would very much appreciate your assistance in this respect."

The college board asked Austin to try to secure local housing for the East Africans after questioning his views about availability.

U.S. Termed 'Unique In Violence'

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—A Stanford University professor has charged that the United States is a uniquely criminal and violent nation compared to other countries.

William M. McCord, assistant dean of the School of Humanities and Sciences at Stanford, said this country has a burglary rate eight times that of France, a rape rate nine times that of Italy and a homicide rate 10 times that of England.

Thus, he said at a California Youth Authority training institute, a child born in the United States has a 10 times greater chance of becoming a delinquent than a child in England.

McCord blamed the crime rate on the fact that various groups within society have unequal means of obtaining their primary ambition — the accumulation of material wealth. He said this would account for high delinquency rates among minority groups who would have more frustrations in seeking success.

McCord pointed out that most delinquents come from emotionally disturbed and immoral homes. He said that delinquency was almost unknown among Jewish people because of strong family controls.

Youth Fellowship Meets Tomorrow

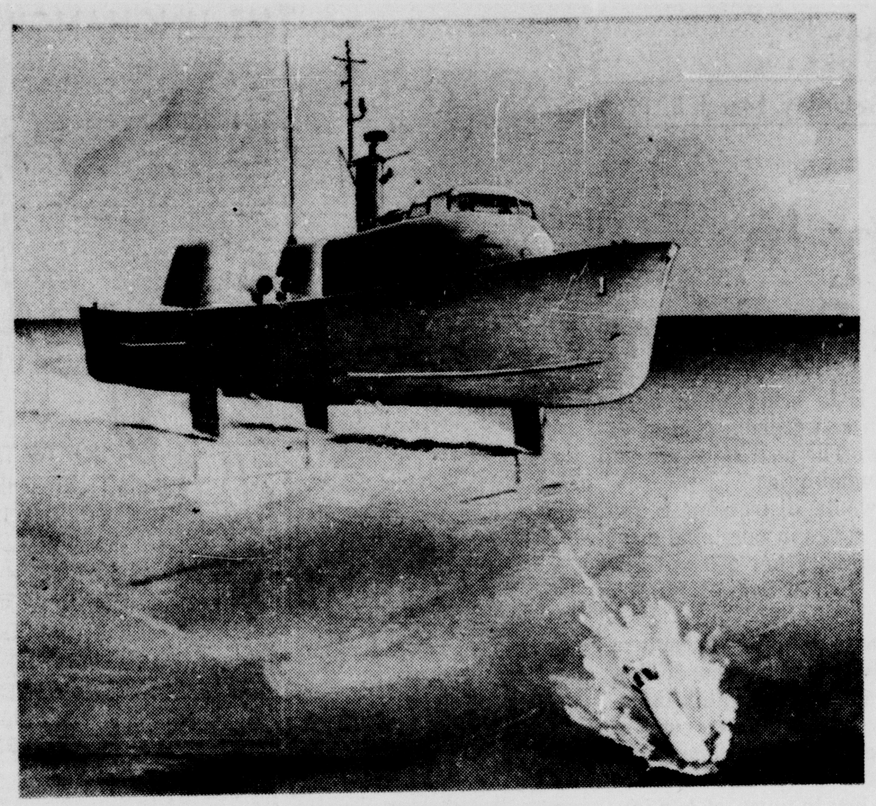
The Young People's Fellowship of St. Stephen's Episcopal Church in Belvedere will meet, with parents, for a discussion at 6 p.m. tomorrow in Whitaker Hall.

According to fellowship director Mrs. Dick De Berry, dinner will be served.

The Semi-annual Convocation of Marin, which fellowship members will attend, will be March 20 at St. John's Church in Ross from 4:30 to 9:30 p.m., Mrs. De Berry said.

Novatan Appointed

Dr. Edward L. Kessel of Novato was appointed last week to the commission on race and culture of the Northern California-Nevada Council of Churches.



NEW SUB-KILLER

This is the design for the Navy's first hydrofoil ship, for which a construction contract will be awarded this year. The high-speed patrol craft is designed to detect and destroy modern submarines. Equipped with homing torpedoes and long-range submarine detection equipment, the 115-foot, 110-ton craft will have retractable, fully submerged hydrofoils. It will be able to operate at higher speeds than conventional craft.

During the week also, Mass will be held daily at 9 a.m.

Rev. John Cunningham of Marin Catholic High School, will preach the Wednesday evening Lenten series.

Children's Choir Formed By Church

A children's choir has been formed at the Mill Valley Episcopal Church of Our Saviour which has as its purpose the broadening of the scope of participation of church school children, grades two through six, in the life of the parish.

The choir meets at 10:30 a.m. Saturdays, in Hammond Hall at the church, under direction of Dr. Brenner. Brenner is a music graduate of San Franciso State College.

Dr. Fred C. Schwarz, executive director of the Christian Anti-Communist Crusade, will speak on a recent world trip at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the Marin Lutheran Church in Corte Madera. The public meeting will be followed by a reception.

Conference Told Of Bay Debris Problem

The dumping of debris in San Francisco Bay has increased tremendously since the ban on open burning.

This fact was made known yesterday by Col. John S. Harnett before the third Bay Region marine affairs conference luncheon at the Alta Mira Hotel in Sausalito.

Col. Harnett, district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers in San Francisco, said the dumping has increased greatly in the past 18 months. He said two tugs are used to clean up debris and the engineers burn the debris at the rate of three tons per hour at their incinerator at Sausalito. He said there is also a possibility of getting another debris-collecting boat soon.

Henry R. Rolph, chairman of the conference and executive of the Marin Exchange Inc. in San Francisco, asked conference attendees to urge their county and city officials to pass ordinances, if there were none at present, to prohibit people from dumping debris in th bay. He said, when ordinances are in effect, they should be enforced by law enforcement agencies.

Regarding dredging work on the San Rafael creek, Col. Harnett said, "There certainly is a need to do dredging there but there are no funds this year."

Carroll Snyker, manager of the Marin Industrial Development Foundation, said, "We are pursuing this with Congressman Clement W. Miller (D-Corte Madera)."

Col. H. A. Morris of the Army Corps of Engineers in Sacramento spoke on the Sacramento River deep-water ship channel project.

Following the luncheon, some of the conference members, representing the 12 Bay Area counties, visited the model of San Francisco Bay in Sausalito.

Quentin Officer In County Jail

A San Quentin correctional officer was booked in Marin County Jail Thursday night on suspicion of drunken driving after a two-car collision in San Rafael about 7:50 p.m.

Harry John Wesley, 43, who lives at a San Rafael motel and works at the prison, was jailed in lieu of $315.50 bail.

Police Officer Eugene Frederick said Wesley's car, northbound on Irwin street near the overpass, apparently went over the center line and collided with a southbound car driven by Rudolph Victor Hallenbarter, 48, of 343 Jewell street, San Rafael. No one was reported hurt.

Second Breakfast Of Series Slated

The second in a series of Lenten breakfasts planned especially for the men of Novato will be held at Cloud Five on Wednesday morning from 7 to 7:45 o'clock.

The devotional for this Wednesday's meeting will be led by Rev. Ole Winter who will speak on "The Domain of the Kingdom." The first breakfast, held last Wednesday, was led by Rev. Kenneth Cleator, whose theme was "The Head of the Kingdom."

Corte Madera Building Activity Shows Gain

Corte Madera building activity increased last month, with 14 permits issued for construction work totaling $109,406.

The figure, up $16,566 over January and $58,337 over February, 1959, includes six one-family homes valued at $99,896, Building Inspector William G. McBride reported. Fee collected by McBride last month totaled $600.90.

Here Is No. 1 Priority In Combating Juvenile Problem

Five years ago the Governor's Advisory Committee on Children and Youth protested the lack of rehabilitation programs for girls in trouble. As a result, a study, financed by the Rosenberg Foundation was launched to find out just what the situation is.

This week, the report came in. Older girls, 16 to 24, who break the law are more often than not "written off as hopeless" and little effort made to rehabilitate them, it showed.

There were many disturbing examples. Twenty-eight young women, aged 21 to 24, had been arrested a total of 287 times, 173 times for drunkenness, greatest single cause of girls' arrests. Such girls are not given the consideration that is given their male counterparts, the study showed.

There were a dozen or so major suggestions made by the study. The first, which would result in "significant improvements," is to bring about better communication and coordination of existing facilities. The next steps are "up to the local communities."

From the whole distressing report, the thing that sticks in our mind was a statement from a teacher at Los Guilucos School for Girls at Santa Rosa. She said:

"They seem to be hoping to capture from each adventure or escapade that which they can not find within themselves. They are not aware of the peace and security which comes from self-control and self-discipline."

Here is the key to much of our juvenile problem of both boys and girls. Our real job, the job of the parents, the churches, the schools and the communities, is to put something into our youth so they can find that peace and security.

That's the job we'd better make No. 1 on our priority list.

A Worthy, Catholic Cause

Tomorrow in Catholic churches throughout Marin and in other parishes of the archdiocese of San Francisco, a special collection will be taken up. This is the annual charity appeal of Archbishop Mitty. Proceeds from it go to help families and children.

The funds go to support the 12 offices of Catholic Social Service, which last year handled 14,000 requests for help.

Catholic Social Service of Marin, one of the 12, last year gave counseling to 639 families and individuals. It provided for 80 child welfare cases, assisted 11 unmarried parents and handled foster home applications for 30 local children.

This alone is a fine service. Yet there is more. In some previous years, more money was needed in Marin than was needed elsewhere. Other communities contributed to help Marin establish its own social service unit.

Now Marin, through its fine unit, its auxiliary and junior auxiliary, does not need to draw as heavily on the archbishop's funds. Therefore some of Marin's money goes to help other communities of the Bay Area which are not so fortunate.

This, the Catholics of Marin have been generous in doing. We're sure they will be generous again this year.

MARIN LOOKS AT POLITICS

A Legislator About To Retire Thinks A Lot About His Next Job

By CHAPIN A. DAY

What does a legislator think about in his last session in Sacramento after 20 years in the Capitol?

What he's going to do next is a major concern of Marin Assemblyman Richard H. McCollister right now.

There are some nice aspects to the situation. McCollister will retire on a pension of 75 per cent of whatever the salary of the legislators is. Right now, the salary is $500 per month, so he will receive $375 per month. If the constitutional amendment raising legislator's salaries passes next November, their salaries would go up to $750 per month and McCollister's retirement pay up to $562.50.

But there are jobs to be had, or at least there are prospective jobs. There was the possibility McCollister might have lobbied for the dairy industry. But the assemblyman said he turned that job down on the basis he was sure the matter of increasing prices at milk drive-ins would be before the solons again and he feared he wouldn't be able to get it passed next session either.

"I certainly don't want to be a freshman lobbyist who loses his first bill," McCollister declared.

Now, however, overtures are being made, he added, by the milk drive-ins.

Also there is a "national industry, one which has a foundation in connection with it, that has spoken to me about representing them here," McCollister declared. Decision may be made in this case by the end of the month.

A group of small industries "are considering hiring a man to guide them in political campaigns and to represent them before the legislature," he went on. That may be decided by March 15.

Then there is an intriguing prospect for McCollister which is not jelled as yet. This would be as public relations representative and lobbyist for a national concern, but he would be stationed in Hawaii. McCollister's mouth waters as he thinks of entertaining visiting big-wigs in the Islands and the life around the nation's newest state legislature.

Whatever happens, however, McCollister is not thinking of returning to Marin County or to real estate. Neither is he going to seek any other elective office.

How about an appointive office?

"I'd like that," the assemblyman said. "Governor Knight had told me he would appoint me to the State Personnel Board. But it might be rather hard for Governor Brown to appoint the former Republican floor leader to a position when there are a lot of Democrats who think they elected him."

But McCollister hasn't given up all hope of appointment: "It just might happen."

And that's what a legislator thinks about during his last session.

IT MAY SURPRISE a few people, but Senator John F. McCarthy of Marin seems certain to be one of the California delegation to the Republican National Convention in Chicago next July, pledged to Richard Nixon.

Those who may be surprised are those who remember that McCarthy was one of the Republicans who did much to see that New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller got around the state of California and met the right people. That was just before the governor decided against seeking the GOP nomination. Incidentally, a Sacramento newspaper mentioned McCarthy last week for governor, but the Marin senator says he's only thinking about re-election right now.

LAST WEEKEND the Marin County unit of COPE, the Committee on Political Education, elected officers and endorsed some candidates. COPE is the political organization used by labor to raise funds and support candidates favorable to labor stands.

One of the people they endorsed and recommended to the state COPE is Charles Geller as a candidate for McCarthy's Senate seat.

Unusual thing about it is that Geller has to our knowledge not officially announced as a candidate, although he's undoubtedly in the race. Another unusual thing is that the Marin COPE unit at the same meeting elected Geller its secretary-treasurer.

MARIN'S COUNTY display in the State Capitol is missing. In its place on the main floor is a sign which says:

"The Marin County Display is having its face lifted. Meanwhile, why not visit the county that has everything. Thank you."

We'd feel better about it if it was a little more explicit as to just which county "has everything."

Incidentally, the display is being refurbished by Sausalito artist A. A. "Red" Raymond, the man who designed it and put it there in the first place.

Marinites Helped World's Children

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The many residents of Marin County who helped the world's needy children by sending UNICEF greeting cards last fall will no doubt be gratified to learn how much their generosity has helped to accomplish.

Through the selfless efforts of the "AAUN Marin Chapter," headed by Mrs. Nancy Sutter, 1,976 boxes of UNICEF greeting cards were sold in Marin County in 1959. In terms of the aid given by the United Nations Children's Fund to over 55 million needy children and mothers in 104 countries, this represents one of the following:

1—Enough BCG vaccine to protect 98,800 children from tuberculosis.

2—Enough DDT to protect 7,904 children from malaria for one year.

At the same time, sales in the United States totaled 6,350,000 cards, an increase of 22% over the previous year. On the world level, 14,000,000 cards were sold in 75 countries, an increase of 28.5% over 1958.

The U.S. Committee for UNICEF is proud to express its heartfelt gratitude to the residents of Marin County, and to the "AAUN Marin Chapter," who made this possible.

Death Penalty Should Be Ended

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Forty-one foreign countries and eight states in the U.S. have eliminated the death penalty by law or tradition. It is time that California recognizes that capital punishment is morally wrong, ineffective and unjust.

Society must protect its members, but does destruction of an occasional criminal protect us? Statistics show the death penalty is NOT a deterent.

Is the death penalty a just one? Studies show the innocent are occasionally executed in error. Also, the death penalty in the U.S. is carried out against poor criminals who cannot afford to employ the best defense attorneys.

If it is evil for us to take life as individuals, how can we justify killing in the name of the State. For the state to condone capital punishment is an admission that it does not believe in the redemption of the individual — a belief basic to religious and democratic principles.

Let us hope that our representatives — men of conscience and imagination — will vote to abolish the death penalty during this session of the Legislature.

Prejudice Fanned By Pledge Signing

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

Re: Your editorial lauding the Marin Committee for Fair Play: Signing a pledge " . . . to recognize the right of Negroes and Orientals to rent or buy housing in my immediate neighborhood and I will accept them as neighbors," solves no racial or social problems.

Rather, circulation of such, fans smoldering embers of prejudice.

To be accepted as a neighbor, anyone, regardless of race creed or economic status, first must prove himself worthy. It cannot be done by edict or pledge. Do-gooders overlook this important factor in their hasty zeal to integrate or communize all people at a common level.

The tendency to build homes, rear children and live in communities with persons of similar social level is strong. It is the American way of life and needs no apology. Also, integration has advanced greatly in recent years. Hasty, pressure attempts by starry-eyed reformers to bring quick acceptance however, will bring only resentment and further delay.

Let Chessman Explore Space

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

While the controversy rages concerning Caryl Chessman and capital punishment, I have a suggestion to make which might ease the taxpayer's burden and leave the headlines free for more pressing problems.

How about using these social outcasts as explorers of space? Chessman surely could do anything of which a monkey is capable. We could give the monkeys their freedom and Chessman, who seems destined to be front page news, would be doing something useful at last. He might even like to volunteer.

Many less notorious criminals have offered themselves for experimental or philanthropic purposes.

BENNETT CERF

Rolfe Peterson, the life of every party in Salt Lake City — in fact, in all Utah — is in cahoots with a writer of an advice-to-the lovelorn column named Pamela Cadiac. Here's a letter, adds Rolfe, Pamela received:

"Dear Pamela: Ever since my husband saw a movie called Moby Dick, he has been driving me to distraction. The movie impressed him so deeply that he went right out and bought a harpoon. He waves it around all the time hollering, 'Thar she blows!' The other night while I was watching TV he let go of the harpoon and knocked out our picture tube. I'm afraid he'll harpoon me next. What can I do? (Signed) Landlubber."

Pamela answered, "Dear Landlubber: Here's how you can help. Some night when he's sound asleep, holler 'Thar she blows!' in his ear, rock the bed violently and empty a bucket of cold water over him. When he's fully awake I'm sure he'll have lost a good deal of his enthusiasm for whaling. Meanwhile, be of good cheer but — don't let him have a clear shot at you. (Signed), Pamela Cardiac."

Longest Baby Born At Marin General; No Police Chief At All For Novato?

A new champion was born at Marin General Hospital last Saturday by the name of David Sovulewski.

He weighed in at 9 pounds 14 ounces, which isn't a record by any means. But his height: Twenty-three and one-half inches! If you can top that, don't call me. Go see young Dave, who is ready to take on all comers.

He is the first child of Fairfax hardware salesman James G. Sovulewski.

SPEAKING OF champions, we mis-spelled the name of champion traffic tagger in San Rafael a couple of weeks ago.

She is Roselle Anderson, one of three meter-maids who always seem to be right there just as your meter time runs out.

IT WAS A quiet day in San Rafael on Washington's Birthday. Stores and schools closed.

So when a sharp-eyed highway patrolman spotted a school bus lumbering up the highway, he flagged it down and asked the woman driver: "Don't you know it's a holiday, or are you stealing the bus?"

The lady driver was indignant. But how was the officer to know that the 3-R School was in session. Its motto: "The best way to serve our country is to educate the youngsters, holiday or no holiday."

LATEST SPECULATION in Novato is that there won't be any police chief there for a year or two.

They are giving odds that the new city will contract with the sheriff to handle law enforcement for them for a while.

NORRIS RAWLES, supt. of public works for San Rafael, has turned author. In the Western City Magazine for February is a big article with pictures on San Rafael's new Fourth street lights.

The author is Rawles. His only complaint is that the editors scratched out his favorite line: "San Rafael has the brightest main street west of Chicago."

AMERICA'S STANDARD of living is definitely on the rise. Just a few years ago, "hobo jungle" in Marin used to be any open space along railroad tracks and tunnels. Now they're using late model cars parked in downtown used-car lots for their "jungle."

THE SHERIFF'S Marine Patrol is coming out in snappy uniforms this season. They've dug into their own pockets to buy Navy chief-type caps, khaki uniforms, new shoulder patches, and black ties.

Their flagship is Al Kelly's 30-foot cruiser, powered by two engines, each with 220 horsepower. Even bigger cruisers are joining the fleet soon.

WOMEN HERE are the world's best dressed because they learn good grooming from infancy.

A young lady came up with this excuse for being absent from grammar school the other day: She couldn't attend classes because she "just got a new hairdo" that didn't do her justice.

PROBLEM FOR CONGRESS

Higher Minimum Pay Or More Coverage?

By Congressional Quarterly

WASHINGTON—Pay raises for millions of American workers are at stake in the congressional controversy over changing the federal minimum wage law.

Indications are that the long-simmering wage question may boil into one of the big campaign issues of 1960, and several White House aspirants may be singed in the process.

There are two key issues:

1—Raising the present $1 minimum, unchanged since 1955.

2—Bringing additional milions under the law.

IN PREPARING his testimony for this week's hearings before the House Labor Standards Subcommittee, Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell was faced with some thorny tasks on both fronts.

Mitchell's difficulty stems from a drive by Senate Democratic leaders to increase the compulsory minimum to $1.25 and bring at least six million workers under the law.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D, Mass.) is spearheading the campaign, supported by the AFL-CIO. A bill sponsored by Kennedy (S 1046) will soon be reported by the Senate Labor and Public Welfare Committee. It would raise the minimum wage of about 6.7 million persons, including many clerks in the big retail stores and service establishments.

MITCHELL HAS long opposed the $1.25 figure, on grounds that, instead of helping many employees in low-wage industries, it would prove so much of a burden to employers that many persons would be fired.

In 1959, Mitchell opposed any raise in the minimum whatsoever, and in turn was roundly attacked by organized labor. Mitchell altered his wage position in a report to Congress last month.

Preparing the way for an increase, he said that his latest surveys showed that the industries most affected by the last minimum wage boost in 1955 had now adjusted to it pretty well. He said a "modest increase" would now be in order, but he intimated that too much increase could place these industries and their workers in real trouble.

While attempting to blunt the Democratic drive for $1.25, Mitchell also has been pressed to defend his own coverage proposals, which bring in about 3.1 million additional workers.

The coverage problem is one of the most complicated in the minimum wage field. The present law affects only about 24 million out of a U.S. labor force of 65 million. Farm workers, executive and professional people and many others are left out, in some cases because they are self-employed, in others because they are not involved in interstate commerce; many are exempted by specific clauses in the law. There have been no substantial changes in coverage since the wage-hour law was first voted in 1938.

BOTH THE ADMINISTRATION and the Democratic leaders have expressed a determination to make 1960 the big year for coverage extension. There are indications that the AFL-CIO, anxious to bring in more members in the retail field, may bargain more strongly for coverage extension than for the full $1.25 minimum, if it comes to a hard choice.

Retail merchants, theaters, restaurants, hotels, manufacturers and other potentially affected groups are opposing many of the wage and coverage proposals. They say genuine hardship and loss of employment would result in a number of cases.

The Country Parson

"Most folks are better than we expect them to be — especially if we expect them to be."

PLAN FOR RETREAT—Rev. Mark Hurley, principal of Marin Catholic High School, and Rev. Bernard Cummins, retreatmaster for the Teen-Agers Lenten Retreat, check poster announcing tomorrow's event for Catholic students in public high schools.

Retreat For Students Set For Tomorrow

Tomorrow, the first Sunday of Lent, will again offer to Marin County Catholic students in public high schools the annual Lenten Teen Retreat, to be held at Marin Catholic High School under the auspices of the Marin Council of Catholic Women.

Opening with 9 o'clock Mass in the Marin Catholic chapel, the day will include talks and conferences, as well as an opportunity for the young people to ask questions about problems of concern to their age group. Retreatmaster again will be Rev. Bernard A. Cummins.

REGISTRATION

The registration is one dollar. Breakfast, lunch and an afternoon refreshment will be served.

General chairman is Mrs. Louis Pometta of San Anselmo. President of the sponsoring group is Mrs. Clifford Elder of Corte Madera. Joseph Nannery of Mill Valley is chairman of an assisting group of men from the National Council of Catholic Men.

ASSISTANTS

Thirty women are assisting Mrs. Pometta in arrangements for the day, which will culminate in a dance from 3 to 5 after the close of religious ceremonies.

Seventy teen-agers have been selected to serve on committees representative of seven schools in the county. Over 700 personal invitations have been mailed for the event.

New Adventist Pastor Takes Over Pulpit

Pastor John H. Toppenberg has become new pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist Church of Fairfax after arriving here from Virginia, where he held pastorates in several cities during the past eight years.

A native of California, Pastor Toppenberg attended high school in San Bernadino before his graduation from Washington Theological College, Washington, D.C. in 1952.

Pastor Toppenberg, his wife, Elizabeth, and their two children Lydia, 6, and Philip Wayne, 3, reside at 14 San Miguel court, Fairfax.

Dedication Service Conducted For Church's New Bell

A dedication service for the newly hung but historic bell in the belfry of the Presbyterian Church of Santa Venetia was conducted by Rev. Aaron Garnet Miller, pastor of the church, last Sunday.

The bell hung in the Walnut Creek Presbyterian Church for more than 60 years until it was given to the Stinson Beach Presbyterian Church, which found itself unable to use it in its present new structure.

Therefore the Stinson Beach church gave the bell to the six-year-old Santa Venetia congregation. Those who helped in hanging the bell were Roger Davidson, Wayne Lenhard, Elmer Carter, Marion Hulbert and Donald Sayer.

Mill Valley Minister Ends Long Service

Rev. C. Burton Jones has concluded 13 years of service as the first and only pastor of the First Baptist Church of Mill Valley.

He left this week to begin his new job as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Salinas and he will be followed by his wife, Josephine, and five of his six youngsters within a few weeks.

Dr. F. I. Drexler, who will be interim pastor until a permanent one is secured, said that Rev. Jones' leavetaking brings to an end one of the longest pastorates in recent Marin history.

The Mill Valley church was organized with 23 members 13 years ago, Dr. Drexler said. Rev. Jones, who had just been discharged from the Army at the end of World War II, became the church's pastor.

Services were then held in the Odd Fellows Hall, but these quarters became too cramped and services were moved to the Boy Scout Hall where they continued for four years. The first unit of the present church building on Miller avenue was erected seven years ago and since that time two more units have been added and another is in prospect for 1961.

This steady growth, Dr. Drexler said, came under the leadership of Rev. Jones, and was due in a large part to his continued activity.

Farewell exercises were held at the church last Sunday when Rev. Jones preached his last sermon there. A reception was held in the afternoon with Rev. and Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Lucretia Hanson, Dr. Drexler, Mrs. E. F. Colburn and W. E. Lovvorn in the receiving line.

The chapel choir provided music at an evening service. Resolutions of appreciation were adopted and numerous gifts were presented to the Jones family.

Dr. Drexler is a retired minister who has been prominent in Baptist Church affairs in California for more than 50 years. He is 82 and lives at 18 Buena Vista avenue in Mill Valley. He founder of the California Theological Seminary in Southern California and was dean during the opening years of the San Francisco Baptist College.

Olympics Made To Order For TV; Stay-At-Homes Had A Fine Show

CONNOLLY

If ever a sporting event was made to order for television, it was the recent VIII Winter Olympics at Squaw Valley.

For a good many years I have preached that no movie or TV set can ever equal the satisfaction of soaking in a baseball or football game with your own eyes. There is just no comparison.

Sure, TV can be a fine thing when you can't attend the game, when your favorites are away across the country or when you can't be in two places at the same time. But in most respects it is as colorless as yesterday's short score and leaves a great deal to be asked for.

Not so with the snow sports. I have tromped the ice and snow to follow the skaters and the skiers, and I have done the same thing via television. And believe me, when it comes to the events themselves, I'll take TV every time.

F'REXAMPLE, take last Sunday's jumping events at Squaw Valley. If you got in line real early and brought a box lunch and a hand and foot warmer, you could have had your choice of watching the brave laddies take off from the top of the 80-meter jump, hitting the take off, or landing at the bottom of the hill. But not all three.

To get a view of the entire action you would have to be well away from the jump itself, with a high-powered pair of binoculars in hand.

But if you joined me in the easy chair in front of the TV set, you had a ringside seat to every part of each jump, a running commentary on the event, some beautiful close-ups that the actual spectators never saw — and warm feet.

I WILL agree with all of you that the beer, coffee and automobiles took over the action all too often, but it was advertising that helped to foot the bill for the many cameras that the Columbia Broadcasting System had parked all over the valley to make the coverage possible.

It seems too bad, when so many millions of dollars were poured down the rat hole to make these Olympic Games possible, that a few more bucks weren't spent to bring the games to the nation-wide audience without any advertising. The situation also cried out for more experts on the microphones. Walter Cronkite left a great deal to be desired as a sports authority.

ALL IN all, it was a tremendous spectacle, and one that will never be forgotten by anyone who made the trip to Squaw. But I wouldn't be surprised if the stay-at-home TV viewers didn't get all the best of it.

Not many of us will get to go to Rome this summer for the second half of the greatest show on earth. But our TV sets will bring us the highlights and save a great deal of wear and tear on our nerves as well as our pocketbooks.

My only hope is that when all those athletes in the summer Olympics show up on our TV screens that the sponsor doesn't turn out to be an underwear manufacturer. "Short Shots" would be more than I could stand!

Bears Give Newell Final 'Home' Victory

California notched its 14th straight basketball victory by beating Stanford last night at Berkeley, 51-42, but the surprise of the Big Five schedule was Southern California's 91-71 rout of UCLA.

Southern California, strangely enough, has become a better team since its scoring ace, Johnny Werhas, was sidelined by an injured back. If the Trojans can beat UCLA again tonight, they will gain the at-large berth in the NCAA championship finals and meet Utah Monday night in Provo, Utah.

California winds up its season tonight in Stanford but the Bears have the AAWU championship stowed away and as the defending NCAA champions will face Idaho State in the first round of the NCAA tourney. Tonight's game will be televised by KTVU, channel 2, starting at 8:10 o'clock.

Cal had a 28-25 lead at halftime, then spurted to a 35-29 bulge. Bill McClintock led the Bear scoring with 12 points but John Arrillaga had 16 for Stanford.

PETE HONORED

A packed house gave retiring California Coach Pete Newell a standing ovation after the Bears ended their home season with the win over Stanford.

Newell is stepping up to the post of athletic director at Berkeley. He was selected this week as UPI "Coach of the Year" and last night was formally presented the San Francisco Junior Chamber of Commerce "Sportsman of the Year" award.

Southern California not only clicked on its shots from outside the key but controlled the boards, too. UCLA jumped into a 21-15 lead after eight minutes of play, but the Trojans came roaring back and had a 44-29 margin at halftime.

The game became a rout in the second half and Coach Johnnny Wooden of UCLA ran in reserves who had seen little action this season.

If UCLA should turn on the Trojans tonight and win, it would be necessary to conduct a telephone poll of AAWU members Sunday to select the team that is to oppose Utah.

FEATURED AT S.F. BOAT SHOW

Two Holiday yawls, similar to the beauty above, are currently being exhibited by Sheldon Yacht Sales of Sausalito in the San Francisco Sports and Boat Show at the Cow Palace. Sheldon's exhibits measure 35 and 24 feet and both feature varnished mahogany-planked hulls. The San Francisco show, which opened yesterday, runs for 10 days.

Tars Defeat Stars, Prep For Tourney

College of Marin Tars, impressive in a 64-58 victory over a Golden Valley Conference All-Star team last night at Kentfield, today started preparing for their California State Junior College Basketball Tournament debut in San Jose next Thursday.

Marin, champion of the GVC for the fourth straight year, will represent the conference in the San Jose play, starting with a first round engagement against Los Angeles City College at 9:15 p.m. next Thursday.

Coach Cal Riemcke and his Tars will leave for San Jose by auto Thursday morning and commute back and fourth until, if and when they're eliminated.

With their scoring ace Kenny Anderson limited to only seven points last night, his low of the season, Marin's four other starters picked up the slack, each of them scoring in double figures.

NICKLEBERRY HIGH

Ray Nickleberry set the pace with 17 markers while Ken Gelatti and Larry Trick each hit for 15 and Dale Aman for 10.

The Tars, outscored from the the field, more than made up for it on the foul line from which they were particularly effective, canning 20 charities and missing only 8. Trick was the deadliest foul shooter with five out of six.

A disappointing crowd was on hand for this exhibition game which was staged to help the Tars warmup for the big tournament and to help defray their expenses to San Jose.

UC PREXY IS SORRY FOR RUGGED SKED

CHICO (AP) — President Clark Kerr of the University of California added to indications of the university's de-emphasis of football last night in a talk to alumni at Chico.

"I'm sorry we built up quite the schedule we have now," Kerr said. "It's too hard on any team or coach.

"I hope in the future our schedule can be more compatible with the nature of our institution. Our schedule is not exactly wise."

The Golden Bears have lost 13 of 17 intersectional games in the last seven years.

Free-For-All Fight Looms In Big Ten

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The 64-year-old Western Conference was embroiled in a free-for-all family fight today—a scrap which may end with the powerful loop confining all sports to its own back yard.

Rebellious athletic directors set off the explosion yesterday.

Shorn of Pasadena's pomp, pagentry and prestige—plus a $300,000 annual payoff—by faculty votes which killed the 14-year-old Rose Bowl pact, the sports chiefs struck back.

They came up with a startling resolution urging that postseason events in all sports be banned—not just in football. Faculty representatives immediately approved it.

The conference rules, on such major legislation, provide a 60-day "cooling-off" period before it becomes effective. Thus a new vote is practically assured at the May 18-21 session in East Lansing, Mich., after the faculty men get new instructions from their universities.

An objection to the postseason ban must be made by one of the members within the 60-day period to force a vote, but conference officials said such an objection was practically automatic. A majority vote at East Lansing is necessary to formally approve the action.

But if the members split 5-5 as they did in outlawing the Rose Bowl pact, then out the window go post-season participation in the NCAA basketball tournaments, AAU meets, and tennis, baseball, golf, wrestling, swimming and other competitions.

AFL Nears Completion Of $3 Million TV Deal

OAKLAND (AP) — Commissioner Joe Foss says his new American Football League is about ready to sign television contracts which will bring in between 2½ million and 3 million dollars.

"We are close to the signing state on TV contracts," he said yesterday at a league meeting but refused to say who the bidders were.

The signing probably won't come until early April, because the new circuit's schedule, which calls for five preseason exhibitions and 14 league games for each club, will not be completed until then, Foss added.

The league plans a nationwide cast featuring a game of the week and regional casts whereby clubs can show their road games to home audiences.

In the New York, Los Angeles, Dallas and San Francisco areas that would lead to overlaps with the National Football League since AFL teams would be playing on the road while NFL teams were home.

On the league agenda for today are plans for a central scouting system, insurance and transportation.

Meetings are secret but Foss announced that the AFL would be split into two divisions. In the Eastern will be the Boston Patriots, Buffalo Bills, New York Titans and Houston Oilers. In the western will be the Denver Broncos, Los Angeles Chargers, Dallas Texans and Oakland.

To beef up the roster of Oakland, last club to join, members voted 5-2 for each to give the new club five players. The no votes were from New York and Los Angeles.

That would give Oakland a roster of 66 to start—17 that it had signed on its own, 14 it was assigned Wednesday from the list of the defunct Minneapolis-St. Paul club and this latest 35.

Each of the seven teams donating players to Oakland is to put 11 of its men on an untouchable list. Then Oakland is to pick one player from each team. After that each of the seven would name 11 more untouchables and Oakland will pick another from each. And so on.

Moore-Shoepner Bout Nearly Set

NEW YORK (AP) — Archie Moore asked the National Boxing Assn., today to "withhold future proceedings" regarding his light-heavyweight title. The NBA recently declared the title vacant because Archie has not defended within six months.

Anthony Maceroni, NBA president, said Moore's attorneys wired him: "Negotiations near conclusion for Archie Moore-Erich Shoepner fight. Urge you withhold future proceedings re title."

The NBA Executive Committee will meet here next Saturday.

Frenchman 'Cinch' To Win World Figure Skating

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — A soldier of France named Alain Giletti stood today at the gateway to skating glory.

Only a badly fumbled performance tonight could prevent Giletti from taking home to Paris the first world figure skating championship ever won by a Frenchman.

Seventeen contestants will offer five-minute free skating performance tonight in the 1960 finals. But Giletti built up such a lead in two days of compulsory figure competition that chief scramble appeared to be for second place.

Donald Jackson of Oshawa, Canada, co-favored with Giletti at the start of the five-day meet, now faces a challenge from Alain Calmat of Paris for second position. Entering the finals, Giletti had 709.9 points, Jackson 676.9, Calmat 673.1.

Cub Star Ailing, Must Take It Easy

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Outfielder George Altman's illness has been diagnosed as mononucleosis, a virus disease which will hamper the Chicago Cub sophomore in drills this spring. Altman was released from the hospital and told to take light exercises only for a week or two.

Cooper Breaks Record

KINGSTON, Jamaica (AP) — Pete Cooper of Lakeland, Fla., smashed the course record with a 6-under-par 66 yesterday and took a two-stroke lead at the midway mark of the Jamaica Open Golf Tournament with a 139.

Cepeda A Real Holdout, Or Is He Just Vacationing?

PHOENIX (AP) — While everyone around here is bemoaning Orlando Cepeda's absence from the San Francisco Giants' spring training camp, it is entirely possible there is no real problem involved.

To hear the management tell it, Cepeda is a holdout, asking for $32,000 while the Giants have offered him about $25,000.

The big Puerto Rican slugger has always shown a willingness to be agreeable.

He received a pay raise during his rookie season of 1956 and another one before the 1959 campaign began. The Giants are offering him about a 33 per cent pay hike this year.

When Willie McCovey brought his hot bat to San Francisco last season, Cepeda, the top first baseman in the National league, tried to play third base and then moved to left field. He didn't enjoy it but he gave it his best.

So what's the real problem right now?

Maybe nothing but Orlando taking himself a little vacation before reporting. He played just about every inning for the Giants last season and then played a full winter league season in Puerto Rico.

Cepeda played hard in Puerto Rico, too — for a special reason. His late father was one of the island's great baseball stars and Orlando gives it his best when he is playing for his dad's old fans.

Right now the 22-year-old slugger is maybe taking himself a rest, figuring he is in shape and while he is enjoying himself, well, why not see if he can wangle a few more pesos from the boss?

If there is one thing the graceful slugger loves, it is stepping up and taking his cuts at the plate. With folks who know Cepeda best, the guess is Orlando will be along any day now.

REDWOOD IGNORED

Two Marinites On West 'Star' Squad

Tackle Kent Francisco of San Rafael High School and guard Bob Hector of Tamalpais last night were selected to the West squad that will play in the annual East-West High School Football Game in San Francisco this summer.

The final 25-player West team was selected in San Francisco last night by a committee of sports writers and coaches. Other members of the West team are from San Francisco and the Peninsula while the East team is composed of stars in the East Bay.

Francisco and Hector also have been selected on the North team for the North-South game in Los Angeles, also this summer.

Announcement of the West All-Star team last night brought a complaint from Coach Bob Troppman of Redwood High school's undefeated Marin County Athletic League champions who argued that one of his players should have been on the All-Star squad.

"I think the selection committee should have picked at least one player from a team that went undefeated and was ranked number one in Class AA competition," Troppman said. He said he nominated fullback Sam Williams, but the selection committee stuck to its rule of picking only two players from Marin County. The committee explained that Francisco and Hector were preferred because they had been picked on the North All-Star team.

The East-West Game is sponsored by the San Francisco 20-30 Club.

Questionable Decision In Video Fight

NEW YORK (AP) — Victor Zalazar isn't a guy who frightens easily.

He was thrown in against experienced Yama Bahama in the feature 10-rounder at Madison Square Garden last night —something like tossing a lamb to the lions.

It was supposed to be a mere warmup for Bahama, the Bimini fishing guide who had not fought in more than six months. Instead, Zalazar carried on a relentless battle and emerged the winner by a split decision.

"I thought I had him beat all the way," Zalazar said through an interpreter. "I felt I was in command throughout and was sure I could upset any offensive Yama started."

Tough words to be sure from an hombre from Argentina who had just 14 bouts before entering the ring. But he backed them up. He took everything Bahama could throw and gave plenty back.

Zalazar looked good, but the decision was questionable. Referee Art Mercante had it 4-4-2 with Zalazar ahead in points 5-4. Judge Tony Rossi also had it even in rounds and gave it to Zalazar on points 6-5. Judge Joe Eppy had Bahama ahead 6-4.

The Associated Press card gave it to Bahama 6-3-1 and a poll of writers at ringside had Bahama the winner 9-3.

BRONCOS TIE FOR TITLE; PLAYOFF SET

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Santa Clara's Broncos bucked their way into a tie for the West Coast Athletic Conference championship last night with a come-from-behind 67-66 victory over St. Mary's.

The clutch victory, first over St. Mary's on its home court in two seasons, set Santa Clara up for a playoff against Loyola Monday night.

Santa Clara and Loyola both finished their 12-game WCAC scheduled with 9-3 records. The playoff, at the University of San Francisco fieldhouse, will determine the the WCAC's representative in the NCAA tournament.

The Gaels led most of the way in the tight ball game. Santa Clara didn't grab the lead for keeps until Ron McGee hit the winning basket with just 40 seconds left.

Trojan Swimmers Set NCAA Records

STANFORD (AP) — Swimmers from the University of Southern California shattered American and NCAA records in the 200-yard back-stroke yesterday at the Pacific Intercollegiate Swimming Meet.

Lance Larson clipped nearly a full second from the butterfly record, navigating the 200 yards in 2:01.3, nine-tenths of a second faster than the record held by Frank Tasnik of the University of Michigan.

USC's Chuck Bittick lowered the American and NCAA mark for the 200-yard backstroke with 2:01.1, three-tenths of a second faster than the 2:01.4 set by Frank McKinney of Indiana.

Soviets Start Speed-Up Of Farm Effort

Russia's peasants are finding that life down on the collective farm isn't what it used to be, especially during the winter. Soviet agriculture is being speeded up in effort to catch and surpass farm production of the United States — a "must" goal in Premier Nikita Khrushchev's seven-year plan.

Russian farmers, who in the past went into semi-hibernation during the severe winters, are working around the calendar.

DIVERSIFIED

Collective farms are being diversified for year round rather than seasonal production.

An example of this is in Krasnaya, on the Volga River about 150 miles east of Moscow, where the 16 collective farms of the district now produce linen, potatoes, milk and beef.

Soviet agriculture, though it has made gigantic strides since World War II, lags far behind farm production in the United States, with but one possible exception. The Soviets claim to have matched or exceeded American milk production per cow.

MUCH WASTE

The method and waste of manpower, however, would make an American dairy farmer wince. A collective farm near Kiev boasted that each of 10 girls took care of 10 cows, a staggering waste of manpower by American farm standards.

On the other hand, a state farm near Stalino on the lower Dneiper was set up so that two men, using mechanical milkers, could milk 212 cows.

BARNYARD ENTERPRISE — This illustrates what the Soviets say is a new awareness of farm efficiency. Once able to keep only 69 cows in stalls, this collective farm near Kiev discovered it could feed the cows in racks in a yard, and in same space and shelter care for 150 cows.

SIBERIA PIONEER — This grizzled prospector, Fyodor Innokentyevich Kupchenko, is credited with naming one of the new diamond mines in Siberia "Sputnik."

Discovery Of Diamonds Brings Siberia Boom

By AP NEWSFEATURES

Discovery of diamonds is fast changing the frozen face of Siberia, the no man's land of the Soviet Union.

Rich diamond mines are being developed in the Yakut area on the Lena River, which is about the same latitude as Dawson City in the Klondike and Fairbanks in Alaska.

A Soviet economic magazine predicts that within a few years production from the fields will be nine million carats a year — nearly one half of the present world production.

The Soviets intend to use most of the diamonds in their stepped up industrial program and place the remainder on the world market, despite the fact that the United States has discovered cheaper ways to manufacture diamonds for industrial use.

Settlers are being brought in to work the mines, collective farms are being set up, and new towns are emerging. But massive problems are being encountered.

There are no roads in Siberia and very few farms, since the underground never thaws. Cultivation of wheat, however, is being attempted.

Until producing farms are set up, planes will bring in food and supplies and meat cattle will be driven into the area on foot.

Brown Studies Call For Session On Dope Law

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Edmund G. Brown today studied whether to call a special legislative session to probe a menacing narcotics problem in California.

The governor met for two hours late yesterday with law enforcement officers from Los Angeles, San Berdardino, San Diego and San Francisco cities and counties. They urged a special session on narcotics trafficking.

As the session ended, the governor promised to make a decision "as soon as I can."

But shortly before that he had said it may be possible to do something about the state's mushrooming narcotics and general crime problems "administratively."

The officials had presented proposals for a special session for adoption of laws to:

1. Allow police to keep secret the names of informers in court actions against narcotics suspects.

2. Suspend, in narcotics cases only, the laws governing search and seizure and the manner in which evidence is obtained.

3. Lengthen minimum terms for narcotics possession and require prison sentences rather than county jail terms.

Brown, although agreeing that narcotics was a "menace" in California, said he did not necessarily agree with the methods proposed to combat it.

The governor pointed out that the current legislative session is primarily designed for review and approval of his $2,477,000,000 state budget although the law allows him to put on special call matters of "urgent nature."

"The legislature resented punishment on special call with only a limited time to discus it," Brown said. "They felt this should not have been imposed upon them."

"I know the seriousness of this problem of narcotics," he added. "But we have been moving ahead every year. I don't want to do anything now that will prejudice the long pull of solving these problems."

Members of the delegation said in answer to questions by Brown that the proposals they were making for legislative action this year were similar but went further than bills defeated by the 1959 Legislature.

Los Angeles City Attorney Roger Arnebergh defended the proposals and urged Brown to call a special session "because the cost is too great to contiue under present law."

He claimed there were more deaths in California each year because of narcotic offenses than were legal executions.

Century-Old Kuala Lumpur A Malay Peninsula Showplace

KUALA LUMPUR (UPI) — A century ago, pioneers from China trudged upstream along a narrow meandering river on the western seaboard of the Malay Peninsula in search of a suitable site to settle.

They picked the junction of two tributaries now known as the Gombak and Klang Rivers and began prospecting for tin.

Today, on the murky swamplands where those first settlers toiled, stands Kuala Lumpur — a city of half a million people of diverse races, culture and religion, a city of beautiful government buildings and row upon row of modern apartment houses.

Today it is both the state (Selangor) and national capital of the Federation of Malaya, the youngest member of the United Nations.

Kuala Lumpur, which means "muddy estuary" in the Malay language, is proud of its remarkable growth into a modern metropolis. It celebrated its centenary this year.

Only a few years ago, Kuala Lumpur to most foreigners was just another name in some remote corner of the world.

Today, a few years after the Federation of Malaya won independence from British rule on Aug. 31, 1955, Kuala Lumpur has emerged as the symbol of a young nation.

In March, 1958, Kuala Lumpur made international news when the 14th session of the U.N. Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East held its annual meeting, att he Tunku Abdul Rahman Hall, a session highlighted by verbal fireworks among Russian, American, Nationalist Chinese and Korean diplomats.

On May 14 of last year, 26 Asian countries and observers from Europe and America met in Kuala Lumpur for the inaugural assembly of the East Asia Christian Conference.

Kuala Lumpur also has played host to a multi-nation cooperative conference, to the ninth regional conference of the Junior Chamber International, to a meeting of the World Health Organization and to the sixth Asian Film Festival.

In size, Kuala Lumpur occupies an area of 34 square miles with six main thoroughfares radiating from the junction of the Gombag and Klang rivers. It is criss-crossed by hundreds of roads and sidestreets along which flow 20,000 vehicles of all manufacture. Half the total population of the state of Selangor, numbering 1,012,047, lives in Kuala Lumpur.

By Japanese or Hong Kong standards, Kuala Lumpur cannot boast of any major industries. Most of its inhabitants eke out a living either as small-time businessmen or are absorbed by governmental and commercial clerical services The more poorly educated engage in public utility services.

Twenty banks operate in the capital with two more planning to open branches here. Eighteen countries are represented through their embassies or legations.

Under a vigorous education policy, 43 schools provide education to thousands of school children from primary to secondary levels.

The town is connected with the major capitals of the world through eight major airlines operating out of its international airport which is capable of handling the latest jets.

Half a dozen big hotels and hundreds of other smaller Chinese-owned inns provide first-class accommodation for thousands of visitors flocking to the city for business or pleasure.

For entertainment, Kuala Lumpur has 18 movie houses, six night clubs and three dance halls employing scores of hostesses.

Then there is the two-million-dollar Merdeka Stadium with a seating capacity of 30,000 which was built in the record time of 12 months for the independence celebrations in 1957.

Kuala Lumpur town itself (an area of eight square miles) is a quaint blending of the new and the old, of East and West. Towering buildings built with Moorish and Arabic influences and marked by artistic minarets stand side by side with the most modern eight to nine-story buildings. Everywhere the visitor sees contrasts of native and foreign influences.

Chinese, Malayans, Indians and Europeans form the four racial classes. Chinese predominate three to one.

The English language is generally accepted as the common medium of communication in government, banking and social circles. In the bazaars, the Cantonese dialect is predominantly used among the Chinese Others use a vulgarized form of Malay called "bazaar Malay" which is quite distinct from the polished written Malay language.

Kuala Lumpur is Malaya's showcase in housing, schools, hospitals, markets, post offices, banks and cinemas. It is still a growing city and symbolizes the nation's fast-expanding trade with the outside world. Not a month passes without a trade delegation from Germany, India, Pakistan or Brazil calling to explore prospects of expanding trade.

With an eye toward the future, city fathers have earmarked special sprawling sites outside the town limits for industrial projects in a program to start cottage industries and provide employment and better living standards for Kuala Lumpur's expanding population.

Farm Bureau Meet

Directors of the Marin County Farm Bureau will hold a business meeting at 10:30 a.m. Monday at the county office, Highway 101 north of Novato. They will adjourn at noon to Rickey's Rancho Rafael for lunch.

Driver Injured As Auto Skids

A move to change lanes during light rain on Highway 101 near the Greenbrae overpass last night caused a car to skid into a bridge rail and throw its driver out with such force that one shoe was found 65 feet away.

But Robert Walter Benge, 23, of 900 Meadowsweet drive, Corte Madera, was sitting dazed in his car when the California Highway Patrol arrived. He couldn't recall what had happened and the story was deduced from inspection.

Benge was taken to Marin General Hospital for treatment of cuts and bruises.

Demo Solons Join In Blasts At Eisenhower

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two rivals for the Democratic presidential nomination stood on the same Kansas platform last night, trying to outdo each other in buffeting the Eisenhower administration.

While Sens. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn.) joined in what was billed as a debate, the Republicans moved to tie up relations between two men once thought to be rivals for their party's nomination.

A close associate of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York was appointed to the executive committee arranging the Republican national convention. The appointment of L. Judson Morhouse, New York Republican chairman, apparently was initiated by supporters of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

At one time, Rockefeller was expected to challenge Nixon for the nomination. But he decided against entering the race.

Since then, political observers have noted a coolness in Rockefeller's public discussions of Nixon. Yesterday's appointment might indicate the governor will support Nixon more enthusiastically in the future.

The Eisenhower administration was attacked by another presidential hopeful besides Kennedy and Humphrey.

Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), touring Illinois for the second straight weekend, said the nation's defense weakness will undermine the President's position at the East-West summit conference in May.

"We're going to the summit without the cards," Symington, an unannounced candidate, said at a news conference in Springfield.

Plans Told For Eatery At Tiburon

More detailed plans for a new Tiburon restaurant were announced today by Ernest Van Asperen, 70 Manzanita avenue, San Rafael, owner of Ernie's liquor store chain in San Francisco.

Van Asperen said the restaurant, as yet unnamed, will be located next door to Sam's Anchor Cafe, in a building to be constructed by Fred G. Zelinsky owner of the property and several other parcels in the business district.

"We will try to serve the kind of food people like," Van Asperen said, "like a good steak at a reasonable price."

Zelinsky's application for adjustment to construct the building was approved in January by the Marin County Planning Commission.

The restaurant will occupy an elevated position with a boat sales outlet at the street level.

Van Asperen said that in addition to a name, he needs a liquor license and personnel. He said the project probably will get under way in "a couple of months," and the new eatery may be opened late in the summer.

He said Mario Gaidano, who designed Marin Joe's in Corte Madera and architect for the Fairmont Hotel expansion in San Francisco, will design the restaurant.

The restaurant will be managed by Van Asperen as part of the new firm of Town Properties. Application for articles of incorporation recently were filed in Sacramento with the firm to be capitalized at $75,000 in $10 par shares.

In addition to Van Asperen, John T. Sweeney of San Francisco, and Albert E. Gately of 69 Bothin road, Fairfax, were listed as directors.

Van Asperen and his wife, Virginia, moved to Marin eight months ago.

FOX NABBED BY SOLDIERS FOUND RABID

A strange acting fox picked up by soldiers at a Marin Army reservation this week was rabid, an army spokesman said today.

Two soldiers came upon the fox in a heavily wooded area of Fort Cronkhite Tuesday. Noticing that it acted odd, they stunned it with a stick and turned it into the veterinarian at the Presidio in San Francisco.

The fox died the next day, and the remains were sent to 6th Army Medical laboratory at Ft. Baker where a laboratory test proved the animal had been rabid.

Marin County Health Officer Dr. Carolyn Albrecht said that this was the county's first case of rabies since last September.

Only this week Marin was declared a rabies area for the second year by the Region 4 Rabies Advisory Committee at Berkeley.

City-County Plan Agreement Seen Soon By McInnis

Prospects for early agreement on the few remaining details of differences between city and county representatives on the proposed San Francisco Bay Area Metropolitan Council were seen today by Mayor John F. McInnis of San Rafael.

Representing the mayors of Marin County's 10 cities, McInnis accompanied by City Manager Dan Anderson attended a dinner of city representatives at the Claremont Hotel in Berkeley Tuesday night where "a third rewrite of by-laws" was discussed.

McInnis said today that few points of difference between the two groups exist and it appears that these can now be threshed out. The basic plan provides at present that city and county representatives on the council would meet in unified sessions, but policy votes would require separate majorities of the two groups.

Beauty Salon Gets The Worse Of Transaction

It wasn't quite a fair exchange last night when someone broke into a Fairfax beauty salon and pilfered the cash register containing $15, leaving behind an old blue bath mat draped over the broken window.

When Jacques Guiraut arrived at his salon, Jacques Coiffure d'Art, 2029 Sir Francis Drake boulevard at 7 a.m., today, he found his $179 cash drawer containing $15 missing, and the bath mat folded over the botton of the jagged window pane.

"The register was unlocked . . . but they took it anyway," Guiraut said.

Spraying Due For Mosquitoes

If weather permits, an airplane will buzz low over Black Point, Novato, and Corte Madera areas next week to spray about 1,500 acres of marshland for mosquito control.

G. Paul Jones, manager of the Marin Mosquito Abatement District, announced that Medlock Dusters from Dixon, near Sacramento, will do the job, probably on Monday and Tuesday. If weather is bad, the spraying may be delayed.

Jones said the airplane will probably spray the Novato and Black Point marshland on Monday, followed by the area north of Marin Village in Corte Madera Tuesday.

Toastmaster Club Elects Officers

Joe Heming of Marinwood was elected president of the Novato chapter of Toastmasters International at the club's weekly meeting Thursday at Rancho Rafael in Ignacio.

Paul Melcher of San Rafael, outgoing president, will hand over the gavel on March 31.

Other officers elected were: Gene Eberts, San Rafael, educational vice president; Ray King, Marinwood, administrative vice president; Don Curry, Novato, secretary-treasurer, and Paul Stang, Marinwood, sergeant-at-arms.

Outgoing officers, in addition to Melcher were Heming, Lew Farr, Floyd Brown and Fred Bolding.

Bolding, of Marinwood, was awarded the first place cup for his speech about Caryl Chessman. Other featured speakers were Lew Farr and Joe Heming.

Train-Truck Crash To Bring Probe

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A legislative committee plans a probe of oil tank truck accidents following the blazing truck-train crash near Bakersfield which killed 14 persons and injured some 60 others.

"Loopholes in existing laws have created many problems in this field of safety," said Chairman Lee M. Backstrand (R-Riverside) of the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee.

He ordered the investigation yesterday, saying, "we are not interested in a witch hunt, but in a factual study that will enable the Legislature to insure adequate safeguards in the transportation of flammable and corrosive liquids."

Existing laws, Backstrand said, apparently are not adequate to provide uniformity of regulation and enforcement throughout California.

The investigation will be launched after the present budget and special sessions of the Legislature, but early enough so that the committee can make recommendations to the 1961 Legislature.

The committee has been holding statewide hearings on highway safety and related state laws.

Fourteen persons died and more than 60 others were injured Wednesday evening when the speeding Santa Fe Chief collided with a two-trailer oil truck at a crossing west of Bakersfield.

Senate's Hearings On Death Penalty To Be Televised

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Two Northern California television stations will carry the entire Senate Judiciary Committee hearing Wednesday of Gov. Edmund G. Brown's bill to abolish the death penalty, it was announced today.

Officials of KVIE, a non-commercial station here, said they believed this was the first time in California that such extensive coverage has been set up for a legislative meeting.

The officials said KVIE would carry the Senate hearing live, then would rush video tapes to San Francisco for continuous showing on KQED, another non-commercial station.

Two Drivers Get Jail Time, Fines

Two drunken drivers, with prior violations, drew jail terms and fines yesterday in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas ordered five days in jail and $250 fines for Albert William Young, 61, of 50 Canyon road, Novato, and Charley Armstead 54, of House 388, Marin City.

Young was caught on Diablo avenue in Novato on Nov. 29 last year. He had a prior conviction in San Francisco in 1954 and two other previous convictions which were stricken from the record. The judge suspended his license for 90 days.

Armstead was caught on Highway 101 on Dec. 20 last year. He had prior convictions in 1951, 1952, and 1955.

A third motorist drew $150 fine and six months probation for his first offense. He is Charles Rinaldo Ferrario, 50, of 4 Lovell avenue, Mill Valley. He was caught on Tiburon boulevard on Feb. 14. for the next six months, he may drive only for emergencies and in connection with his work as insurance man.

Driver Injured As Car Crashes

A car which "drifted" on the rainswept surface of Highway 101 over the Waldo Grade yesterday afternoon went out of control, flipped through the guard rail and overturned with injury to the driver.

Charles Flammer of Good Hill road, Kentfield, was reported by Ross General Hospital to be in good condition this morning but held for observation of possible injury to his back. He was taken to the hospital by another motorist.

His car had been northbound up the grade. After plowing through the guard rail it removed about 40 feet of fence.

Fire Commissioners To Examine Policies

The Tiburon Fire Protection District commission will re-examine insurance policies on fire fighting equipment Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the Tiburon boulevard main fire station, according to Secretary Kelly J. Wheeler.

Marinite Injured As Car Tumbles Off Road Grade

Fred Mershon of Marin drive south of Mill Valley was in San Rafael General Hospital with both eyes bandaged as result of a harrowing experience in a motor accident near his home yesterday afternoon.

Mershon's car left Panoramic highway between the Swiss Club and the Mountain Home and tumbled some distance down the grade, according to investigations of the California Highway Patrol today.

He later said that he managed to get clear of the car, crawled up the bank though more or less blinded by injuries to both eyes, and waved when he heard motorists—but nobody stopped.

Finally two men whom he understood to be sailors from Sacramento picked him up, removed him to his garage nearby, and called Marin Ambulance which took him to the hospital.

Mershon's condition today was said to be generally good but the extent of injury to his eyes cannot be determined until it is possible to remove the bandage.

Quentin Escapee Formally Charged On Murder Count

SAN BERNARDINO (AP)—Convict James Kendrick, 29, has been formally charged with the Feb. 23 slaying of California Highway Patrolman Richard D. Duvall, 26.

Earlier Kendrick re-enacted for sheriff's officers the shooting of the officer. The fugitive from San Quentin Prison has told police he shot the officer when he was stopped for speeding near Victorville.

A preliminary hearing was set for March 14 in Municipal Court.

Opera Unit Sets Auditions Tuesday In Mill Valley

General director Ralph White and librarian Cary Smith today announced Tuesday evening try-outs for chorus and other roles in Mill Valley Light Opera productions.

Auditions will be at 7:30 p.m., Room 15, Edna Maguire School, Mill Valley.

Selections from "Boris Godounoff" will be given April 29 at a concert of the Symphony Guild of Marin.

Two short operettas, Mozart's "Bastien et Bastienne" and Gian Carlo-Menotti's "The Telephone," also are scheduled.

"The Beggar's Opera," which in modern dress is known as the "Three Penny Opera," is among major works to be presented, as well as Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Sorcerer."

Artists To Show Oil Paintings

The Marin Society of Artists will hold an oil painting show tomorrow from 2 to 5 p.m. at the Frances Young Gallery, Marin Art and Garden Center, Ross.

The show will have a jury to judge first and second place and honorable mention. The jury will consist of Phillip Smith, Frank Milner and Raymond Rice.

Mill Valley artist Ray Strong will tell the experiences and sights of his trip through Italy last summer at 3 p.m.

Co-chairmen for the show are Myra Cabella and Sonia Bermingham.

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Soviet Subs Feared

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Adm. Jerauld Wright (ret.) says Russian nuclear submarines will pose a major threat in the 1960s to the United States and its NATO allies.

Wright declared, "It is necessary that we do not permit the forces for the defense of the Atlantic, including the strategic arms as well as the tactical forces, to drop any lower."

Wright retired March 1 after six years as supreme commander of North Atlantic Treaty Organization forces in the Atlantic.

Jackie Coogan Fined

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Jackie Coogan, former child actor, paid a $125 fine yesterday after pleading guilty to a drunken driving charge.

A 90-day jail sentence was suspended.

Nasser Warns West

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—President Abdel Gamal Nasser of the United Arab Republic today blasted Israeli Premier David Ben-Gurion as "the greatest war criminal of the 20th Century" and warned the West against giving Israel arms.

Citing reports that France intended to send jet fighters to Israel and that Britain will send submarines, the Arab leader declared: "This won't terrorize us, because we already know who are our enemies and because we are already preparing ourselves to face this aggression."

Opera Great Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Leonard Warren, a world favorite and one of the greatest baritones developed in this country, collapsed and died on stage last night at the Metropolitan Opera.

Warren, 48, playing Don Carlo, completed singing in the next to last scene of the second act of Verdi's La Forza del Destino.

As he prepared for his exit, the six-foot Warren fell to the stage. The music trailed off in the orchestra pit and the curtain came down. As the audience buzzed and speculated, a Catholic priest went backstage and administered last rites.

Elvis Civilian Again

FT. DIX, N.J. (AP)—Rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley left this Army post for civilian life today, apparently ready, willing and able to resume his show business activities.

But first he plans to spend a few weeks at his Memphis, Tenn., home, he told newsmen.

Presley, 24, completed a two-year Army hitch and drew his final pay check before leaving the post. At time of discharge he was a sergeant.

Col. Tom Parker, Presley's manager, says Presley has television and movie guarantees totaling more than $850,000 for the remainder of this year.

Ex-Senator Succumbs

BALTIMORE (AP)—Herbert R. O'Conor, 63, twice governor of Maryland and for six years a member of the U.S. Senate, 1946-1952, died yesterday.

Asian Flu Declines

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Influenza or pneumonia took the lives of 939 persons last week but the U.S. Public Health Service says the Asian flu epidemic diminished for the second straight week.

The number of deaths reported for the week ending Feb. 27 was approximately twice the number from influenza or pneumonia reported in the same week last year.

College Plan Attacked

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California's proposed master plan for higher education has been sharply attacked by a nationally known school planner.

The plan, said Dr. Lyman A. Glenny of Sacramento State College, would create an educational system with absolute veto power over matters affecting it and thus exempt it from public control.

He said in a letter to Gov. Brown that the coordinating council called for in the plan drafted by the University of California Regents and state Board of Education would lead to "horse trading and log rolling."

Water Loan Rules Set

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The California Water Commission has approved a set of ground rules for giving state loans and grants for local water project development.

In a policy statement yesterday, the commission agreed to give loan preference to agencies developing "new basic water supplies"—in effect, to those building new reservoirs.

However, a loophole was placed in the statement. Local municipal and irrigation districts can use part of any state loan for distribution systems, for pipelines, as long as those distribution systems are a basic part of an over-all water development project.

West Still Divided

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Informed officials say the Western powers may go to Geneva this month still divided on disarmament policy.

The officials feared the disagreement would play into the hands of the Russians. They said "substantial progress" had been made by representatives of the United States, Britain, France, Italy and Canada in hammering out a single policy at meetings here since Jan. 25.

But they indicated serious differences still existed and might not be ironed out before the Geneva negotiations begin.

Navajos Still Trapped

WINDOW ROCK, Ariz. (AP)—Air Force officials say they expected to air drop more food today to about 70 Navajo families stranded in deep snow along the New Mexico-Arizona border.

Air Force helicopters from Albuquerque, N.M., flew in food packs to the snowbound families yesterday.

The families might be stranded two or three weeks longer without getting food through normal routes, officials say.

U.S. Arsenal 'Unequaled By Anyone,' Declares Admiral

SAN JOSE (UPI)—The United States is much stronger than Russia and has an array of weapons that "no one has yet equaled," according to Adm. Arleigh A. Burke, chief of naval operations.

Burke, in a speech at San Jose State College last night, indirectly challenged Air Force Gen. Thomas B. Power's claim that 300 Soviet missiles could wipe out America's retaliatory force.

The admiral did not mention Power by name, but he said "exercise in one-weapon arithmetic" distract attention from this country's over-all might. For example, he said, the Navy now had more atomic-capable planes afloat on five aircraft carriers in the Mediterranean and Far East than there are in Russia's entire heavy bomber fleet.

"It will be a long time," said Burke, "before any single attack will be able to wipe out all our fixed launching sites. Such a task is monumental and for the near future highly doubtful."

Burke conceded that fixed launching sites are becoming ever more vulnerable to attack. For this reason, the nation will turn more and more to mobile launching platforms on land and sea.

He said the Navy will have two Polaris missile submarines "ready to be used" by the end of this year.

Such submarines carry 16 missiles apiece and will be "virtually invulnerable" because of their mobility and concealment, according to Burke.

KING-SIZE SIX-SHOOTER

A Marine gun crew checks out field artillery weapon XM-70 which can fire its load of six 115 millimeter shells in two and one-half seconds, to ranges up to 10 miles. The long-barreled gun was developed for Marine Corps by the Army. It is fed from rotating cluster of chambers, similar to those on a revolver, permits the rapid-fire action. Ammunition is a combination of an artillery shell and rocket. The gun weighs 3,000 pounds and can be transported by helicopter or towed on its own mount by lightweight truck. (AP Wirephoto)

Compromise To Break Rights Deadlock Sought

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The record-breaking Senate civil rights filibuster droned toward a time-out later today while key lawmakers worked behind the scenes to arrange some compromise that might break the deadlock.

Chairman Thomas C. Hennings said he hoped his Senate Rules Committee would agree Monday on Negro voting guarantees that might help end the day-and-night talkathon, now past the 115-hour mark.

The Missouri Democrat, who made his first appearance at the debate yesterday after being out two weeks with a chest infection, called a committee meeting for Monday morning.

At the same time, the Democratic and Republican leaders held private discussions with their colleagues on the possibility of a compromise that would draw strong support from civil rights backers and less fierce opposition from Southerners.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. (D-N.C.) proposed at dawn that the Senate adjourn until noon Monday and called for a vote. But he quickly withdrew the motion when Sen. Hugh Scott (R-Pa.) demanded a quorum call.

Federal Agency Chief Defends Trip On Yacht

WASHINGTON (UPI)—House investigators have told the chairman of the Federal Communications Commission his trip on a broadcasting executive's yacht was comparable to "payola" by the recording industry to disc jockeys.

But FCC Chairman John C. Doerfer defended his acceptance of hospitality aboard a yacht owned by George B. Storer, president of Storer Broadcasting Co. He also said he had arranged to reimburse Storer for plane trips to and from Florida on the radio executive's private plane.

Doerfer testified yesterday before the House Legislative Oversight Subcommittee looking into radio-TV payola and deceptive practices.

Doerfer acknowledged that he was a guest off and on for six days last month aboard Storer's yacht off Florida and that he and his wife also spent some nights aboard the craft.

But Doerfer denied there was anything wrong with his action. He said Storer had no decisions pending before the FCC.

Subcommittee members disagreed. Rep. Peter F. Mack (D-Ill.) said the incident "follows the same pattern of some of the disc jockeys who said they were close friends and therefore accepted gifts" from record distributors.

Subcommittee chairman Oren Harris (D-Ark.) told Doerfer the group had legislation pending to deal with "this sort of impropriety."

The FCC chairman vigorously denied any impropriety, saying:

"My rights to pick friends and my social activities are as free as a judge's."

Stockton Woman Given Jail Term

An unemployed young woman from Stockton must spend 90 days in jail for driving a car along Sausalito lateral last month while under the influence of drugs.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas of Marin Municipal Court ordered the jail term for Anna Pardi, 27, who was stopped by police on Feb. 4. Officers said she was under the influence of sedative drugs of the barbituate category.

Miss Pardi has a record of similar convictions in San Francisco and Stockton since 1953.

Coast Chamber Slates Meeting On Tuesday

Henry Hankins, newly elected president of the California Marine Parks and Harbors Assn., will be speaker at a meeting of the Marin Coast Chamber of Commerce Tuesday evening.

The dinner meeting is set for 7:30 p.m. at Sundberg's Inn in Olema, announced H. M. Greene, secretary.

HOW ABOUT FRINGE BENEFIT OF CRUMPETS?

DONCASTER, England (UPI) About 1,000 International Harvester Co. employees went on strike yesterday and local union officials said their grievance was that they were not permitted to sit down for afternoon tea.

Jurors Mulling Fate Of Finch, Paramour

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Two million words of testimony and argument were only a provocative prelude to the critical question the Finch trial jury is trying today to answer in two or three syllables: guilty or not guilty.

The jury got the case yesterday and there was no telling when it might be back with a verdict. The general feeling was it would be a matter of days.

After deliberating today, the jurors get tomorrow off.

"Guilty" or "not guilty" actually will appear in the verdict four times, since Dr. R. Bernard Finch and his pretty mistress, Carole Tregoff, are charged on two counts each and will be dealt with separately. They are accused of murder and conspiracy to commit murder in the death last July 18 of the doctor's socialite wife, Barbara Jean. She was shot through the back outside the elegant Finch home in suburban West Covina.

The jurors, seven women and five men, have the alternatives on count one of finding the defendants guilty of first-degree murder, guilty of second-degree murder, or innocent of murder. On count two the options are guilty or innocent of conspiracy.

HAMDEN, Conn. (UPI) — Ten days after Sid Miller complained about roaming dogs, police arrested nine dog owners — including Miller.

Tree Removal Job Slated In Larkspur

Removal of a giant eucalyptus tree from a sharp curve near 45 Ardmore road, Larkspur, will start March 14 and require closing of the street for about three days.

The job will be done by Sohner Tree Service with the assistance of city street forces. The Larkspur City Council this weekend approved expenditure of $470 for the work.

Street Supt. Warren Mistron said the eucalyptus was topped several years ago, but rapid growth of new limbs has made it both a hazard and a nuisance. He said the tree is about six feet in diameter.

"Residents will be able to leave and return to their homes without any delay," Mistron said, "if those living above the work area will use Wiltshire avenue to its upper intersection with Ardmore and those living below will us the lower intersection of the same streets."

Demo Solon Blasts Defense Policies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. J. William Fulbright (D-Ark.) said today that if President Eisenhower's defense decisions are faulty the free world could be lost in an afternoon.

In a full-scale Senate attack, Fulbright accused Eisenhower of driving men of ideas out of Washington and treating with contempt critics of his defense policies.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois dismissed Fulbright's blast as "the lay opinion of a man from Arkansas."

Fulbright, chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee, said he found it disturbing for the President to tell a news conference he knows more about military affairs than "almost anyone."

"This is dangerous because the President's attitude forecloses discussion while precluding reason," he said. It keeps "military men, fearful of their careers, from speaking up; encourages the dominance of yesmen, and tends to drive superior men from the service," he added.

Under Eisenhower, Fulbright said, the United States has become "a 20th century Babylon, headless and heartless, a big, fat target for the Communist world and the clamoring, poverty-ridden states."

"Few men of ideas come to Washington," Fulbright said. "They are not likely to seek service under a chief executive who is scornful of their kind.

"Yet mankind moves on ideas. Men with ideas are the makers and shakers of the world. The larger their number serving the country the more fruitful and vigorous the country."

In the field of defense, Fulbright said, Eisenhower has "dubbed those who disagree with his judgments 'noisy extremists'; men unpatriotic because they have 'the tendency to disparage our country,' while they are also dishonest because their assertions are 'spurious,' that is, fake."

He included in this group so condemned two former Army chiefs of staff, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway and Maxwell D. Taylor; Gen. James M. Gavin, former chief of Army research and development; and Gen. Thomas S. Power, chief of the Strategic Air Command.

"Generals are not to reason why," Fulbright said "Their commander in chief complains that 'too many generals have all sorts of ideas."

He said "we must abandon the perilous notion that we can afford security only within the straightjacket of the budget. This is equivalent to throwing three feet of rope to a drowning man six feet away.

"There is no room here for margin of error. One slip would be fatal. Gone are the days of the last two world wars when we could go to the battlefield in our own good time and retrieve the balance. In 30 minutes we could now go from national existence to national death."

Nikita Returns Home, Reports On Asian Tour

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev flew home from Asia today with an optimistic report on his fournation tour and a pledge that the Soviet Union would do everything to make the East-West summit meeting a success.

Khrushchev coupled this with boasts of communist economic successes at home and progress of Soviet overseas aid in rolling back "colonialism."

"The day is not far off when representatives of the capitalist world will be even more staggered and amazed," he said. "They are at last coming to realize the grandeur of the new era, initiated by the October revolution under Lenin's direction.

"Today over a billion people in the countries of socialism (communism) are building a new life."

Khrushchev spoke at Lenin Stadium less than two hours after his jetliner landed from Kabul, Afghanistan. He was sun-tanned and apparently in good health. The address was broadcast nationally.

INTERIOR DECORATOR Henry L .Varga of Braverman's of San Anselmo goes about the meticulous job of laying out a decorating scheme for a home, using room plans drawn to scale. Below Varga has some advice for Marin homeowners as they go about furnishing and decorating their residences.

DON'T BE STAMPEDED

Some Advice From A Marin Decorator

By HENRY L. VARGA

Interior Decorator, Braverman's

In these days of accelerated living it is important to be able to relax in your home and realize the continuity of living by the mixing of the beautiful old and the entirely new in furnishings.

When planning to "re-do" your home or a single room, do not be stampeded by the suggestions of well meaning friends and psuedo-decorators to "throw everything out." Before embarking on the important project of redecorating your home, have a heart to heart talk with yourself and with your family so that you can earmark the pieces of furniture most treasured by you. Refurnish with the thought in mind that these pieces can be made use of properly in their new surroundings.

A room or home to be well decorated must have a character of its own. It is not enough for each individual piece of furniture to be beautiful and functional; the room must have a personality, a relation to its owner, a harmony of placement and size and a link to the family background.

Should you be fortunate enough to have a reasonable budget to refurnish your home (or room) select one or several pieces you will retain and plan to use judiciously in your new decor. It may be a picture, an ashtray or a chair which can be re-upholstered but, which added to more modern design and functionalism, will give your room a link with the past and soften the transition to a contemporary setting.

All of us need a tie to our past and after the newness of the room has worn off, it is nice to sit back and contemplate an object previously owned by a mother or a dear relative or to bring back fond memories of the occasion of purchase by you many years ago.

These are the objects which give your room character and allow you, your family and guests to share your past and thereby enjoy the present more.

The Furniture Trend: Charm And Elegance

Charm, quality and elegance will be the major factors in home decor during the Sixties.

The American homemaker will have at her buying disposal during the coming months the largest selection of quality furniture and home accessories in the history of the home furnishings industry.

Not since the early days of this country when cabinet makers and silversmiths, glass makers and weavers worked painstakingly to create the treasured antiques of today, have furniture manufacturers been more aware that top workmanship and elegant style will sell their furniture faster than any other factor. The American homemaker, educated by the press, by travel and by numerous home decorating courses, is demanding quality. She has learned to examine furniture, to study the labels and know their meanings.

Home furnishings manufacturers have joined the parade of other industry, making surveys to find out what Mrs. America wants in her home, whether she is building a new one or refurbishing the old one. And what Mrs. America wants, she evidently is going to get: Charm and elegance in her home and all furniture and trimmings must be made to last.

LAST YEAR the prediction said "the trend is toward elegance." Today elegance is here. But it is more than elegance, charm comes into it also. Upholstered pieces, for example, are being made in the richest of fabrics and the loveliest of colors. They will give opulance to decor and they are designed for charming settings. Sofa and chair legs or arms as well as any other pieces done in woods have sculptured detail integrated into the wood design. Cabinets, chests, dressers—are more elaborate either in the wood trim or in drawer pulls or door knobs which are more ornate than in recent years. Antiqued gold finish or the dull brass finish is used in many of these.

Walnut is still number one in the woods being used, by the way. The oiled finish which has been so popular may be on the wane as there are not as many pieces with this finish in this market. Manufacturers who are still using it are doing so in a manner to provide easier care and better protection of the wood than heretofore. Painted and lacquered finishes are staging a firm comeback. There are many pieces done in white, off-white, reds, greens, grays and even the satin-finish (or matte) blues. Some designers say that teen-age girls' demands for the white-trimmed-with-gold bedrooms are setting a trend.

Space-saver units and dual purpose furniture continue in popularity and well they should as long as builders insist on building houses with the lack of storage space so evident the last decade. Beautiful wall-hanging units which pull down to form dining tables or contain shelf and drawer space are very much in the picture. Room dividers with shelf and drawer room remain important. Sofa-beds are more popular than ever and they are much more attractive, with the slim-look to them instead of the bulkiness of the first sofa beds made. And they are done in beautiful fabrics and colors.

EARLY AMERICAN home furnishings are enjoying increased attention. Although the West Coast resisted this trend earlier in the year, it seems that California has joined the rest of the nation in going back to this style. Local manufacturers of maple and birch furniture of this era are busy filling out orders. Many dealers were ordering from them today. Perhaps there are psychological reasons for this. Maybe the warm quality of Early American design offers tranquility and refuge from the tempo of today's living. The swing toward Early American is evident in furniture, rugs, draperies and accessories.

The trend toward luxurious country styles — borrowed from European manors of the 17th and 18th century — is definite and what a charming trend it is.

As for colors, the garden and the orchard will come right into the house. Red is back in upholstery fabrics, floor coverings, drapes and accent pieces. Blue is gaining popularity for all of the items just named. One carpet manufacturer is introducing carpeting in 30 different shades of green and will advertise this series under one main color description "Mystic Jade" — so green, it seems, will again be very much in the decorative scheme of things. And this color is due to come back in draperies and curtains with many manufacturers reporting requests for greens in soft mist tones and subdued olive tones.

A QUICK GLANCE over at drapery fabrics showed many prints of diversified patterns —from the small provincial to the bolder contemporary type. Stripes are more in evidence than in recent years. Also making a return for both windows and bed coverings are a multitude of sheers and light cottons created with a gossamer, souffle effect. Rich floral prints in over-all designs that give a cheerful look to ensembles continue to sophisticated style trend.

The Scandinavian furniture and accessories are still way out ahead in home fashions. The Oriental motif is evident in accent pieces and in fine imports but the "cheap" copies of Oriental are going out—they are just not being shown. There are several exhibitors showing the beautiful Oriental chests, tables, pillows which fit into the elegant look.

There is a "move" toward the return of the dining room so there are many outstanding sets. Even the metal ones are rich-looking. It is said that the house with the dining area "at the end of the living room" is on its way out. Elegant living calls for better dining habits, so it all makes sense. This decade will see the formal dining room back.

Why Not Furnish Your Home In White? It's The Trend

Why not furnish your home in white?

Time was when Hollywood movie settings were the envy of women from Maine Street to Park Avenue. The plush white rugs, gleaming white satin draperies and bed covers and shimmering upholstery fabrics made women drool.

But nowadays you can have white and get it dirty, too. It's easily put back into shape, no more effort in upkeep than drab colored furnishings bought with the idea that they "don't show the dirt."

The trend to white is made possible by new fibers and textured fabrics that insure durability, and are washed easily.

There are many tricks in the use of white.

TELEVISION and movie actress Fran Lee combines bright white and off white with dramatic red and black accessories for striking effects. All the white accessories were chosen with cleanability in mind.

Snowy Parisian marble lamps lift right out of their brass bases so they can be dunked in warm suds in the kitchen sink. She removes cords which bind them to their electrical parts, washes them, pours ammonia over them, then sponges them off with more suds.

The white lamp shades are put into kitchen sink suds, although she cautions that "shades should be rinsed quickly and metal frames dried at once to avoid rust."

She hangs each shade with string over the bathtub to drip dry.

White cotton damask slipcovers with fringed welting are put into the washing machine, and put on the furniture while they are still damp. They dry smoothly, never need ironing. The white-ness of the sofas is emphasized by the dramatic lipstick red and black corduroy pillows, covered with handy zip-on covers for easier washing.

DRAPERIES OF gold and white form the backdrop for the large living room couch, and even though they cover a wide expanse they find their way into the sink for their sudsing. The draperies were purchased in narrow panels, easier to pull along the traverse rod, remove and wash. Large cumbersome panels take more intense servicing.

After swishing each panel through soap or detergent suds, the draperies are rinsed, lifted from the water when still dripping, rehung wet, placing several towels or newspapers on the floor to catch the dripping water.

The cleaning of a white rug can be a very successful operation in your own home. Prepare the suds and the vehicle to be used—vacuum cleaner shampoo attachment or whatever, and do a small area at a time. I have had good success doing white rugs on screened in porch. Choose a dry, sunny day, and a spot that is near an electric outlet. (The porch light socket may be used.) If the rug is not too large it may be brought indoors after shampooing to dry. It is better if the rug can dry outdoors, however, in the sun.

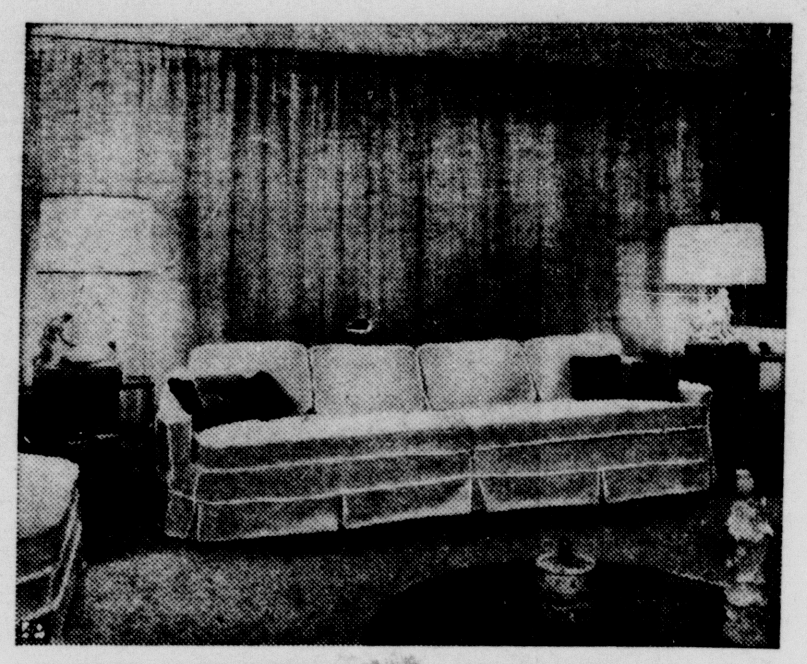
THANK GREEKS AND ROMANS FOR LAMPS

The Lamp and Shade Institute of America tells us that the Greeks and Romans discovered the efficiency of portable lighting 2,000 years ago.

They used wicks floated in oil as household necessities providing light that could be carried easily from room to room, task to task.

And even in those days the women turned their attention toward making these portable lights as decorative as possible as well as functional.

Today's attractive lamps are direct descendants of those portable lights — and also combine decoration with function.



A WHITE LIVING ROOM is practical and within your reach —if you use washable fabrics. This attractive home illustrates the beauty of that color.

Sectionals Provide Lots Of Flexibility

Every home maker looking for furniture that is flexible, functional and handsome — looks first to the wide variety of sectional upholstered furniture items.

Yes, chief asset of the sectionals is their flexibility. The variety of possibilities in room arrangements gives wide play to the home maker's proverbial need for "changing things around," a practice enthusiastically supported by home planners who recognize the values of versatile living.

Like a child's building blocks, sectionals may be stacked horizontally. Placed end to end they fill a wall or bend around a corner. Variety is gained thru use of curved pieces, which may serve as center focal points or be used to round out freight train lengths of up to ten units extending up to 40 feet. The versatility of sectionals is limited only by room size.

Styles ranging from stark modern to traditional, include the French provincial with its outline of carved wood molding in the Louis XV manner, hundreds of fabrics finding favor are brocatelles, linens, boucles and matelasse often combined with nylon, and fine metallic textures.

For persons with a preference for the traditional, manufacturers make wide use of damask and matelasse in the flavor of the old designs.

The axiom among interior decorators that rooms must be fitted like clothing has given impetus to davenports and sectionals that are lighter in scale to dress contemporary homes. These have slimmer arms and backs, or none at all.

In any size room there is a place for sectional arrangements. Fireplaces are right for sofa size units, and, where television sets have become family centers, curved corner pieces combining to seat half a dozen or more make comfortable and stylish living room theaters.

Sections may hug one wall or extend the length of it and make a short right angle job at the corner. Instead of a small corner piece, the long section abutting the wall may have two arms, the other only one. Or a square, upholstered corner table unit with formica top may be used to make the turn.

Padding Wise Buy With New Carpet

When buying carpet, homemakers are always advised to include padding with their purchase. The question often arises: "What is padding?", "Why do I need it?", Which type should I buy?"

Simply put, padding is carpet's "friendly companion." It is one of the wisest and most economical buys a family can make.

Padding is sometimes referred to by a variety of terms. These include "underlay", "rug lining", "carpet cushions" or just "pads". They all mean the same thing—a cushioning material placed under the carpet or rug.

The advantages of padding are many. First, it prolongs the life of the carpet by absorbing the grinding and crushing of the pile caused by everyday use, and helps retain the carpet texture.

Next, it amplifies the multiple benefits of the carpet. The luxurious cushioning feeling of carpet, its ability to absorb noise and insulate against extreme cold and heat are all substantially increased by the use of padding. For example, studies have shown that carpet's noise reduction ability is almost doubled by the use of padding.

The underlay will also help fill in any minor unevenness in the floor, sometimes eliminating the possible need for extensive floor repairs when carpet is installed.

The paddings used today are made of a number of different materials. Most well-known perhaps is the "felted" type made of all cattle-hair, all-jute or hair-jute combinations. These fibers are felted together to provide a soft, resilient and durable fabric. The all-hair products tend to be more resilient and somewhat more costly than the all-jute combinations.

In recent years a variety of new materials have been introduced into carpet padding. These include sponge rubber, foam rubber and plastic foam compositions. In some underlayments foam rubber is also added to the felted hair products to provide extra springiness.

Sponge rubber underlays come either molded—for added buoyancy—or smooth surfaced. Rubber padding is moth-and insect-proof, mold-and mildew-proof and nonallergenic.

The newer kind of padding, made of urethane plastic foam is resistant to dampness and heat and like rubber is nonallergenic, insect-and mildew-proof. The plastic foam underlays tend to be quite resilient and bouncy. Both the rubber and plastic products are usually priced higher than the felted paddings.

Mill Valley Store Opens New Shop Featuring Fine Fabrics

Mill Valley Furniture Shops at 59 Throckmorton avenue in Mill Valley has opened a new fabric shop within the store.

In their specialty shop, according to owner James H. Swearingen, is carried fabrics of exceptional value at modest prices, amongst which are samples of Polish cottons, Irish, Belgian and English linens.

There are contemporary designs from America's finest fabric mills. Samples of materials are available and can be ordered to reach the buyer within about one week, Swearingen said.

Fabrics include materials for drapery, curtains, upholstery and slip covers. Indian bedspreads are available and are used, Swearingen said, for both spreads and drapes.

In the main part of the shop are featured contemporary home furnishings from both American and European furniture designers such as Milo Baughman, Kip Steward, Svend Madsen, John Stuart and Paul McCobb.

The accent, Swearingen said, is on casual designs for California living.

Another specialty of Mill Valley Furniture Shops is a line of gift items from all over the world. There are imports from 20 countries including Yugoslavia, Turkey, Italy, Haiti, Japan, Denmark, Poland and Mexico.

A trademark of the Swearingens is to handle items which are of good design and at the same time a little on the unusual side.

One of their lines is lamps which are made by hand by a small manufacturer in Forest Knolls.

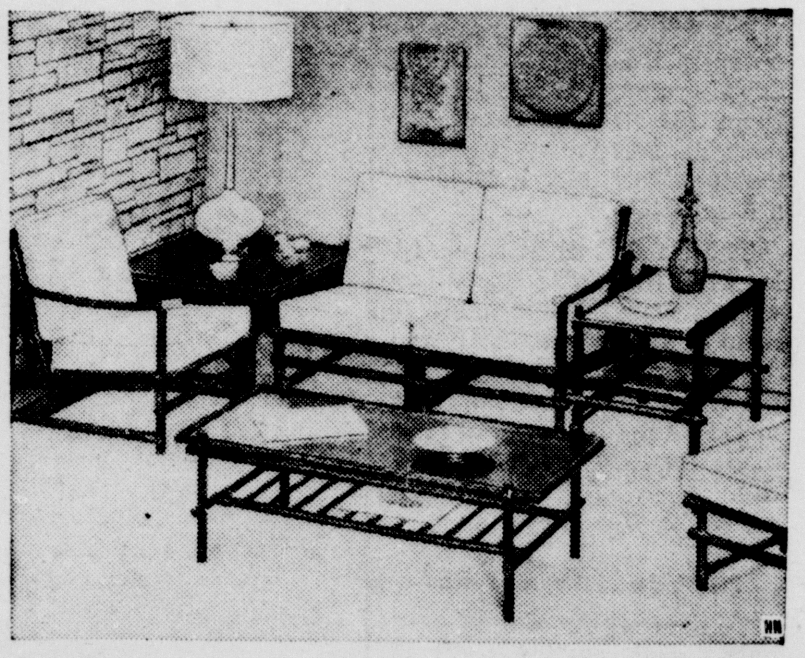
They also handle floor coverings.

Gift items include Polish handwoven wool rugs, Mexican candles, Italian straw roosters, Danish stainless steel bowls, candlesticks from Italy.

Swearingen, with his wife, Susan, opened the store more than two years ago. He has been in the decorative home furnishings business for 35 years and has been associated with several fine furniture companies in the Bay Area.

Mrs. Swearingen has worked for the past 10 years in the field of gifts and imports.

A decorating service is available at the shop by Swearingen at no charge to the customer.



CHIC BUT CASUAL, this Bel Aire group will give distinction to either a living room or a patio. The wood is Philippine rattan. Polynesian cushions have reversible zippered covers.

New Look In Lamps Really Old

Ornate Patterns Of 18th Century Make Comeback

The new look in lamps is centuries old.

Even lamp manufacturers noted for modern designs are now turning out lamps that look like heirlooms. The bases of many of the new lamps resemble grandmother's prized tea cannisters and Chinese vases.

Patterned with wild flowers, clusters of fruit and the federal eagle, they're reminiscent of 18th century Chinese Chippendale.

The ornate look of antique lamps is recaptured by another new group of lamps with bases of openwork porcelain on carved cherry shafts, smoked glass, etched pewter and brass, other sculptured metals and teakwood.

Shades of the past on the new lamps are muslin, brocade boucle and textured linen, many banded and bordered in striped silk, velvet, gold braid and grossgrain.

Other touches of the past in many lamp collections include carved fruitwood ballister balls, antiqued brass and ebony pedestals, ring handles, slotted stems and fringed pull cords.

More evidence of the popularity of traditional lamps is a new Wedgewood design for a base. Called "Dancing Hours," it is the first new Wedgewood lamp design in years.

While all these lamps have the look of the past, they work with 20th century precision. Some have three-way switches, and virtually all of them feature diffused, glare-free light, directed downward.

Lamp designers at the international home furnishings market said they combined 20th century efficiency with antique designs because people were tired of cold, modern lamps.

As one designer put it: "Who wants to cozy up to an alluminated shaft?"

Photos Part Of Decorating

The homemaker who does her own interior decorating can pick up a smart new idea from professional decorators by hanging large portrait photographs on the wall, perhaps as the focal point of her living room.

Decorators today consider portrait photographs as the family's most personal form of art, to be matted and framed in hundreds of exciting ways, geared to the homemaker's own furnishings and taste.

The first step in perking up your home with your family's portrait photographs is a trip to a local portrait photography studio. Next is selecting frames which complement, not dominate, the subjects. Frames can be pecky cypress, fruitwood, shadow-box styles or a variety of other possibilities geared to the personality of your decorative scheme.

CHANGE OF SCENE

Wallpaper Does Wonderful Job Of Transformation

If you are experiencing your annual Spring urge toward a "change of scene" in your home, you might do well to consider wallpaper as a means to this end. You will be surprised and delighted at the wonderful job of transformation that wallpaper can do for you at a very modest outlay.

But don't be content just to cover your four walls: you can do so much more with wallpaper than that. Wallpaper is both pattern and picture; it has the magic of illusion and it can do all kinds of "tricks" for you that will help you to correct and improve your surroundings.

Here are a few of them: see if they apply to your home.

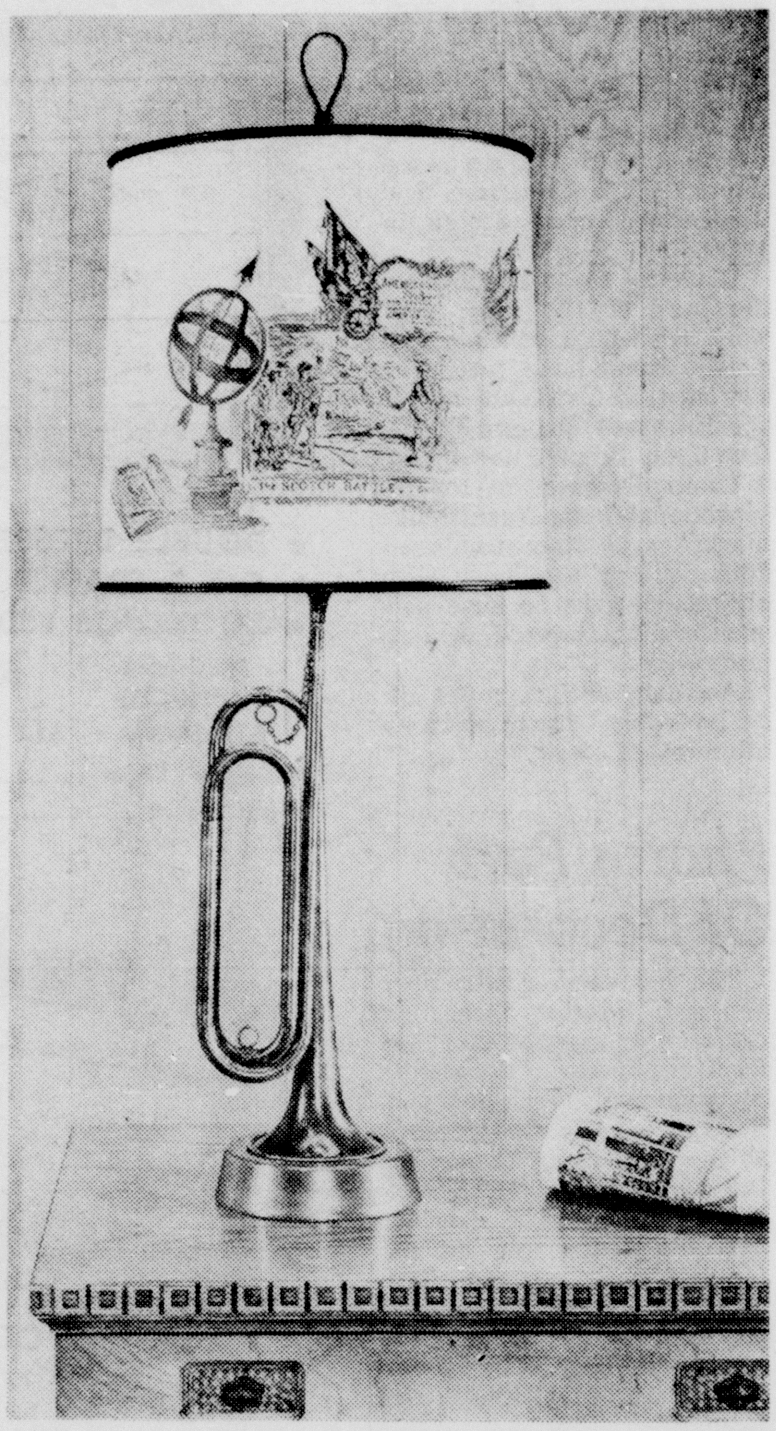
DO YOU HAVE a too small room, or a room that lacks windows and seems shut in and dark? Then choose an openingup paper such as a mural, a repeat scenic or one of the many kinds of patterns that suggest airy grillwork, shoji screening or latticework. Sometimes you can effectively combine papers: your grillwork paper used on three of your walls could open up on a fourth wall of blossoms or trees or a view to create your own little "window."

Another kind of room that tends to give a closed in feeling is when the ceiling is too low. Here a vertical pattern can make it seem a foot higher. You can use stripe effects, and this gives you a big field to choose from.

Wallpaper can do a good comouflaging job for you too. Many houses have problem areas such as jogs and beams, or too many openings such as closets, doors and windows (this is particularly true in older houses). Small scale geometric patterns, simulated textures, all-over non-directional florals or colorful plaids can cover over uneven walls, columns and beams.

BUT APART from all these "architectural" improvements that can be made with wallpaper, it can also be a tremendous help to those of you with special decorating ideas in mind. Let us suppose that you have a great hankering for the Early American look that is so popular these days. Your furniture may be a mixture of many styles, but your first step would be to suggest the right atmosphere by using an appropriate Early American design on your walls.

The same idea of course, applies to any particular style or period that you may prefer, whether it be contemporary, Oriental, traditional or French provincial.



AN AMUSING NOTE in lamp light straight out of our American heritage, a solid brass regulation army bugle with weathered bronze finish. One of a series of current best seller designs, such as decorative canisters, eagles, covered wagons and other memorabilia representing early American history. The shade of antique kidskin-type parchment carries out the over-all theme with an easily identifiable War of Independence print. For the living room with an American Colonial flavor; for a wood-paneled den or library ;for a boy's room; or used as a conversation-making accent note in a contemporary setting.

Don't Be Afraid To Mix

Today's imaginative homemaker, who coordinates new furniture with older pieces and mixes furniture styles and periods — antique with modern, French Provincial with Italian Provincial, traditional with Oriental, and Colonial with everything—gets a vote of confidence from the home fashion world.

The day of the matching "suite" is gone, say designers and decorators, and in its place arrives an era that is much more gratifying and exciting. Individuality is the aim in home decorating, and expressing the family's personality, interests and way of life has far greater importance than trying to stay within the limits of any one type of furniture design.

There are, of course, certain furniture styles that have special popularity in this new decorating era—among them, American Colonial, the Provincials, Oriental, modern and various Continental-inspired designs.

BUT THE homemaker need not confine her decorating to just one of these. She can refurnish, using pieces from several of her favorite styles, or she can combine a new style with her present furniture.

Modern styles now have a warm and gentle classic persuasion that makes them not only more elegant but more compatible with traditional, Oriental or Provincial themes.

Many new furniture designs blend modern with traditional, often effectively combining styles that span several centuries.

American Colonial is a favorite, liked for its air of cheerful friendliness. No matter what changes take place in decorating ideas, this is one style that's always fashionable.

IN RECENT years, Oriental designs have gained increasing importance, perhaps because, like Italian Provincial, Oriental has a simplicity-with-elegance that fits in with the current idea of more-elegant modern.

The entrance of English and Irish country styles, along with some notable Spanish and Mexican influences, is also newsworthy.

Distinctive woods figure beautifully, playing up natural grains. Leading in popularity today are oak, walnut, cherry, mahogany, maple and birch.

Clear, natural finishes in a rich range of colors enable wood to play many decorative role, giving both opulence and individuality to furniture.

Colors in upholstery, draperies, wall and floor coverings and accessories help create pleasing harmony when combinations of furniture styles are used. There are many bright hues this spring — corals, golds, reds, blues and blue-greens—along with whitened beige, olive green and other muted tones that echo the prevailing trend in colors for wearing apparel.

Leather Solves Problems

Furniture upholstered in one of the brightly hued durable leathers can answer many a home decorating problem this spring—particularly when the object is to give a room a new look without doing a major job of refurnishing.

Leather, which used to be thought suitable only for strictly masculine locales—offices, dens, men's clubs and such—has burgeoned out in more than five hundred colors and in modern or period styles for living room, dining room, family room, bedroom, study.

A favorite starting point for the decorator is a leather sofa, six feet or longer. For traditional decor, there are substantial leather couches with trapunto, embossing or quilting to add dimensional depth to the surface. For a contemporary room, the light lines of leather back and seat cushions on a frame of light walnut or blond mahogany are preferred.

To flank a fireplace, a new idea is a pair of identical leather wing chairs in contrasting colors, with a large square or oblong cocktail table inlaid with squares or wide stripes of the contrasting chair leathers.

Want to brighten a dark corner? Place a big square lamp table there, inlaid with eggshell white leather, and "surround" it with modern armless leather chairs, one in eggshell, the other in any bright color that blends with the room scheme. On the table, set a lamp to shed a warm glow on the leather.

When a patio is connected to a living room, with a window wall between, leather adds to indoor-outdoor planning. Indoor leather furniture can be matched to leather-cushioned wrought iron patio chairs.

THE PAST AND PRESENT are creatively blended by American of Martinsville in this Dilettante setting which can be seen at the Bellach Furniture Co. in San Rafael. It's a contemporary grouping that is at the same time warm and formal. Note particularly the tall, graceful dining chairs with luxurious foam cushions, both with and without arms. The buffet top is ideal for hot food service. And the handsome breakfront China cabinet stands 72 inches high.

Today's Kitchen Is An All-Purpose Room

Tired of the same old kitchen?

Many homemakers, realizing that they spend the majority of their time in the kitchen, are taking steps to make their kitchen a pleasant and comfortable spot to relax and entertain friends in addition to being an efficient place to prepare meals.

Architects and builders currently are incorporating many design features, formerly used only in informal living areas, into modern kitchens to develop a new "personality" for this all-purpose room. Woodgrain paneling, desk and telephone, television, comfortable chairs, and even a cheerful fireplace, now are found in kitchens.

To emphasize this trend in kitchens, many interesting decors can be planned to complement the furnishings and appliances. Paneling in a wide range of colors and patterns makes it easy to create a distinctive and practical decor.

Woodgrain paneling is especially popular because it can be used in modern treatments or to accent an Early American or Colonial theme.

The New Chrome Dinettes

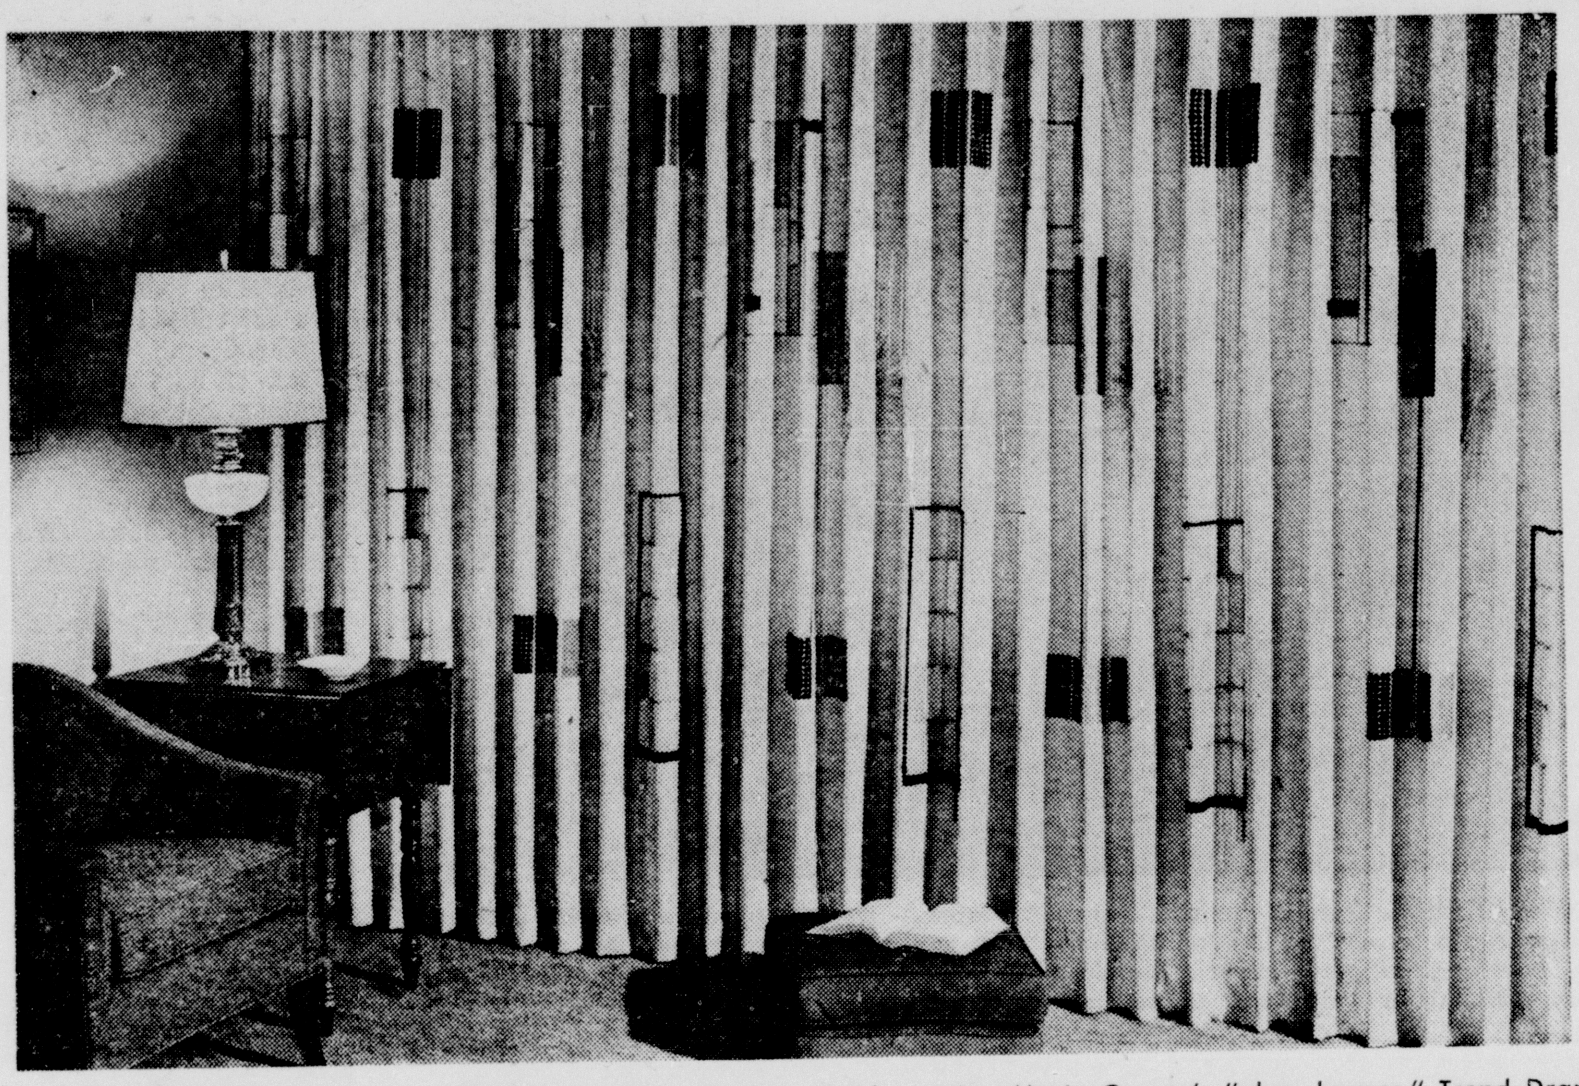
Give a second glance to the new gleaming, chrome dinettes now on the market. They have come out of the kitchen and into a number one spot in your dining or family room.

Designers are following the trend to carefree living and have combined a galaxy of smart plastics with sturdy gleaming chrome. According to designers, tables must be small enough to fit into limited space, yet expand for special occasions. Chairs must be comfortable, colorful and simple to clean. This handsome chrome dinette is a good example of all these desirable features.

You'll find a large variety of wood-grain novel designs.

Large diameter, tapered tubular legs increase stability.

Most tables come with extension leaves to increase the size of the top.



THE PICTURED drapery treatment demonstrates a practical use of new wall panels. Such panels minimize the danger of "crowding" a room with prints, a serious problem found in decorating Marin County's "glass houses." Trend Draperies, San Rafael, features such fabric panels and murals in modern, traditional and oriental.

A NEW KITCHEN IDEA is the sink which will go into a corner. It's the Jensen-Thorsen new right-angled model, stainless steel, with mirror finish and classic contours — just right for the smaller kitchen. It saves valuable counter top space and minimizes dishwashing movements for the homemaker.

Even Kitchen Sinks Have A New Look

A unique new corner style of double-bowl stainless steel sink that fits conveniently into kitchen counter tops has been introduced by Jensen-Thorsen Corp.

First of its type in the plumbing industry, the new right-angled corner sink placement to offer far more flexibility in kitchen layout, according to Karl Jensen, president of the Addison, Ill., firm.

"By allowing architects and designers the option of placing the bowl in any corner, rather than the middle of the wall, the new corner sink saves valuable counter top space. It also is a boon to housewives, minimizing movements required in dish washing by placing the sink around her rather than in front of her," noted Jensen.

The new right-angled design of Jensen stainless steel sink has overall dimensions 43¼ inches long from corner to corner and 22 inches from front to back. The two bowls made in Jensen's smart contour shape and lustrous mirror-finish measure 16½ inches by 15 inches. The 21-inch ledge in the back has three faucet openings.

The new Jensen corner sinks come with standard drain openings of three-and-one-half inches and sound deadening undercoating in sanitary white.

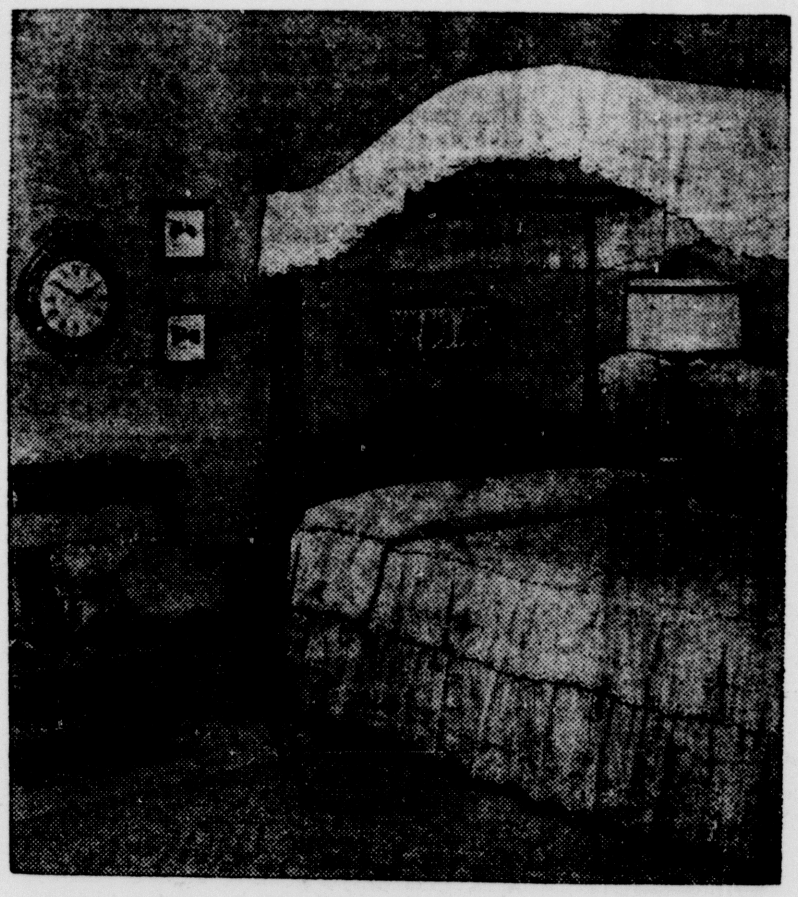
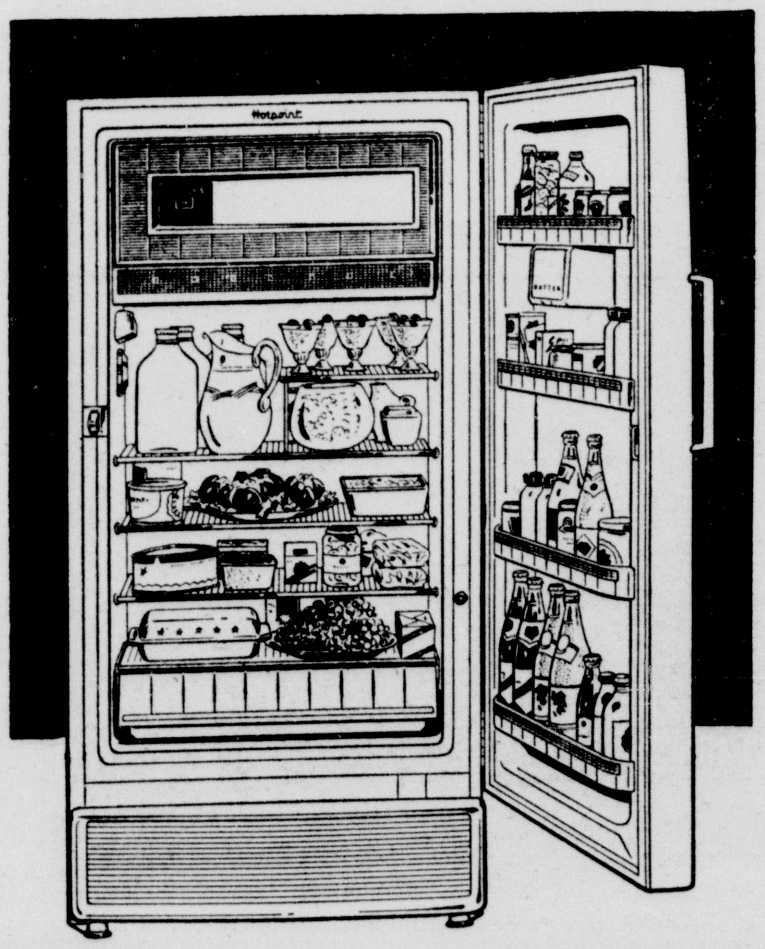
TOKAY IS THE descriptive name of the golden brown color of this mahogany serving wagon. Gliding on large brass ball casters, it can go from dining room to terrace. Serving top and tray drawers are stain proof, pale beige plastic. The soft sheen finish of the mahogany protects it from heat and liquid stains.



OLD-FASHIONED WARMTH of early American period joins with the clean lines of modern interpretation in this bedroom. Complementing the canopied bed and deacon's bench are accessories with continuity of design, such as the cordless battery-operated wall clock, a lamp and pictures. Early American pieces of this quality can be found along with other fine furniture at Marin County Furniture in San Rafael.

CHERRY WOOD with French provincial styling gives the cabinet of this new Magnavox Concert Grand great charm. The stereophonic hi-fidelity phonograph and radio are completely automatic with wireless remote control, and thus can be operated from any room in the house. It's a powerful 100-watt stereo, and is also designed in Danish modern. You can see it and other fine musical pieces at Hoy's TV and Music Stores in San Rafael and San Anselmo.

DISTINCTIVE DECOR is achieved with a properly placed, extremely attractive multi-drawer apothecary chest—and maple-framed portrait photographs. This idea is especially good for an Early American room.



THIS 12-FOOT eye-high combination Hotpoint refrigerator is as handsome as it is useful. It's the pride of Shopper's Furniture and Appliance in Novato.

HIGH-FIDELITY AND STEREOPHONIC sets and television sets can be beautiful pieces of furniture that add much to the appearance of a home, as well as wonderful sources of entertainment. The Zenith products shown above, and offered at McPhail's in San Rafael, demonstrate this point remarkably well. At left is the Zenith's new Interlude, a completely equipped, full, multi-channel, high-fidelity stereophonic record player available in grained walnut, grained mahogany, grained cherry, and grained blond oak colors. At right is the new Zenith 23-inch picture window TV, the Hayes, in a modern-styled console cabinet on a swivel base. It is available in grained mahogany, walnut, or blond oak color cabinets.

New Sets Combine Fine Furniture, Entertainment

The all-new line of Zenith television sets, only just recently introduced to dealers of this area, is topped by a six-receiver series of 23-inch picture window sets, described by company officials as "1960's most advanced television."

Also previewed by Marin dealers was a full line of 12 Zenith console or console combination multi-channel, high-fidelity stereophonic instruments that offer a choice of systems to meet every home entertainment need.

A Zenith-developed drop-in FM-AM tuner with automatic frequency control, a new styled AC clock-radio with sleep switch convenience, and a new portable stereophonic four-speed automatic record player were other eye-catchers in the new Zenith offerings.

Thirty-nine basic model TV sets were also shown ranging from new all-styled portables to slenderized low-boys and swivel sets to upright consoles.

A decorator group of fine furniture styled consoles is already winning wide acclaim among those who look for entertainment pieces that dress up their homes.

All the new models preview the Zenith-developed 23-inch (overall diagonal measurement) Sunshine picture tube that provides 282 square inches of viewing surface on an almost rectangular shaped face.

Some Tips For Next Fall On Storing Of Furniture

Even though your storage space may be limited, finding the right spot to store outdoor furniture for the winter can be a problem easily solved.

Draw a plan first, advises Lloyd Manufacturing Co., a leading maker of outdoor metal furniture. And make sure the storage area is dry.

If the basement or garage is to be used, simple shelves can hold the light pieces and sturdy hooks or pegs can hold tables and contour chairs up out of the way.

Folding chairs can be stacked against the walls and chairs that don't fold can be nested.

Peg boards attached to the inside of a door or lining a wall can hold folding and non-folding chairs if floor space is at a premium. Even tables can be stored within easy reach on a "peg wall."

A Paint Job Perks Up The Home With Fresh New Colors

With the coming of Spring, the home-owner usually feels it's time to perk the place up with a fresh redecoration job. The first thing that comes to mind is a change in the wall colors.

Truly, a fresh coat of paint works wonders in dressing up a home. Wall colors should, of course, be selected to best suit the spacific needs of the home in question and reflect the tastes and personality of the home-owner.

Generally, a decorative scheme should consist of a related group of colors. Use the colors that you feel most appropriate. Add variety and interest by augmenting the basic color with contrasting tones on one wall.

TO EMPHASIZE a room's good feature, background it with a wall or area of different color or tone so that it stands out prominently. To minimize a less favorable feature, background it with a matching color so that it will blend into a surrounding area and thus become less noticeable. This is called "decorating camouflage."

By the same token, long, narrow rooms can be made to look wider by placing a dark color on the wall at each end and a lighter color on the side walls and ceiling.

Rooms that are square and uninteresting in shape can be improved by painting one wall a different color than the other three, thus providing a focal point of interest.

Low ceilings will seem higher if painted white and if the baseboard is the same color as the walls. If you have the opposite problem, too high ceilings, they can be "lowered" with dark paint.

WHEN PAINTED to match walls, sore thumb items like book cases and standing closets can have that "built-in" appearance.

Paint can break up the monotony of an all-one-color floor. There's no reason why all the rooms should match; paint variety in and get a feeling of spaciousness.

The trend today is to make the kitchen area flow out into the dining room. Paint will help you achieve this pleasing eye effect. Select two colors, one to use on the dining room walls, and the other complementary color for the kitchen. The easy-to-clean surfaces of modern paints will be a great aid in keeping the kitchen walls cleaner for longer.

If the kitchen is small, select a bright color that will make the walls glow with brightness. Chances are the smallest room in most anyone's house is the bathroom. New paint colors can help make this room appear a great deal larger. Light shades can defeat that boxed-in feeling common in small rooms.

COMFORT IS THE WORD for this appealing set-up at Johnson's Red Barn Furniture in Novato. The lounge chair and ottoman on a downy rug are just the right setting for a quiet evening with a book — and much relaxation.

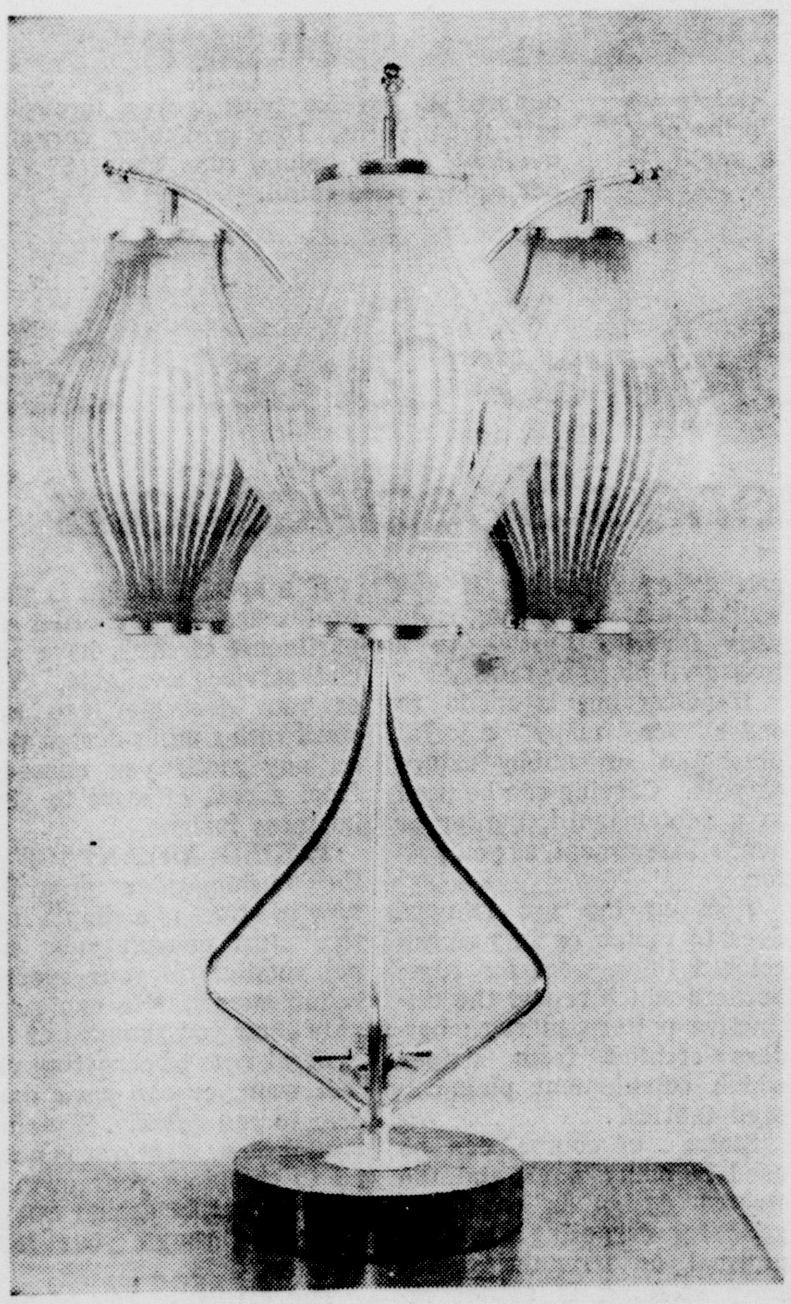
Where Floor Counts

The basic decorative requirement for the recreation or family room is carefree ability to take hard wear. Floor coverings, especially, must be able to take hard wear, and require a minimum of maintenance if the family's recreation is to be truly relaxed.

Prime favorites for the flooring of the modern recreation room are resilient rubber and solid vinyl.

Clean First

Turpentine on a cloth will remove most grease and oil from wood before painting.



GAY AND BRIGHT this table tree of lamps has an international flavor. A variation of the hanging "Japanese" lantern, it is inspired by the islands of the Caribbean. The base is solid walnut and brass. Vinyl-backed linen ribbon strips in tangerine, turquoise and white make the shade covering frosted glass globes. This highly functional table lamp can be flicked on from any side with an "easy-living" rotary switch.

Today's Rugs Do Far More Than Just Cover Your Floors

Carpets and rugs are newsmakers for 1960, already hailed as the leader in home fashions with eye-catching colors, practical textures and good value in new styles which are designed to do much more than just cover the floor.

Any stereotyped idea about the plain-looking carpet which is just a background in the room is bound to disappear in the wake of color, texture and pattern to be seen this spring.

COLOR COMES first on the list—and it's a real pace-setter in the home furnishings field. Colors which only a year or so ago were limited are now staples—avocado and bronze greens, lavender and purple, gold and melon shades. The list of "strong nuetrals" continues to grow with additions in the gold and copper families.

Slated for new fashion appeal are rich jewel tones—amethyst, emerald, topaz, ruby red and magenta. Hint of things to come: Gray and rose are making a comeback, but in more distinctive shades than the standard colors of a decade ago. Green, also once standard, is seen in many new versions, and, along with yellow, is shown in some light and clear shades which are especially right for spring.

Just as important as color itself is the use of color by many designers. Combinations are in many categories—rich blue and purple, brilliant orange and red, cool blue and green. Designers have gone even further to blend as many as seven colors—sometimes related tones of the same color, sometimes opposing colors for an unusual "iridescent" effect in which one color highlights another.

These design combinations provide the perfect starting point in decoration, since even those who wonder about the long-lasting appeal of "a different color" on the floor will find that any tone in the carpet can be highlighted in decoration, creating possibilities for a variety of changes.

TEXTURE—the more the better, say carpet stylists this year. Looped textures easily win a popularity poll—all the way from a single-level looped pile to a multi-level in combination with cut pile. Loops are often "patterned" for designs such a swirls or geometrics.

There are heavily-textured surfaces and rugged, handcrafted effects. Further texture variations are achieved by random-shearing on cut and uncut pile. Popularity of all the textured effects has been boosted by their practicality, their ability to camouflage footprints and crush marks.

Traditional cut pile, however, is still a classic in the carpet field, and this year "plush textures" show new fashion colors off to the best advantage.

PATTERN goes hand-in-hand with both color and texture. Textural variations are often strong enough to create a pattern in themselves. Contrasting colors achieve the same purpose in other styles—a welcome addition to the practical and popular tweed colorings.

In distinctive design, there are true patterns ranging from florals to abstract motifs. Block patterns are popular in both delicate floral styles and more informal Early American versions. Patterns go on to modern interpretations of block and linear designs

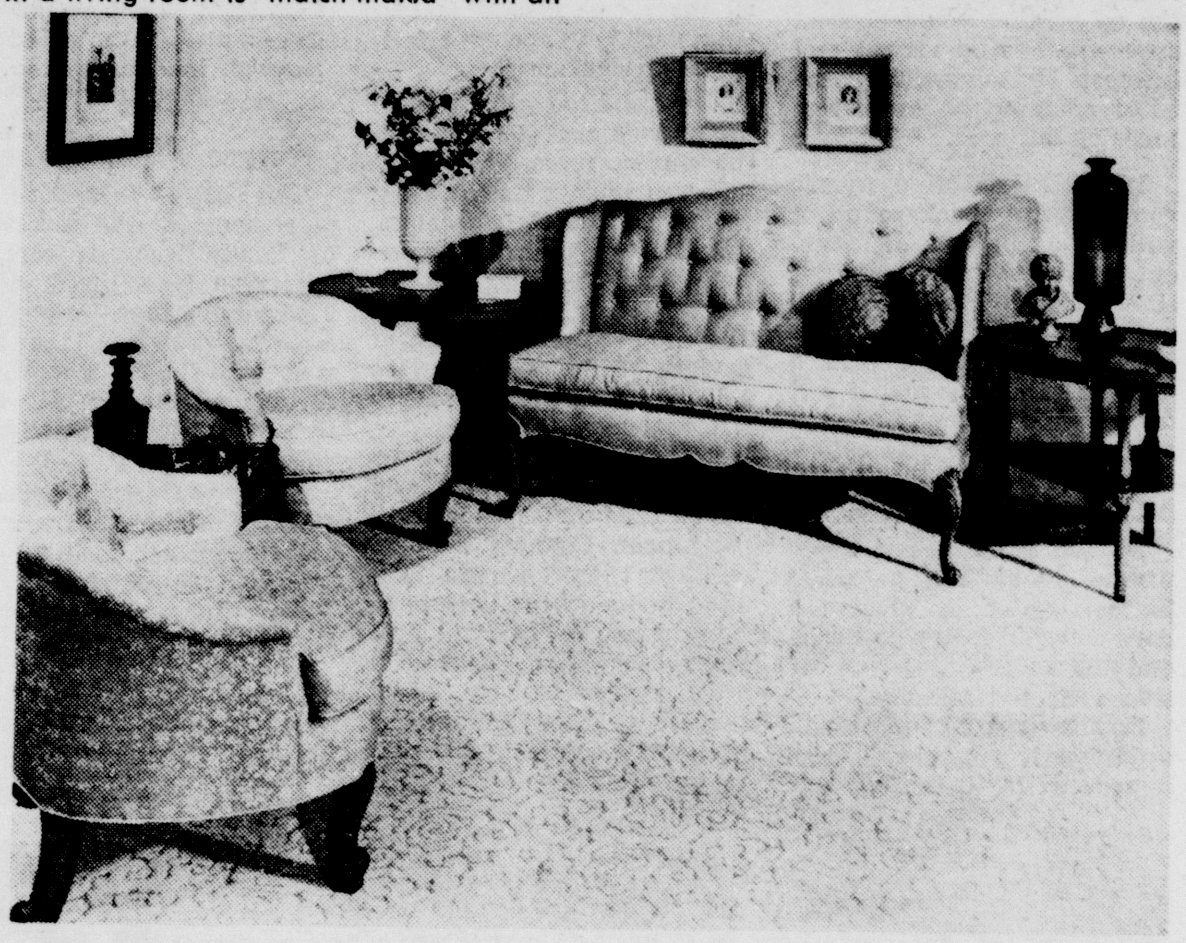
Rugs for 1960 reveal these same style trends found in carpeting — and often go to the boldest extreme of design and color in area sizes since they often occupy a smaller area in the room. Fringes, borders and hand-carving are the finishing touches on many rugs.

The shape and size of both rugs and carpeting is virtually limitless this year, since custom-order lines have been introduced at consumer level by a number of major mills.

All of these 1960 styles have been created in a wide variety of constructions and fibers. Construction processes include traditional weaving, tufting and the newest, knitting, which has established a firm place.

Fiber news includes new additions to the continuous filament nylon and acrylic families; more style choice in tightly-textured cotton carpets and rugs; the first patterned carpets made of nylon; and still a steady popularity for the traditional fiber, wool. Almost two-thirds of the carpets and rugs now being produced are made of wool or wool blends; but manufacturers continue to find the best uses for man-made fibers, often in blends to take advantage of special characteristics such as strength or color.

RELATED PATTERNS spark new ideas this year in the use of carpet for adjoining areas in your home. Here, a floral pattern in a living room is "match-mated" with an abstract design in the adjoining hallway. Texture is achieved by the use of frieze and plush yarns.



A SOFTLY-SCULPTURED carpet points up the "return of elegance" theme in the new home furnishings. The rosette motif is outlined in reverse twist woven through soft twist yarns. This particular carpet, available in six colors, runs about $9.95 per square yard retail.

Portable Radio Can Be Essential

One of the most important possessions of every family is a portable radio, according to civilian defense officials.

During emergencies, when electrical service probably will be disrupted, radio often will be the only method by which people can obtain information and instructions from the authorities. Portable radios are the only type that will continue to operate.

THERE'S NO LIMIT

Custom-Ordered Carpets Can Meet Anyone's Specifications

There's just one limit to the new carpet and rug styles you can now choose for your home — your own imagination.

In addition to the widest-ever range of styles and colors offered today in regular lines, major mills have introduced further possibilities for the homemaker who has her own ideas about soft floor coverings. Custom-order programs are the order of the day for 1960.

A special color, an unusual texture, your own individual design motif, an odd size or shape — just name your requirements and a carpet or rug can be made to order by a skilled manufacturer. The new collections of carpets and rugs available for custom order are only the starting point for your own specifications.

CUSTOM DYEING is a specialty with major manufacturers this year. More than 100 "suggested" colors are readily available, but you can go even further if you want to match anything from your favorite lipstick to a treasured piece of fabric.

Hand-carving is made to order for many colorful plush-pile or nubby-texture carpets. Carving can be used as a center motif, border or over-all treatment, as you prefer.

Also on tap are fringes, dyes to match or in natural-colored thick wool for rugs; borders which repeat the distinctive pattern in rugs; borders created from stripes which complement plain-colored fabrics.

Stripes, of course, can be used in many ways, and the striped design is especially good for carpeting areas of unusual or irregular width since seaming is almost invisible.

For other "problem sizes," carpeting can be ordered in seamless widths to 25 feet. Unusual shapes—oval, rectangular, T-or L-shaped, round or free-form— can be found in rugs.

If a special design is your preference, custom-order departments of mills have special services available. You or your decorator can now work with a mill's design staff on any motif you choose—from a coat of arms to your business insigna.

TAKING ADVANTAGE of the custom-order programs now in effect is a simple matter. Just consult your carpet retailer on your specific requirements. He can probably show you samples of the general type of carpeting you will want, or can have them sent to you quickly. Sketches, swatches, or whatever is needed to complete your own individual carpet design can be handled through your local retailer.

The carpet or rug of your choice will be ready in a surprisingly short time, usually in about four weeks, and the cost for the custom order is very little more than you would expect to pay for quality carpeting already on the market.

Proper Carpeting Can Solve Family Room Noise Problem

Choice Of Floor Covering Makes A Big Difference

A BOLD BLOCK DESIGN is the contemporary design motif for this rug. Its clean-cut lines underscore the use of handsome furniture and accessories in a reading corner of a family room, where the rug adds to the comfort underfoot and helps to cut out distracting noises.

Call it a family room, a den, or a recreation room. Whatever the name, many of today's homes have one room which presents a decorating paradox. How can you furnish a room which should provide space for lots of activity—but which should also offer some peace and quiet?

Today's carpets and rugs provide a ready answer. Soft floor coverings are designed to stand up under constant use, and, at the same time, cut down on noise.

Acoustical studies conducted at Columbia University and the U.S. Bureau of Standards in Washington, D. C., have proved that carpeted floors can literally halve both impact and airborne noises.

Sound-conditioning alone is ample reason for the carpeted family room, since these areas are frequently adjacent to kitchens or dining rooms and thus subject to more noise than ever, considering the number of mechanical appliances used in today's homes. Even in another part of the house, this room often includes a TV set, hi-fi equipment, or just plain human noise if there are children around.

The carpeted floor can't guarantee perfect quiet, but it helps! And although it can't cut out noise which might be reduced by parental discipline, it's also been found that the carpeted floor has a definite effect in creating an atmosphere more conducive to good behavior.

Besides sound-conditioning, carpet always provides the homemaker with a floor which can be cleaned quickly and easily and one which is uniformly comfortable and warm.

If this sounds like the answer for your decorating paradox, here are some practical hints on choosing carpet for the family room:

1. Pick a practical color. Save the pastels and light neutrals for more formal areas of the home. If you want a solid color, select a medium tone rather than the very light or very dark. Or try a tweed, a small pattern, stripes or multicolor combination — all of which are decorative and practical.

2. Choose a sturdy texture. Again, the plush piles belong in the living room or bedroom. For heavy-traffic areas, select nubby textures, sturdy loops, high-low textures and the like. These camouflage daily use, and are most likely to fit in with family room decor.

3. Don't skimp on quality. The better the quality, the longer the wear in a heavy-traffic area.

4. If frequent cleaning is anticipated consider a room-size rug or a carpet cut to room size rather than a wall-to-wall installation. The rug can be easily removed for cleaning and could also be turned at intervals to equalize wear.

5. Choose a good padding for either carpeting or a rug. It will provide more comfort underfoot and will also help reduce noise.

INDICATIVE OF the beauty of the new lamps is this one which caught the attention of pretty Joan Edgerton Grigg of Mill Valley as she began her tour of Marin interior decorator establishments at Dorothy Kell Furniture in San Rafael. The lamp is by Stiffell, 44 inches high, combining chestnut wood and metal, and shaded in silk. It's a free adaption of the French provincial, and in keeping with the lamp trend toward the stylish, the traditional, and elegance. The table, from the Contessa group at Mt. Airy, is crafted in walnut and shows a Venetian influence.

A FLORAL PATTERN on a new drapery material, silk mohair, attracted the interest of Joan during her stop-off at Bell's in San Rafael. The fabric, she found, offers the drapability of mohair along with the eye-appealing sheen of silk. It's a blending of yarns. Behind her can be seen some samples of Bell's fine imported linens. Decorators at Bell's reported a keen interest among their customers in patterns of blues and greens.

JOAN SEEMS TO BE floating on a sea of carpets at Carpets Unlimited of San Rafael. There she found the new spring colors by Bigelow to be truly things of beauty. A combination of Acrilan yarn and gold color provided striking patterns and quality texture, and offer the added bonanzas of being easily cleaned and mothproof. The vogue in carpets is definitely toward the brighter colors this year.

A Look At What's New In Home Furnishings

It's March. And spring is just around the corner — especially, in Marin where that wonderful season arrives early and gloriously.

And with spring, many a Marin housewife begins to think about ways to brighten her home, in keeping with the balmy weather outdoors.

Pretty Mrs. Joan Edgerton Grigg of Mill Valley decided to make a tour of some of Marin's interior decorators to learn just what they are featuring for the season ahead. Accompanying her was Independent-Journal photographer Dick Steinheimer with his cameras. And he caught Joan in pictures with some of the decorating pieces and furnishings which particularly appealed to her.

Joan is the wife of Edward C. Grigg, a member of the Mill Valley police force. She is the mother of a daughter, Lori, aged 5.

Formerly a member of the San Francisco ballet, she conducts ballet at the Otudoor Art Club and is director of the Les Petites Ballerines who give a yearly performance under the sponsorship of the Outdoor Art Club as a scholarship benefit.

Her own home furniture is walnut with what she terms "a modern rustic" feeling.

But she likes beautiful furniture and furnishings of all kinds. And she found her tour of Marin's shops a most enjoyable experience.

Naturally, the photos shown here represent only a small fraction of the many fine things she saw. But then, you can see these same things for yourself.

Just take the time to visit Marin's interior decorator establishments and furniture stores. You'll be amazed at the beauty and utility to be found in the new spring stocks.

WHAT HOUSEWIFE wouldn't be pleased with this fine sofa? Joan is seated on a McGrouther-Conradi custom-built modern Lawson at Braverman's in San Anselmo while she leafs through a magazine to pick up some of the newer ideas on architecture and interior decoration. The sofa covering is of quilted, polished cotton. The table is a Weiman traditional mahogany with florient marble top.

THIS DISPLAY IN THE WINDOW of John deVries Interiors in Greenbrae is certain to stop the passer-by. In an area where there is a growing interest and demand for outdoor furniture, these Brown-Jordan metal pieces which can be used either indoors or outdoors are an added bonanza. The wallpaper is a new Wallpapers Inc. pattern, especially suitable for the walls of today's living rooms.

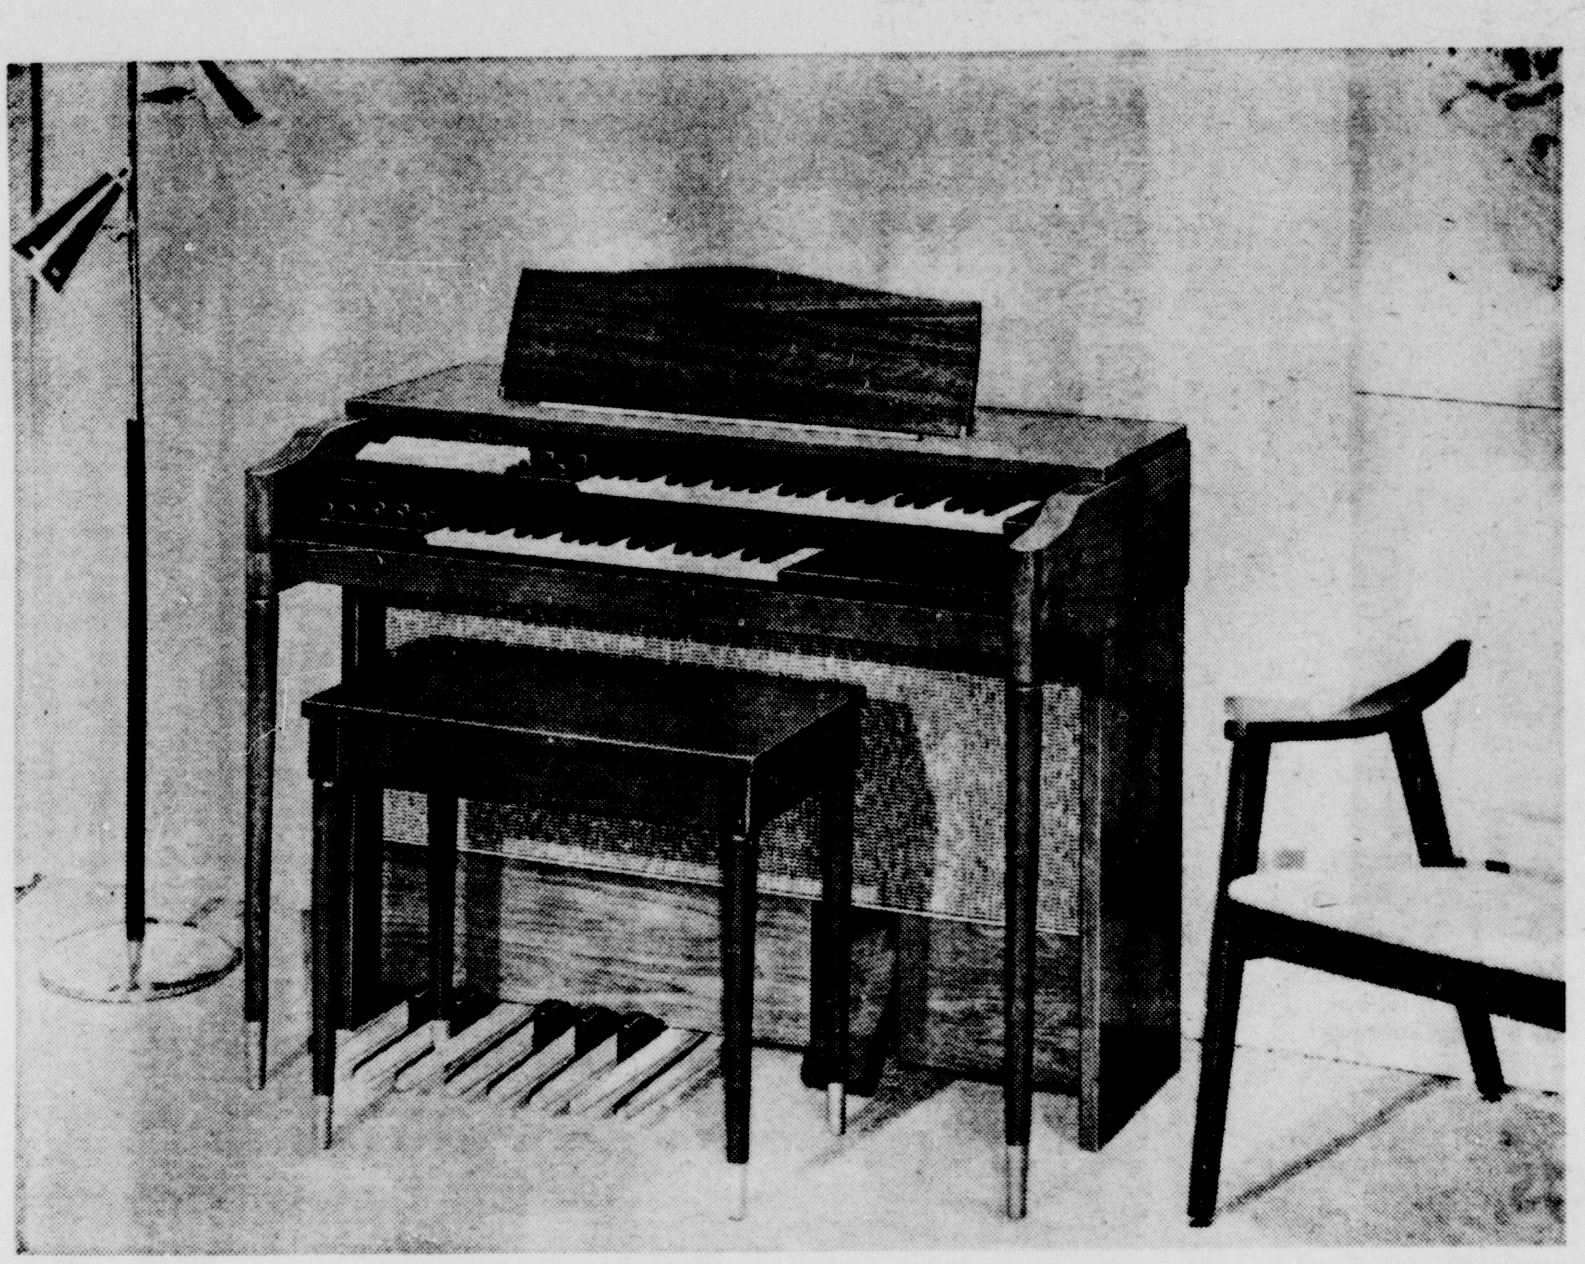
THE NEW DRAPERIES are real eye-catchers. This antique satin was especially pleasing to Joan as she looked over some of the several hundred fabrics at Carabao of Marin at San Anselmo. It's an all-time favorite with decorators and homeowners. The Carabao, which specializes in plain decorator colors, reports that white will be stronger than ever this year in drapery colors.

Marin MAGAZINE

COVER PHOTO

IT'S NOT SURPRISING that this Gill painting entitled "Pirouette" at Braverman's in San Anselmo caught the attention of attractive Mrs. Joan Edgerton Grigg of Mill Valley. She was formerly with the San Francisco Ballet herself, and is still active in directing ballet. That very comfortable looking chair is a McGrouther-Conradi piece, with a down pillow back. The color photo was taken by Dick Steinheimer.

JOAN WINDS UP her busy tour by relaxing a bit at her final stop—Steele's Patio Shop in Corte Madera. She had dropped in to see what's new this year in patio furniture. The lounge and chair are very much new. They're polished aluminum frames with vinyl strapping, with the strapping available in a number of colors. The 54-inch umbrella table seats eight people and features an embossed top so as not to reflect the sun's rays. The Sunmaster umbrella can be tilted by twisting a ring on its handle, and raised or lowered with a crank.



NOT ONLY A FINE instrument, but also a very handsome piece of furniture is the Thomas Musicale organ. It adds grace to any room, as can be seen here. And it's compact in size, 33¾ inches high, 44½ inches wide, and 23 inches deep. It's available in a style and finish to harmonize with any decor. And it can be seen at Ray Hime Pianos and Appliances in San Rafael.

How Family Lives Shows In Furniture

Your home is the truest reflection of your standard of living. It is the place where you spend the greatest number of hours each day, where your deepest relationships are formed.

A childhood home, for better or for worse, is permanently graven in every memory. The way a home looks makes the difference between whether family members want to be in it or out of it.

The House Furnishings Industry Committee declares that new furniture groups for 1960 can help families at all income levels create more pleasant atmospheres within their homes.

The first step is to analyze your home. Take a look at it as if you were your next door neighbor and ask yourself these four questions as you visit each room: Is the furniture good-looking? Is it comfortable? Do we have enough storage? Does each member of the family have the furniture he should have.

This close examination will help you find out what your home really needs. You will know what furniture pieces are good and what should be replaced now or eventually. You will also find out what is lacking and must be bought new for the first time.

For the cabin, extra room, guest cottage, etc., etc., etc.

Non-Reflective Glass Is New Decorator Aid

A glass that's almost "invisible" is a new decorator aid.

Now you can heighten the charm of framed pictures and decorations without any reflection or glare.

This non-reflective glass — developed by the Dearborn Glass Co., has an unusual decorative value in framing water colors, pastels, photos, sketches and treasured fabrics.

"Tru-Site" as the glass is called, is actually unnoticeable until you actually touch it.

Even in the brightest, sunniest rooms, Tru-Site is glare-free from any angle — and every soft, delicate line or brush stroke, or bold color, slash of charcoal or ink stroke —shows up authentically!

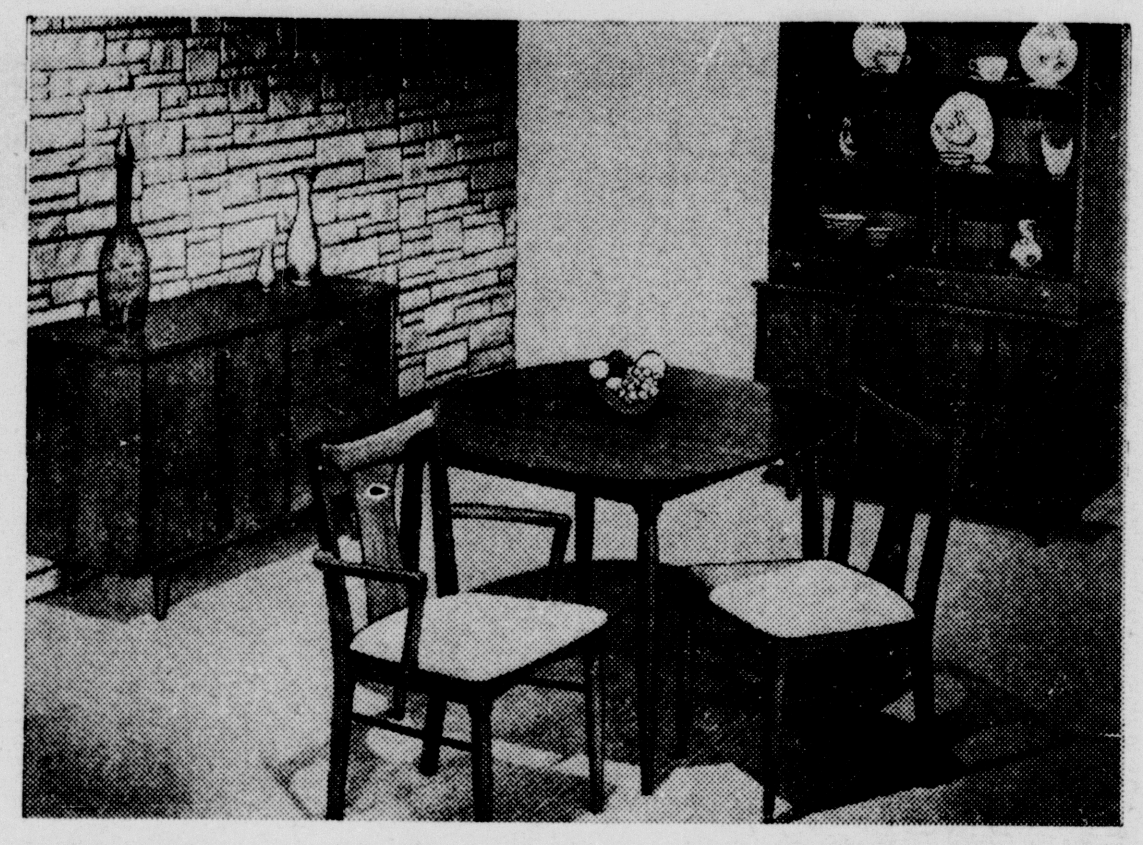
Fragile Oriental scrolls now so popular — paintings, art forms; portraits and landscapes; tapestries and samplers; fine needlework and important documents — can be seen perfectly to their finest feathery line and can be beautifully preserved for all time with Tru-Site's protection.

It is produced in single strength, standard framing weights and sizes for replacement glass for your now-framed pictures; or cut to order.

Upholstery Work

Upholstery is handwork, and you can judge it as you would tailoring.

Seams should be neat and trim. If a patterned fabric is used, the pattern should be well distributed. Ribbing or stripes should run in smooth, not wavering lines.



ELEGANCE AND GRACE beautifully and simply done keynotes the styling of this Danish dining group in walnut that fits into a modest budget. The buffet and china cabinet offer plenty of storage room for linen and dishes.

There Are Styles In Dining Room Furniture To Suit All

Family life is different in every family. With this idea in mind, designers have styled new dining room furniture for any family's needs.

The styles range from elegant to simple, and from formal to informal. It is as easy to find the right furniture for a family room, or a large dining room as it is for a small dining area.

No matter what type of entertaining you do, there is furniture that reflects the personality of your family.

THERE IS A tendency towards richness in design. Influences from the past are frequently used. The buffet and hutch combinations are high or more handsome and wide.

The groups usually include furniture for every room. Very often there is a choice between two or three different designs in chairs, tables and storage units. The days, when a suite contained nothing but "matching" pieces are definitely gone.

Harmony is the most important concept of the new designs in furniture. Some of the new Provincial and Contemporary groups include as many as fifty non-matching pieces that blend together in perfect harmony.

Early American takes on more imposing airs in new pine groups. Their origins can be traced from different parts out of America's Colonial past.

Many of the new "Continental" stylings have their design origins in 18th and 19th Century European origins.

A NEW SHAPE is the half-oval table. It has a drop-leaf and fits compactly to a wall. With its oval front down it could stand behind a sofa and used to divide a living-dining area. The companion chairs are wedge-shaped.

The apartment dweller has not been forgotten in the wide range of dining furniture that suits every way of life and every income. It has been made easy to have several guests for dinner with new, extra-long extension tables that pull out of a handsome cabinet. It is as easy to seat two as it is to sit eight. It just depends on how much "pull" you use.

AN AUTHENTIC Colonial mood is created in the kitchen by the artifully combined two styles of ponderosa pine doors.

Here's Story On Fruitwood

Early European cabinetmakers often went out to the orchard for their wood when some one ordered a new piece of furniture. Thus many pieces that survived on the continent to become household treasures or museum pieces are "fruitwood." Today "fruitwood" usually means cherry, and sometimes apple or pear. A "fruitwood finish" is a warm light brown color.

Now's The Time To Plan Your Outdoor Furniture

It's time to make plans for furnishing the outdoors—the porch, patio, terrace or lawn. Spring-summer collections of lightweight, weather-resistant outdoor furniture offer exceptional variety as well as year-round usefulness and up-to-date styling.

Aluminum continues popular, looking newest with redwood.

Square tubular aluminum frames, in antique white, gold, and turquoise, combine with plastic fabrics in charcoal, antique white, lemon yellow and turquoise. Black and gold lend sophistication.

Square steel tubing frames tables, chairs and ottomans of black wooden slats. Lounge and side chairs, featuring sculptured wooden arms, are upholstered with foam rubber padding and gold plastic fabric. Matching tables have black mosaic tops, color-flecked.

Dining sets, seating and occasional pieces and accessories appear in classic designs of cast aluminum with hand-wrought iron frames.

Much of the new casual furniture is handsome enough in design to fit the most elegant interior.

Take Out Warp

Hold a heat lamp close to a warped board or cabinet door until it straightens. Immediately apply sealer to edges and sides to prevent entry of moisture.

THIS STANDARD-SIZED six-year crib finished in satin white is pretty enough for the most beautiful baby. Its features include a two-touch toe release, drop sides, three-position steel springs ,and plastic teething rails. And it can be seen at Evers Sleep and Juvenile Shop in Novato.

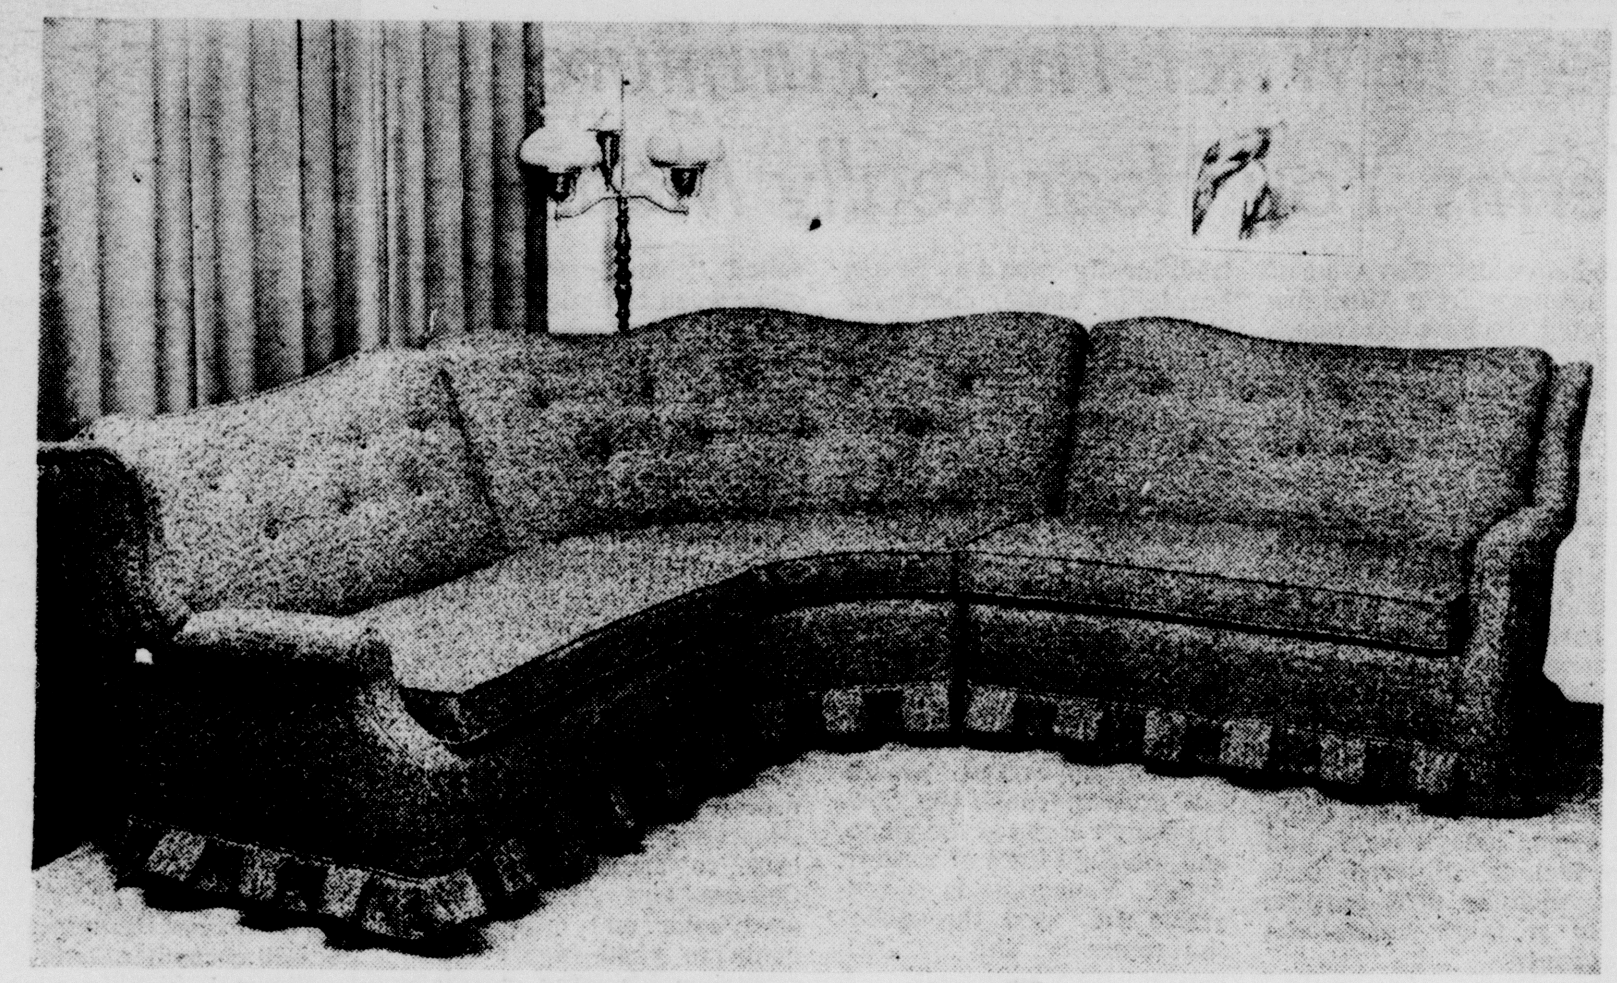
We Are Behind The Bank of America

Be Sure That You Use Head



ANY COLONIAL ROOM setting will welcome this handsome tweed cover three-piece Early American sectional featured in the maple department of Clark's Sample Furniture, San Rafael. It may be used separately, or divided into three equally attractive pieces to achieve room balance. Foam rubber cushions combine comfort with beauty to make this a most inviting furnishing addition.

Furnish your home with your head. You can put your heart into it later.

If your furniture is chosen just because it is "cute" or "in style" or "of the period," you may rue the day you made the purchase.

A big man will not be intrigued by one of the new slim chairs, no matter how popular the designer is. He'll take his comfort first, and name brand second.

Ditto the skinny man who is given only hard furniture to sit on. It may have been fine for the spartan Shakers, but he'll take some cushions, please.

The guest bed-sofa is a fine idea for those unexpected visits from your mother-in-law, but be sure you can get the bed to open before you buy it. Some of these contraptions require real muscles. Others may be poor excuses for the dual purpose. The mattresses are lumpy, bumpy, and full of nail-like buttons.

IS THE COFFEE table a practical idea or is it a dust-catcher? If it'll pay its way in your home, have it. But don't get one just because friend Josie gets a lot of mileage out of hers. A great many coffee tables wind up with collections of ash trays, lighters and matches with the shelf beneath loaded with old magazines and newspapers. If end tables on either side of your sofa will solve the problem, settle for those, and keep the floor area as clear as possible.

Pictures shouldn't be "put up" on the wall. They should be planned. If you do not have the artistic ability to organize them so that they flatter your room, ask someone to help you. A good plan is to make a layout of pictures on the floor before putting them up on the wall. A better plan is to decide your picture requirements before you purchase them.

If you like old furniture, be sure it will stand the traffic in your home. There's no point furnishing your house with objects that will bear watching when you have company. A shaky love seat, a rickety Boston rocker, ancient Venetian tables can be wearing on the nerves of guests as well as the family members who are constantly cautioned to "be careful." Comfort should be the keynote of the happy home, and if you want a showplace living room, it should be "out of bounds," perhaps roped off from family and friends. The alternative is to have two living rooms — one for show, the other for living.

BE JUST AS purposeful in selecting accessories for your home as you are with furniture. Such items as vases, ash trays, throw pillows, and other decorative accessories should be selected because they are useful. Once you decide you need them, select them for their harmonizing effects with your decor.

If you're to be thrifty in furnishing your home, choose furnishings with an eye to long-range possibilities. If you can afford to be home fashion conscious, and change your living room decor often, then you can choose high-fashion colors, high-style wallpapers, sophisticated fabric patterns, new-mode furniture. If you must watch your pennies, select durable, timeless home accessories that may be changed only when you get bored with the same old look.

MORE THAN JUST A WORK area, this cheerful kitchen is a versatile base of operations for the modern homemaker. The decor is charming Early American. The relaxation corner, open hearth with rotisserie, and compact food preparation area make this room a comfortable and pleasant place to cook — and entertain neighbors who stop in for coffee. The handsome wood tones on the main wall above the hearth is Marlite Random Plank, an easy-to-clean paneling.

Here Is What Those Furniture Terms You Hear Really Mean

To help whisk away some of the mystery from furniture shopping, the Fine Hardwoods Assn., representing cabinet wood experts throughout the country, offers this basic glossary of furniture terms as a buying guide.

Period, Style and Fashion: These terms are often mistakenly used interchangeably, to add to confusion. Period is the basic time of design, the historical era with which the furniture can be identified by actual age (antiques) or copied design. Style indicates the timelessness of a design, good anywhere at any time. Fashion means today's trend, and may include utilitarian features, such as dual purpose pieces or fabric colors and treatments.

Veneers and Solid Woods: Most solid wood furniture pieces are Early American, traditionally made from boards of maple, cherry or birch. However, the overwhelming majority of fine furniture is made from veneered hardwood plywood for greater strength, resistance to warping or buckling, and to afford the use of the most beautifully figured hardwoods where they are visible and may be admired. Modern gluing processes make veneered plywood the strongest wood in the world and lowers the cost of owning the fine furniture. Only veneered plywood makes possible the curved provincial drawer fronts, the flowing design of the grand piano, and the fluid lines of modern design. Veneering is a venerable art, used throughout the centuries, and by such masters as Chippendale. A single hardwood, veneered on surfaces and solid in legs, is called "genuine walnut" or other wood as designated.

Grain and Figure: Grain indicates the size and arrangement of the living wood's pores, and most often is characterized by the annual "ring" growth. Birch is fine-grained, walnut medium-grained, oak, coarse-grained. Figure in wood indicates certain characteristic markings other than the customary straight grain and are spoken of as crotches, burls, butts, curls, mottles, feathers, waves, crossfire, etc.

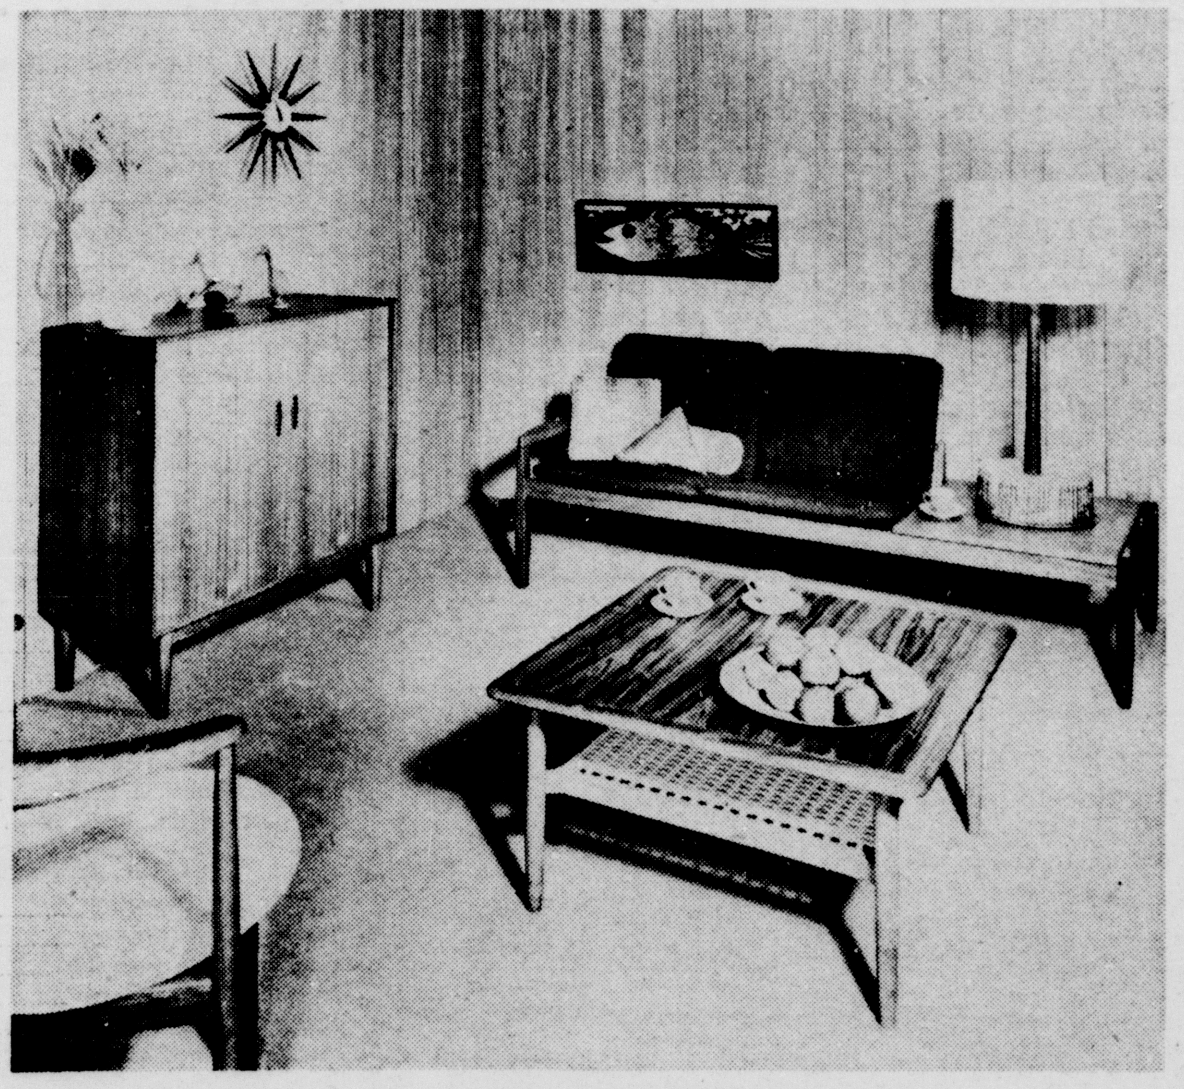
Finish: Furniture finish has two objects, to beautify and to preserve the fine hardwood. Decorating of woods dates back to ancient Egyptians, Chinese and Romans, who used color and opaque lacquers to yield highly ornamental and shining gloss effects. Today's modern finishes begin with bleaching or staining the wood to create the desired color—and this is why you see walnut, birch or mahogany in a variety of wood tones. The stain actually sinks into the wood pores to give depth to the color. A glaze or shellac seals the color permanently. Several coats of lacquer are applied and sanded, then hand-rubbed to the proper bright or soft gloss.

The most popular finish today is the close-to-the-wood finish, a dull-rubbed treatment giving the utmost importance to the wood's natural grain. Other finishes are waxed, limed (pigment rubbed into heavily grained wood, such as oak, to emphasize pattern) and antiqued. The latter "ages" the wood's appearance by affecting small darkened areas or by "highlighting," a process that imitates wear at prominent rounded sections.

The word "finish" is often improperly used. "Fruitwood finish" merely means a color —no tree simply bears fruit. If a true fruitwood, it is probably cherry and should be identified as such. "Walnut finish" may mean a photographic copy of that hardwood's grain on a substitute material, or may be a popular walnut wood tone on another and possibly cheaper wood. The actual wood used should be designated.

Inlay, Parquetry, Marquetry: These are all ancient art forms, using rare woods and figures to achieve unusual decorative effects. Inlay is generally a trim, with a wood such as ebony set into a groove to provide an exotic note. Parquetry is the arrangement of wood pieces in geometric form, such as squares or herringbone strips. Grains or wood tones are alternated to afford contrast. Marquetry is the "illustrative" use of woods in larger art forms, and may utilize the matching process of veneering with similar figures side by side or "mirroring" two successive wood slices, a process called book-matching. Marquetry is seen in cabinet doors, table tops and other large surfaces where im portance can be given to imposing wood figures.

A CLOSE-UP OF A graceful teak table illustrates, in a single fine hardwood furniture piece, many of the terms a shopper will encounter. Teak is an exotic wood, and its tawny loveliness is heightened by the wood matching process, which aligns similar striking wood patterns to create a surface of such beauty that it belittles the need of accessories. Only the art of veneering makes it possible to use teak and other fabulous fine hardwoods in modern cabinetry without prohibitive cost.



FURNITURE SHOPPING terms "come alive" in a handsome room where fine hardwood veneers illustrate their prominent role in the home, appearing in all furniture surfaces and even the elm wall panelling. The modern couch-table is a current fashion trend toward dual-purpose pieces and shows fine styling. The walnut is a close-to-the-wood finish in a lovely brown tone. Solid wood is utilized in table and chair legs, while the versatility of veneer is apparent in the sweeping curve of chair back, impressive table top, and lightweight panels for simple wall installation. The fine hardwoods used in the furniture are teak, an exotic wood, and walnut. Although finished in similar wood tones to harmonize, they offer individuality in their natural grain or unusual pattern.

Oldest Floor Covering In Marin Target Of Search

Who has the oldest linoleum kitchen floor in Marin?

That's a question to which L. C. Smith Building Supplies, Inc., of San Rafael is seeking an answer.

And when this oldest linoleum floor is found, the owner is going to be a very lucky person. The prize: a brand new Armstrong linoleum floor, to be installed free.

There will be a prize, too, for the second oldest linoleum floor in Marin. That owner will also receive a free Armstrong linoleum. But there will be an installation charge.

For the next 12 oldest floors an offer of 10 per cent off on an Armstrong linoleum will be offered.

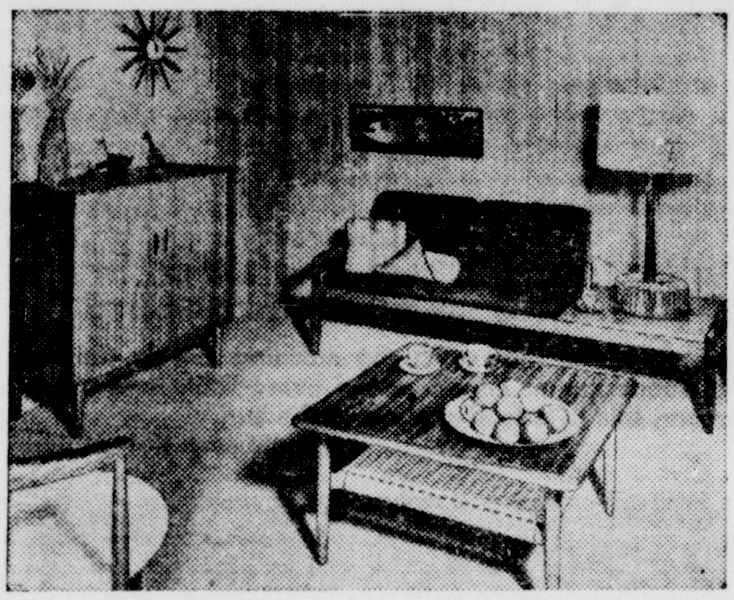
Company officials say that anyone with a floor five years old or older has a good chance of winding up among the contest winners.

An entry coupon may be found in this issue of the Marin Magazine. However, a telephone call to the concern asking that an appraiser look at your old floor is actually sufficent for entry.

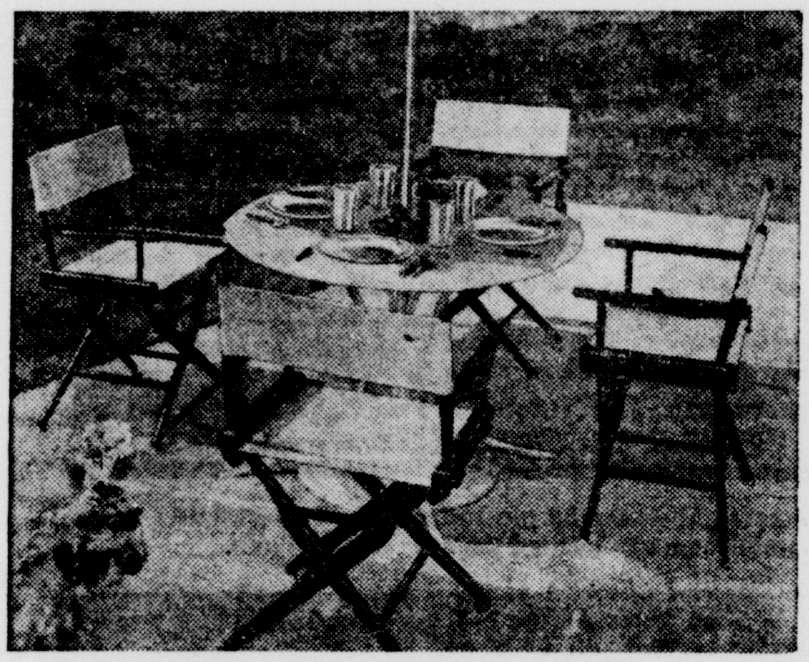
Eldon Mills of the L. C. Smith floor-covering department is in charge of the contest which began today and will continue until 5 p. m. Friday.

Don't delay in getting into the contest.

TONY TELEGIN, co-owner of Van Doyle's Complete Home Furnishing, San Rafael, has created this handsome three-piece French Provincial room grouping. It features a stunning quilted antique-satin fabric with mellow fruitwood finish. The magic of old world charm is skillfully blended with modern comfort.



FINE HARDWOOD veneers appear on all furniture surfaces, even the lovely elm wall paneling, in this room. The fine hardwoods used in the furniture above are teak, an exotic wood, and walnut.



THE FOLDING director's chair with removable seat and back is a prize-winning design piece. When the chair is used inside, the plastic swiveled glides on the feet protect the floor from marring.

Watch Heavy Wear

The wise housewife will keep her upholstery looking new by regularly giving special attention to areas of heaviest wear.

Easy-to-clean nylon fabrics make light-colored chairs as practical as they are fashionable. A dry detergent foam or upholstery cleaning solvent will remove most spots.

Furnishings With Feel Of The Home

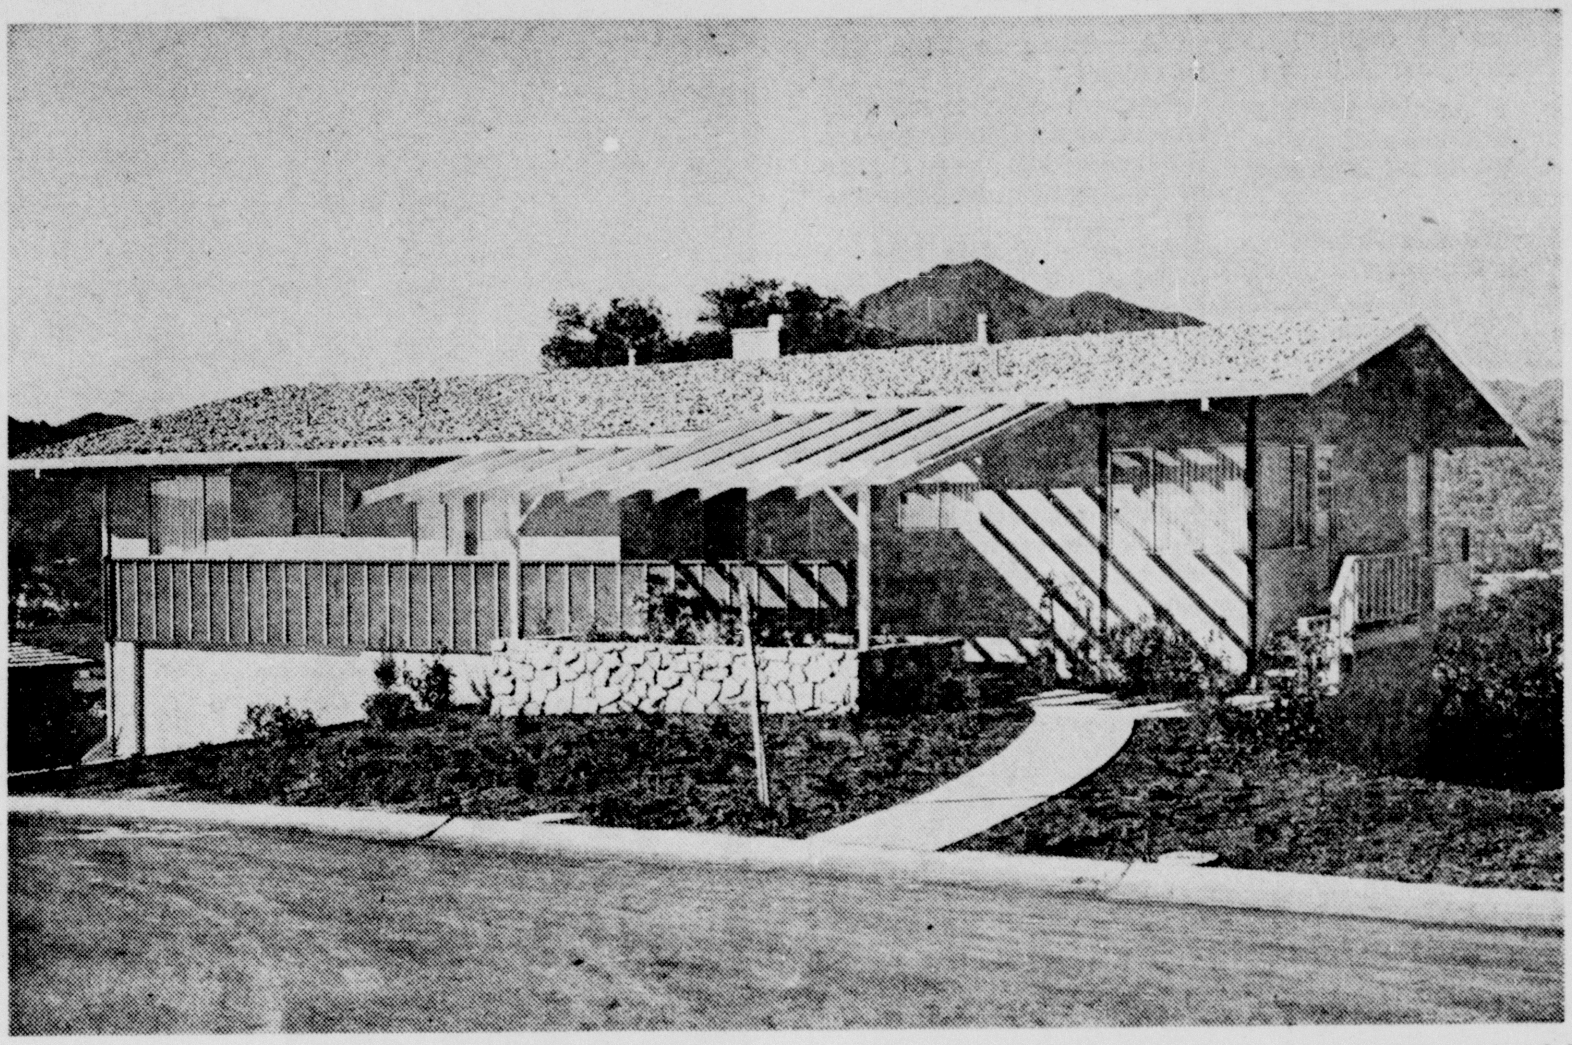
A Marin Place In The Sun

The decor of a home is largely decided on the drawing board of the architect.

If he designs for luxury living, as in this Schultz Building Co. home in Greenbrae, it follows that the furnishings will reflect this pattern. A fireplace wall of Paso Robles stone, rising to the sloping, beamed ceiling, and the wide expanse of sliding-glass doors that bring the beauty of Mt. Tamalpais into the room say this is a home for people who enjoy living.

The heavy walnut built-in bookcase, in contrast to the delicacy of silk laid on rice paper that covers the opposite wall, suggests a pattern of living. Elegance combined with strength and the feeling of security were inscribed on this home at its conception, and are therefore reflected in its furnishings.

Casa Marin of San Rafael has accepted the challenge and the result is all that the designer could have wished.



SET ON A RIDGE in the uplands of Greenbrae, there is no shading for this Greenbrae Co. model home except that provided by the designer and nature. From the kitchen's picture windows that catch the morning sun to the full-width sundeck that embraces the living room and master bedroom, this is indeed a place in the sun.

THE COLOR COMBINATIONS in this living room depend on a selection of fabrics and woods that are equally effective in complete natural light, or in the direct the indirect light when the glassed wall is shuttered and draped. This Greenbrae model home is located at 271 Via La Paz.

THE DINING AREA in the foreground features a walnut dining room group with indirect light in the panel above. The carpet is an avocado-green Karastan wool plush, and shadings of the sand colors in the Paso Robles stone fireplace are carried out in the traditional tufted chairs. The bookcase at the right of the fireplace is walnut.

SET AGAINST A WALL of Shiki silk laid on Japanese rice paper, this grouping is dominated by a Trapunto quilt silk sofa, avocado green in color and contemporary in design. The plaques are Roman coil replicas and the tables are walnut on antique white bases with brass trim. The lamp has an oriental candlestick base with black shade. The carpet is Karstan wool plush in avocado green. Furnishing of the model home was by Casa Marin of San Rafael.

A COMPACT WORK AREA, with complete General Electric kitchen in bright yellow set in natural birch cabinets leads into this spacious family area. A teak and black Cal-style dinette is the focal point with Blue Documentary faille custom-made drapes framing the picture windows.

Toddler Likes Own Furniture

Imagine that you live in a world of giants. They are friendly loving giants and you couldn't do without them, but they sit on chairs as high as your shoulder and eat from tables above your head.

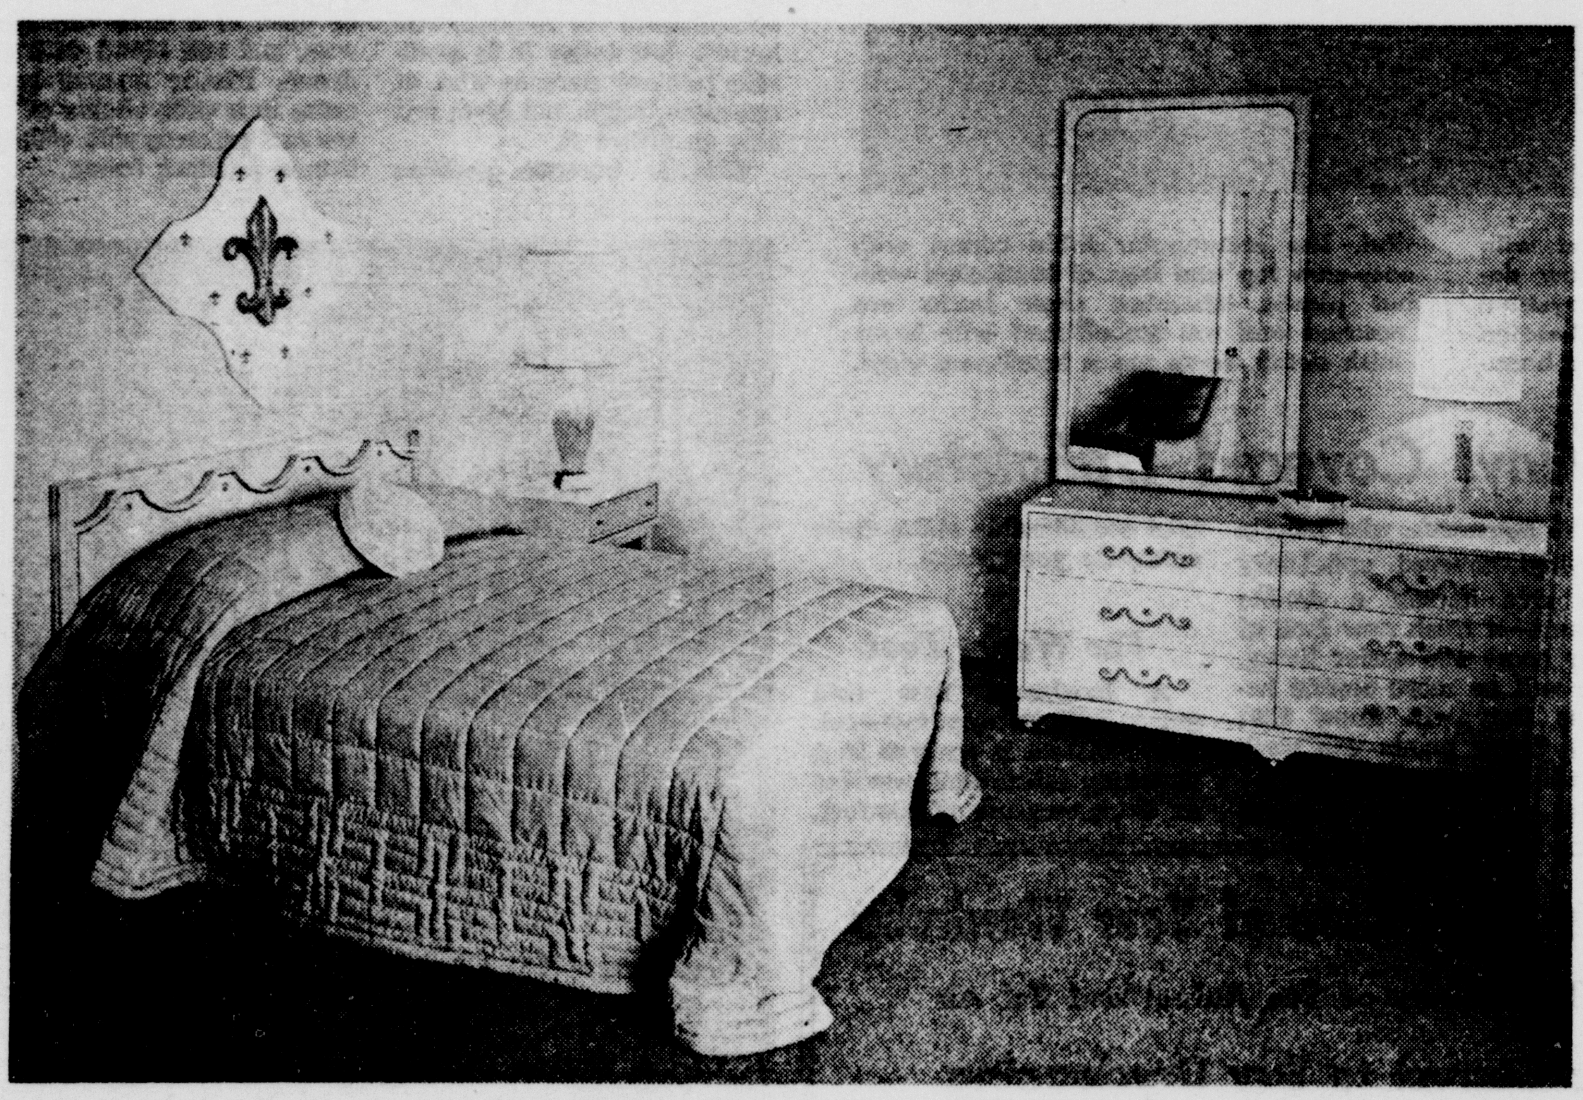
It's such a world in which the toddler finds himself. Furniture scaled to his own small size will make him feel more secure and comfortable.

From the age of 2 years on a child will enjoy his own small arm chair in the living room. He will spend countless hours (perhaps only a few minutes at a time) working at his own table and chair in the kitchen. The small table will also be a blessing to the mother who must serve meals to young children before the rest of the family eats.

Ease of cleaning, strength and stability are points to watch for when buying furniture for a small child.

Bottle Cap Glides

Pop bottle caps make handy glides when heavy furniture or crates must be moved across basement or garage floors. Attach them, sharp edge up, under the corners. Smooth tops permit easy sliding.



THIS BEDROOM GROUP is set on a Karstan twist carpet in mink tones. The bed and dual chest are antique white with gold trim and the fleur-de-lis plaque carries out this theme. The bedspread is a Trapunto quilt in aqua silk-type weave. The dresser lamp has a white filigree candlestick base and the lamp shade on the night table has an aqua ceramic base.

UNUSUAL GRAINING

Sapsuckers Give Pecan Natural Beauty Marks

Wood has natural beauty marks that make the face of a fine piece of furniture more interesting.

Take pecan, for instance. Pecan tastes good to sapsuckers. They peck at it the way a woman with a sweet tooth goes after a pound of chocolates. Tiny holes made by their beaks fill gradually with a darker growth and the grain forms around it.

This year pecan, marked with the unusual graining that follows a sapsucker's nibbling, appears in one of the new French Provincial groups.

Screen Cleaning

Pieces of carpet, nailed to blocks of wood, are handy for dusting off wire screens. They may also be used to apply paint or varnish when the screens are clean.

CONTEMPORARY MATERIALS blend with 18th century elegance in these new designer pieces turned out by Daystrom Furniture. This modern-day Sheraton furniture is easy to keep clean and beautiful. The rectangular table comes with easy-care top and legs of laminated walnut plastic. Sheraton chair backs are matched and are embellished with brass finish detail. Seats are a handsome vinyl.

Mahogany Tones Give Room Warmth

The home decorator seeks to create both warmth and spaciousness in her rooms.

Cool and light colors help her push back the walls. New brown tones in genuine mahogany furniture groups will bring warmth to her color scheme. They will prevent the room from becoming "sterile."

These shades, developed in recent months, cover the whole range of browns. A new contemporary mahogany bedroom group relies for its beauty on simple unornamented lines and a warm medium brown finish.

Stylists report that favored color schemes today use adjoining colors on the wheel, such as blue and green, or different values of the same color, such as various shades of blue.

The home decorator who favors blues and greens will find the warm brown mahogany tones a boon. Cool colors tend to change from "cool" to "cold" unless a balancing warm color is introduced.

Aside from its new color message, mahogany furniture brings a home great strength and durability. The wood has always stood for richness and luxury, but today it is available to many persons who, at one time, might not have felt able to afford it.

This is because genuine mahogany is plentiful. It comes from great forests in Africa and Central America. The trees grow to immense dimensions so there is much less waste in processing genuine mahogany lumber than there is in woods of smaller growth.

Danish Line Now Adapted To Metal

The graceful lines of modern Danish furniture have been easily adapted to the new lightweight metal chairs and tables say leading metal furniture manufacturers.

These completely functional chairs are good examples of the growing trend in metal furniture. Practically indestructible metal combines successfully with easy-care plastic. The result is a comfortable, tapered-leg chair that adds a decorator look anywhere.

Your imagination will know no bounds. These chairs can be used in a wide variety of ways and will blend with any decor. Plastic no-mar backs come in a wide choice of colors and patterns with either a bronze or black frame.

Tips on Purchase and Home Care of Your Wardrobe

By BERT BROWN, Marin Cleaners of San Rafael and Bel Air

"Was My Mother Correct to Say Drycleaning Wears Out Clothes?"

Dear Mrs. A. R.

There are many "Old Wives' Tales" in all businesses and professions. This is one that plagues drycleaners and launderers. Not long ago the National Institute of Drycleaning conducted a 2-year wear study which proved that it is not the cleaning, but the abrasion a garment receives that wears it out.

If you would like to conduct a test yourself, ask your friends where their garments wear out first. You will find that the garments of different people wear out in different places. The man who stands all day will wear out the back of his trouser cuffs first. The man who toys with the keys or change in his pocket will wear out the pocket and the facing of the pocket that leads to the change or keys. The salesman who works behind a counter will wear out the area just below his belt as he leans against the counter.

The National Institute of Drycleaning reported that a scientist who wore a large stop watch on his left wrist wore out his left trouser pocket first. A newspaperman wore out the inside of the knees of his trousers where they rubbed against his typewriter table. A night watchman wore out the collar on his uniform first because the bristly hairs on his neck rubbed against his coat collar whenever he turned his head, which was very often in his inspection work.

These incidents, in addition to scientific tests, show that it is abrasion, not cleaning, that wears clothes thin. In the drycleaning process all clothes receive the same amount of flexing. If they wear out where they have been pressed it is only because that is where they have been subjected to abrasion in wear. Frequent cleaning removes the tiny, sharp particles of soil which chaff a fabric. Actually cleaning will help preserve the life of your garments.

THIS IS THE INTERIOR of the newly-expanded Marin Color Service in San Rafael. The recent expansion doubled the size of the paint display room, and of the drive-in parking space. Behind the counter in the foreground is Ernie Beckstrom who opened the store 12 years ago and has since expanded his business three times. Another new feature, not shown in photo, is a larger wallpaper viewing room. Marin Color Service features L&H interior and exterior architectural and industrial paints.

Wrought Iron Comes In Many Colors Now

During the last few years manufacturers have brought out their paint pots especially the pastel ones and the result: wrought iron now comes in pinks, blues, pale greens, and even coral tones.

The days when wrought iron furniture, like the old "model T," could be purchased in only one color—black—are long gone. The new color trend is one of the big reasons for the steadily growing popularity of wrought iron furniture in recent years.

Always light and airy, wrought iron furnishings are lighter and airier than ever now that they have become available in many colors.

What can you buy in wrought iron now? There are dinette sets, three piece sectional sofas, easy chairs, chaise lounges, gliders, conversational benches, settees, coffee tables, tea and bar carts, and headboards for Hollywood beds.

BEIGE IS TOPS

Everyone Has His Pet Furnishing Hue

The work of artists at different times in their lives is sometimes designated by colors. Picasso, for instance, had a "blue period" early in his life when that color was dominant in his work. Later he went on to other experiments.

The rest of us, who may not know ultramarine from chrome yellow, usually have strong color preferences that change gradually during our lives. Our preferences are reflected in the color schemes in our rooms.

During a ten year period there will be gradual — not abrupt changes in home furnishing colors favored by the consumers. Furniture stylists must keep abreast of these. The color used on an upholstered chair or sofa is not a matter of whim. It is closely related to what the public has shown that it wants.

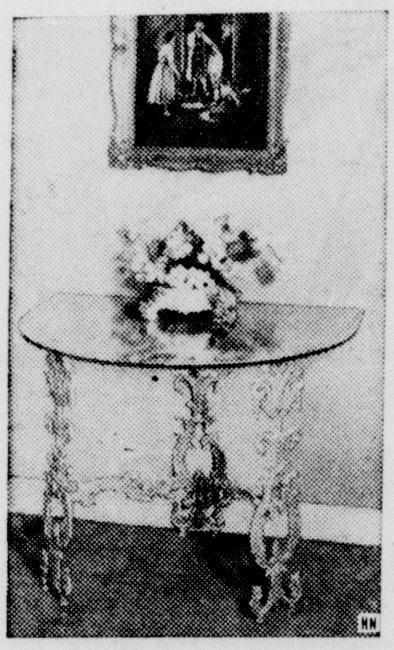
One large manufacturer of upholstered furniture reports that beige is the choice of one out of five customers. It is closely followed by white.

One out of 10 customers will ask for turquoise or aqua. Almost as popular are gold or yellow and brown or cocoa.

Just seven years ago the same company could count on the brown-cocoa range to rack up 21 per cent of its sales. Beige and gold or yellow were next in favor.

During this period the greens have gradually declined in favor and blues have gradually advanced. Purple and burgundy, used mostly for accent pieces, have never reached the 1 per cent mark.

Preferences for different shades on the color wheel may change gradually — but they do change. One stylist reports that a new trend usually becomes popular in Detroit, apparently because there are large numbers of home-conscious young families in that city.



IN THE HALLWAY this cast table is a console. In the dining room it can be an aluminum and brass rococo extension of a matching oblong dining table. A really versatile piece of furniture.

Today's Colonial More Comfortable

Colonial furniture has almost as many nationality strains as the people who use it.

Just as we all speak English, no matter what our background, so the dominant influence on our colonial furniture is English. Popular in 48 states, today's Early American furniture may have characteristics "inherited" from several of the 13 original colonies.

The warm homey spirit remains, but our designs are more comfortable to live with than those of our forebears. Zippered upholstery, foam rubber cushions and even stain- and scratch-resistant surfaces are familiar in Early American groups.

GARDENERS CHECKLIST

This week's checklist for the Marin gardener:

✔Give Bermuda Grass lawns a stiff raking with a steel rake to get up runners. Then cut close and feed as soon as it starts to "green up" —adding some seed is a good idea too. If you want to do away with Bermuda Grass, there's a selective weed killer to do the job.

✔Prune wisteria heavily after spring bloom if vines are getting out of hand.

✔Remember fuchsias bloom on new wood, so prune heavily when danger of frost is over if you want to insure a high proportion of new growth on the shrub.

✔Sprout begonia tubers in flats of peat and sand indoors. Set them out after all danger of March frost is past.

✔Prune Acacias after bloom to keep them from growing to unwieldly size. Don't be shy with the shears.

YOU CAN DRAMATIZE a sloping landscape with a planter stairway constructed of cast-in-place concrete. Every other step in this stairway has been designed to provide space for a decorative planting area. Colorful pebbles plus a piece of driftwood or just plain water to reflect the sky can be used in the planter instead of flowers. When planning steps, remember that the closer they come to normal walking stride, the easier they will be to climb. Plants put in such a shallow planter should be the kind that can sustain themselves with a shallow or fibrous root system. The concrete retaining wall at the top of the stairs is constructed of one-foot-square concrete masonry corner units laid up in an open lattice-work pattern.

MARIN ET CETERA

By Harry Craft

Some Days Just Plain Thinking Can Be A Difficult Undertaking

IT WAS A mild, sunny day for this time of the year and I took my typewriter out in the patio, where I could think better, and put in two sheets of paper. I sat and looked at the paper and thought but nothing happened, so I got up and built a small fire in the barbecue pit.

A vagrant breeze came by and rustled the paper in the typewriter, reminding me what I was there for. I went over and looked to see what I had written so far but the paper was still blank.

The fire needed more wood so I left the typewriter and went out and gathered some dry branches. Well, almost dry. They were damp around the edges from the last rain and did a lot of smoking. This reminded me I'd like a cigarette. Then the breeze came back and rustled the paper again.

"Okay, okay!" I told it crossly. "Can't you see I'm trying to think?"

"What did you say?" asked my wife through the kitchen window.

"Nothing," I said. "I was thinking out loud."

"While you're thinking, I wish you'd fix the clothesline," she said. "There's too much slack."

IN THE MIDDLE of the fixing, the clothesline parted and my socks and shirts fell on the ground. I yelled for my wife to come out and help. She held the line and I tied a new knot. Then she had to rinse out the clothes again.

The breeze was rustling the the paper in the typewriter insistently when I went back to the patio, but the fire was going out in the barbecue pit so I had to gather more wood.

This wood was really damp and smoked up the whole patio. When I stopped coughing I lit another cigarette.

"What's the fire for?" my wife asked from the window.

"It smells good and helps me think," I told her.

While I was smoking, smelling and thinking she called out that somebody wanted me on the telephone.

I CONVINCED somebody that I was not the Craft who lived in Morningside Court and maybe the name was spelled K-ra-f-t like the cheese. He said he was sorry to have bothered me.

Back in the patio I looked at the paper in the typewriter which was rustling and the barbecue pit which was still smoking and two birds who wanted to come down and eat some cracker crumbs on the table but were afraid of the typewriter.

I moved the typewriter to the other end of the table and the birds moved in on the crumbs. Naturally I would have frightened them away if I did any typing so I looked for more firewood. I found three or four good pieces but the fire was now almost out so I had to get some newspaper and start it up again.

The birds had decided by then they didn't want cracker crumbs or maybe it was too smoky so I sat down to type. I pecked out "Now is the time for all good men, etc." for practice and noted that the e's and o's were clogged.

AFTER CLEANING the e's and o's with an old toothbrush the fire was going pretty well, so I took time for a cigarette and stretched out on the patio lounge to think.

I must have thought for a full hour or more. When I got up the breeze was rustling the typewriter pages again so I checked to see where I had left off writing. Underneath the clogged e's and o's was a message from my wife.

"I put more wood on the fire, so by the time you're finished thinking there ought to be enough coals for a barbecue. Let me know when you are ready.

"P.S.: I wish you wouldn't snore so loud when you think. It scares the birds."

SERVING AS THE ethnological consultant for the new children's book, "Between Sea and Mountains," was former Sausalito resident, Henry Collins. Collins spent his boyhood among the Pomo Indians in northern California.

History Of Tank, Today's Forgotten Weapon, Traced

TANK BY ARCH WHITEHOUSE, Doubleday and Co., 383 pages, 32 illustrations, $4.95. Reviewed by Carleton Williams.

Among the myriad inventions man has developed for the sole purpose of killing off his fellow man, the tank is apt to be forgotten in this day of the atomic warhead and the supersonic missile.

Whitehouse, a dogface soldier and an aerial gunner in 1914 and a correspondent in World War II, knows the weapon well. With a surprisingly readable style for a book of this type, he traces the history of the tanks and the men who drove them from the first sputtering, armed tractor which plowed through the mud of Flanders Field in 1916 to the breakthrough of the U.S. 4th Armored Division against the Nazi Panzers in 1945.

In between are the names of the men who most influenced the development of the machine, among them Winston Churchill; Gen. Heinz Guderian, organizer of the Panzer Corps.; Gen. Erwin Rommel, the tank genius known as "the desert fox"; Gen. George Patton of the pearl-handled pistols; and one probably least known but most important, Ernest D. Swinton, the man who started the whole thing.

For those who dote on such memorabilia, this book is a goody.

MARIN POETS' CORNER

THE OLD MAN

The old man said,
Lie under an apple tree.
I didn't want to lie there
Getting an apple in my eye.
He said I'd hear the apples
Thinking good. I'd bite
Into sharp sauce and soft.
He said an apple's an autumn day,
A keeping fruit.
I yelled, apples are for eating—
Trees for climbing. I did both.
He did the lying under.

CALIFORNIA

The lovely land lies
Like a naked woman in the sun
And let's her curve'd contours run
As glibly into grace
As flesh and bone reposing —
The lovely land looms,
Lambent, through the tumbling mist,
And gathers from her clouds the gist
Of energy that makes
The lovely lucent land.

Marin Expert Helped With Indian Book

BETWEEN SEA AND MOUNTAINS by Madge Haines and Leslie Morrill, the Century Schoolboy Press, 160 pages. Reviewed by Florence Donnelly.

Henry Collins, who was taken from Sausalito where he was born, to live among the Pomos in northern California, was the ethnological consultant for this recently published children's book, "Between Sea and Mountains," by Madge Haines and Leslie Morrill, and is given credit in the Teachers Edition.

The book, beautifully illustrated in color, should capture the attention and fire the imagination of any youngster. The Indian words, which give a literary flavor, are used judiciously, the context making their meaning easily understood.

Collins, who until a few years ago lived in Sausalito, is a member of Marin County Historical Society and the Sacramento County Historical Society. He is now a state employee and he and his wife reside in Sacramento.

Collins, in his boyhood lived in Sherwood Country, north of Ukiah, and his mother taught the Pomo Indians. A Pomo woman cared for the Collins' children and Collins says of her, "She was very gentle and quiet." All through the years he has been in contact with the Indians. In Monterey he tried to help the last of the Onesimo family. He lived in Shasta County for a number of years and succeeded in getting two of the tribe to pose for paintings. He also wrote down many of their legends, stores which have been handed down from father to son. He has written several articles, about Chief Truckee, the famous Indian guide, who helped many of the pioneers cross Truckee Pass now known as Donner Pass.

THE GOLDEN YEARS by F. W. Kenyon, Thomas Y. Crowell and Co., $3.95, 312 pages.

This is an easy-reading novel based on the romantic life of the poet Shelley, who died at an early age in a boat wrecked by a storm in Italy, led a life of rebellion and impulse sure to make an interesting story in straight biographical form. But here the author has made a novel of it, and the story has an increased glamor and pace worthy of a best-seller.

The women in Shelley's life play a supreme role throughout the work, indeed their claims on the poet make a lively story themselves. The author has concentrated on the poet's personal life and written a tale that may make more than one reader give closer scrutiny to the poetry of Master Shelley.

The author has brought to life in the pages of his former books such famous women as Queen Elizabeth I, Mary, Queen of Scots, Empress Josephine and Marie Antoinette, and he skillfully tells the tale of the romantic poet.

Activists Slate Poetry Reading March 13

You don't have to be an intellectual or a bohemian to write or enjoy poetry.

That's the point that the Activist school of poets has been attempting to put across to the public for a long time.

And the Activists, led by Marin's Lawrence Hart, will be out to spread their gospel at a poetry-reading scheduled for Charles Orgibet's Marin Academy of Music at 558 San Anselmo avenue, San Anselmo, on Sunday, March 13.

The poetry-fest will be in conjunction with the opening of an exhibit there of semi-abstract oil paintings by Waltrina DuBois, formerly of Mill Valley and now of San Francisco. The art show will open at 1 p.m., the poetry reading will begin at 3.

Activist poets scheduled to read their own work include Hart, Jean McGahey, Rosalie Moore, Lois Moyles, Fred Ostrander, Emily Pausch, Leonard Horwitz, Marie Graybeal, Waltrina Furlong, and others.

John Hart, 11, will also read some of his poems.

The event, according to the senior Hart, is part of the Activist crusade to spread the appreciation of poetry among many people.

"We think it is unfortunate that poetry is now regarded as something for the few," Hart says. "There is entirely too much intellectual snobbishness connected with poetry."

He terms the schism that has developed between poetry and our everyday lives "a false thing. . . . Poetry should be related very closely to our activities and aspirations."

The DuBois paintings will continue to be on display at the academy for about a month.

Mill Valley Pair To Play In New York

Three concerts in New York City lie ahead for Mill Valley's noted duo pianists and music instructors, Peggy and Milton Salkind.

The Salkinds leave tomorrow for the big city and their engagements.

Their initial appearance there next Wednesday will be at the Kaufman Concert Hall in one of a series of weekly chamber music recitals. Numbers they will play then include "Sonata in E Flat Major" by Clementi; "The Modern Temper" by Seymour Shifrin; "Sonata in F Major" by Mozart! "Five Waltzes, Op 39," by Brahms; "Allegro (Lebensturme), Op 144" by Schubert; and "Dance Suite" by Robert Kurka.

"The Modern Temper" was commissioned by Shifrin by the Salkinds.

On March 20, again at the Kaufman Concert Hall and this time in a "Music In Our Time" series, the Salkinds will play "The Modern Temper" again, along with another number commissioned from its composed, "Fantasy" by Jack Halloway.

For their final engagement on March 27 with the New York chamber orchestra at Town Hall, the Salkinds will play "Concertino for Two Pianos and Orchestra" by Kurka.

STEREO HI-FI

By C. J. Catania
Audio Engineer

"Know Your Audio Specialist" That is the title of a full page article in the current issue of Life magazine. If you are planning a stereo music system for the home, it will be wise to read this article before you make a purchase. Following are a few quotes from the article: "Components are made by different manufacturers, each a craftsman dedicated to the pursuit of perfection in sound. He may concentrate all his energies and talents into the development of a single kind of component — an amplifier, say, or a loudspeaker. Your Audio Specialist Dealer offers a selection of components and combinations of components which in his professional judgment reproduce sound most realistically."

"Your audio specialist will let you listen to and compare various combinations. He will help you select a system that is exactly right for your needs. He will show you how to connect your components and will make suggestions for their installation. Or, if you prefer, he will handle the complete installation for you. You can participate as much or as little as you choose."

". . . the musically great from Count Basie to Igor Stravinsky . . . enjoy their music accurately reproduced with component systems."

Drop in for a demonstration. Listen to our radio program "Anything Goes" on Saturday afternoons over FM station KPEN, 101.3, from 3 to 4:30.
